Penn-Jersey Dairy Expo Features New Ideas, Concerns

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.)—"We are talking about a serious offense if you are involved in a residue problem with the Federal Drug Administration," said John Adams, National Milk Producers Federation.

Speaking at the Penn-Jersey Dairy Exposition here Wednesday, Adams said the FDA now has a new program that involves monitoring drug residues at the plant. And if they find contamination, they will come back to the individual farm samples and ask the producer to see the treatment records.

"And you better have them, or you are in big trouble," Adams said. "A violation is a federal offense, and it is a serious offense."

Adams said dairymen must protect themselves from potential liability by using the newly available tests for individual cows and tests that are specific for the drug that has been used in treatment. He said dairymen have a great opportunity to use these new tests to eliminate contaminants in the bulk tank and in the milk plant silos.

"As individual producers, we want to do our part for everyone," Adams said. "Nothing is more discouraging to the producer of good milk than to have a neighbor contaminate a large supply of milk at the plant. Everyone carries the burden of that neighbor's mistake."

Adams said that to date, the consumer's confidence in the milk supply has not been shaken. But he said we need to be aware of the potential destruction that could occur in the dairy marketing system if we don't conquer the residue problem.

Foundation Offers Scholarships

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)—One of the objectives of the Lancaster County Farm and Home Foundation is to encourage the higher education of the youth of Lancaster County.

In this respect, the foundation is announcing the offering of scholarship awards in 1991 in the fields of agriculture and home economics. Depending upon the financial need and ability of applicants, a maximum of 14 scholarships may be awarded.

Each scholarship award will be in the amount of $1,000 and may be used to help defray tuition, fees, or room and board expenses at any accredited educational institution, that offers a course of study in agriculture or home economics.

The Farm and Home Foundation Scholarships are made available through the earnings of an irrevocable trust fund set up by the late Elmer L. Esbenschade, one of the founders of the Lancaster County Farm and Home Foundation. The income from this trust fund will be offered annually in the form of educational scholarships through the Farm and Home Foundation.

Scholarship applications are available from senior guidance counselors and vocational agriculture and home economics teachers in all school districts in Lancaster County.

Interested youth are urged to contact either their senior guidance counselor or vocational agriculture or home economics teacher for details and an application form. Additional information is also available from Jay W. Irwin, chairman of the Scholarship Committee, Lancaster Farm and Home Center, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster, PA 17601, (717) 394-6851. Application forms must be forwarded by April 16, 1991.

National Beef CEO Addresses State Meeting

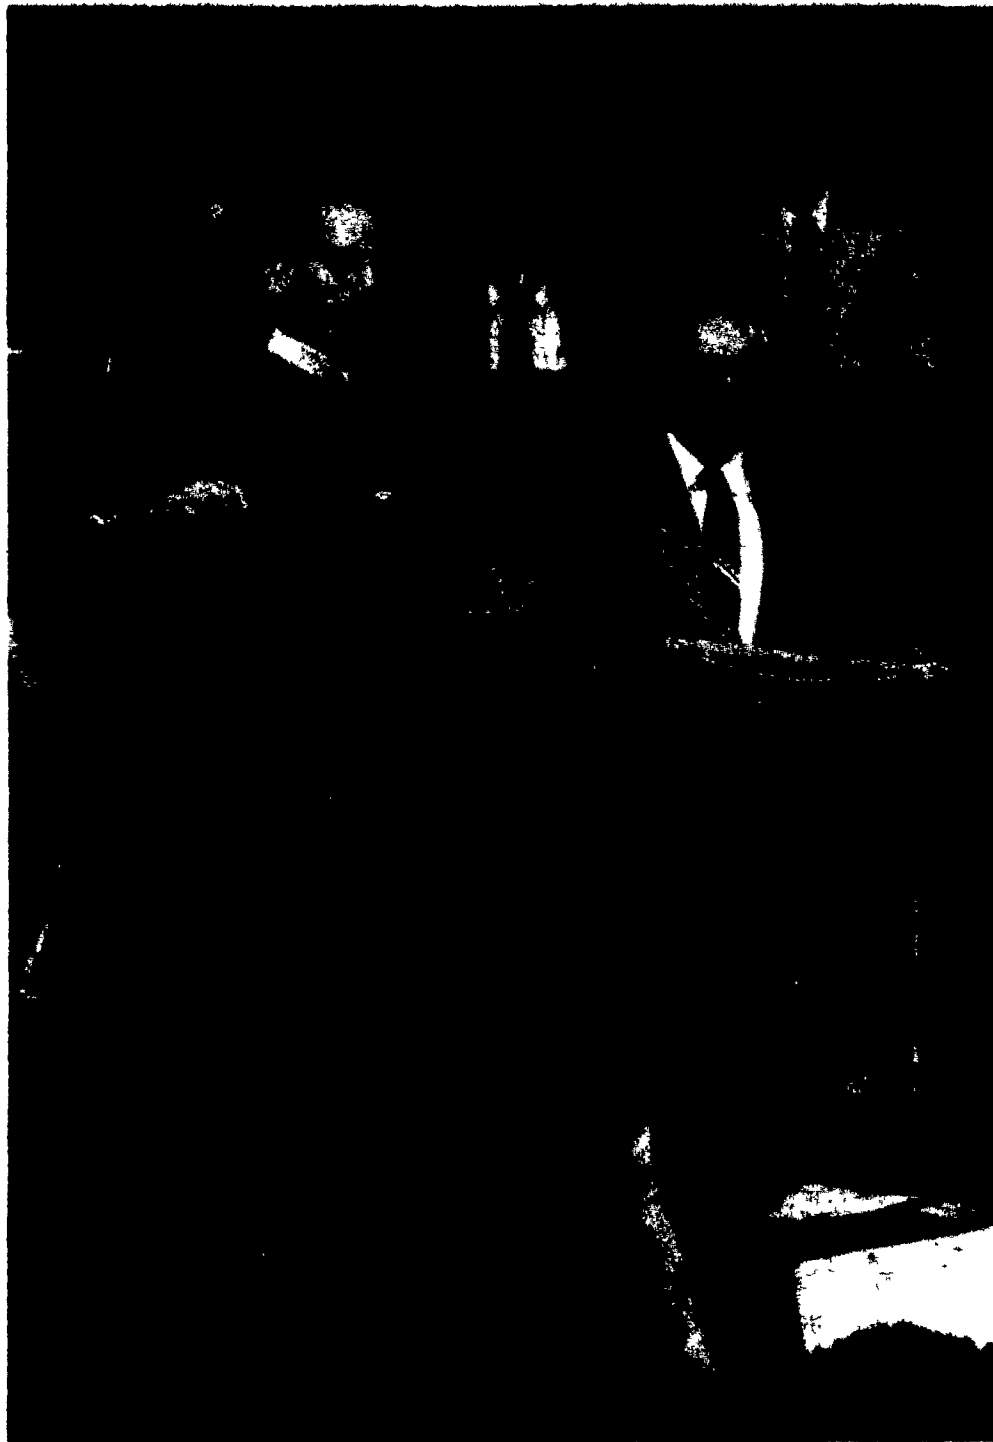

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—"A year of successes, a future of challenges," was the tone of Cattlemen's Beef Board Chief Executive Officer Monte Reese's comments to nearly 150 agricultural leaders gathered for the Pennsylvania Beef Council's second annual dinner meeting.

Reese shared some of the beef checkoff program's successes, but cautioned that much work remains to be done. "This past year the beef industry's Manhattan, MT television commercial was selected the best food advertisement on television, and an independent research study revealed that producers are receiving a $5 return for every $1 invested in the checkoff program.

"Many challenges remain. The proliferation of anti-meat rhetoric within our public school systems and the still untapped potential within foreign markets are just two challenges we must squarely address."

In addition to offering his observations on the effectiveness of the checkoff programs, Reese praised the Beef Board's leadership and members for their efforts in developing and implementing the beef industry's long range plan. "The most successful organizations anticipate challenges and plan

Farm Show Record Set, Youth Donates Money

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A new Farm Show record was broken and state FFA and 4-H support organizations received a healthy contribution with the sale of junior livestock market animals during the 75th Farm Show.

The annual sale culminates the year-long efforts of the state's 4-H and FFA youth to breed and raise market animals for showing at the Farm Show. The proceeds are normally used to further education or put into savings for other self-improvement goals.

A Lebanon County young man also set a new standard when he donated more than a third of a record-setting price he received from the sale of his champion market swine.

Daryl Bomgardner, 17, of North Annville, donated a total of $3,000 to the FFA Foundation and the Friends of 4-H after receiving a record sale price of $8,000 for his grand champion 244-pound Duroc/Hampshire crossbred sow.

The previous record price was $7,000, set last year.

According to Lebanon County agricultural extension agent Kenneth Winebark, prior to the sale Bomgardner told Winebark that he would be satisfied to receive $5,000 and whatever price was offered above that would be donated in equal portions to the agricultural youth support organizations.

But the generous act was rewarded with mutual generosity. The audience and participants broke into loud applause with the purchase of the hog by Carlos R. Leffler, owner of Carlos R. Leffler Inc., Richland. Leffler has been a consistent supporter of area 4-H programs.

Addressing the crowd after the purchase, Leffler said that he had been a member of 4-H as a youth and that instead of sending the home-bred animal to slaughter, he wanted to donate it back to Bomgardner for use in the young man's breeding program.

Winebark noted that the generosity of Bomgardner is even more meaningful because the young man does not come from a wealthy family.

"They are the kind of family that values things other than money," Winebark said.

Winebark also said Leffler's generosity was indicative of the fuel and heating oil company owner's community support.

"Through their continued and generous support, whether it has been money or time, Carlos Leffler

Northeast Chicken Parts

Wednesday, January 16, 1991

NORTHEAST BROILER/FRYER PARTS: PART 1 OF 2: FEDERAL-STATE: Trucklot buying interest was light. Supplies and offerings of boneless skinless were adequate to fully adequate and in heaviest balance on production in Southern shipping channels. Whole breasts with ribs were barely adequate; however, line run breasts were fully adequate for a spotty demand. Leg items were more available and at least adequate on most cuts. Wings had built in availability and excess supplies were slow to clear or traded at lower levels.

N.Y. & Phila. Frozen Eggs

Jan. 15, 1991

Prices trended lower. Trading activity picked up but was relatively light as buyers continued to limit purchases to immediate needs. Abundant raw materials were causing some problems and in several instances breakers were looking to sell shell product rather than process it. Floor stocks were in good balance to satisfy current trade needs.

National Egg Market

Wednesday, January 16, 1991

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE: Prices were unchanged to lower in the North Atlantic Region and on medium brown eggs in New England, balance unchanged. The market tone was steady at best. Overall demand continued mostly moderate. Floor stocks were adequate with additional offerings generally readily available. Breakers received at least adequate offerings of shell eggs, and most restricted receipts, and some plants ran shortened schedules. Live supplies of spent hens were sufficient under a steady at best market tone.

Demanding Farmers Will Be Planting Proven Funk's G Brand Hybrids, Too

As a demanding farmer, you know a winning hybrid when you see it. That's why you demanded new Funk G Brand hybrids like 4472, 4530 and 4624. In fact, your demand was so high, we've sold out of these new hybrids.

But don't forget some of our proven performers like 4393, 4543 and 4626. They've been pleasing demanding farmers for years now. Why?

Because they, too, are backed by demanding CIBA-GEIGY research. That's why they're good enough to carry the CIBA-GEIGY reputation for quality.

And like our newer hybrids, they deliver a performance package of more than just big yields. You'll get standability, disease resistance, plant health, dry-down and much more.

That's why demanding farmers will be planting these proven Funk G Brand hybrids. Shouldn't you be one of them?

Call us today. Our proven performance will meet your demands.

105-day hybrid. Big yields and fast dry-down make it an excellent choice for grain in 100- to 115-day maturity areas. Its strong stalks and roots stand up to heat and drought stress

4543

114-day hybrid. One of the most consistent Funk hybrids ever produced. Offers wide adaptation, while harvesting easily for shelled grain or ear corn. Good standability.

4626

118-day hybrid. Used by more than 12,000 Pennsylvania farmers. Delivers superior standability, fast dry-down and high test weight. Good disease resistance. Produced the #2 yield nationally in the 1989 National Corn Grower's Association yield contest.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

JAN. 21-27, 1991

St. Agnes's Day, Jan. 21.

Jan. 22, 1901, Queen Victoria of England dies Jan. 24, 1848, James W. Marshall discovers gold on John Sutter's land in California Jan. 24, 1922, Christian K. Nelson of Iowa patents his "Eskimo Pie" ice cream bar Jan. 27, 1880, Thomas Alva Edison receives a patent for the electric incandescent light

The greatest invention of the 19th century was the invention of the method of invention - A. N. Whitehead
Ask the Old Farmer: My newly purchased New England home has soapstone sinks in the kitchen. Can you tell me how to care for soapstone? P. G., N.H.

To clean soapstone sinks, use a mild detergent and water. Use a mild abrasive only when necessary. Rinse thoroughly.

Home Hints Wear cotton gloves under rubber gloves and your hands won't sweat or stick to the rubber.

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: A snowstorm begins the week, then changing to clear and cold. (This month's average of 25° F is 4° below normal.) Intermittent snow for the weekend.
Greater New York-New Jersey: Seasonable and sunny to start the week, then very cold with light snow. A snowstorm hits at the end of the week, but it's seasonable.
Middle Atlantic Coastal: A cold wave begins this week. First there's snow, then sunny skies. A rainstorm rolls in Friday, but changes to snow and colder.
Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: This is the week for precipitation. Intermittent rain, heavy in the east, snow in the west, colder. Heavy rain and snow end the week.

A Vision To Fulfill

In an extensive and well written presentation to the Lancaster Farmland Trust annual dinner meeting, Darvin E. Boyd makes a powerful case to preserve farmland. Under the title "A Vision to Fulfill," Boyd looks at history, the benefits of preserving farmland and what needs to be done by the year 2000. In his epilogue Boyd writes:

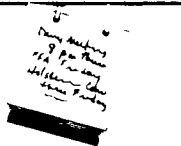

Lancaster County is a Living National Treasure. We owe it such dignity. It is one of the most picturesque and fertile growing areas in the world. Its total living and working environment have created a quality of life that is greatly valued by those of us who experience it and is cherished by the millions of outsiders who have witnessed it. Let us learn from the wisdom of our forefathers in having a vision for the future. It is our responsibility to be its good stewards and maintain its rich natural resources to enhance the quality of life for future generations.

"Let it be our legacy to help this Living National Treasure flourish into the 21st century as a contributor to the ongoing quality of life, rather than as a monument of past historic achievements. For those of us who love this county, come from its roots and will return to its dust, there can be no more noble and worthy cause than doing our fair share in contributing to the fulfillment of this legacy. I ask each of you to join me tonight in promoting this genuine cause with greater fervor because the cause is right and the alternatives are devastating.

"Let us continue the action to fulfill the programs that are evolving from the consensus that has emerged from our citizenry during the past two years. Let us continue dialogue, communication and cooperation among many individuals, groups and interests in channeling combined energies into creative and productive approaches to best utilize our resources. Let us reach out to hear and accommodate those with differing viewpoints so that everyone who desires can be a participant in helping to further develop the ongoing emerging consensus. Then let us be united in heart and spirit and common purpose as we achieve our legacy for generations to come as we approach and enter the 21st century. Yes, it is a challenge, but anything worthwhile is. Nevertheless, it is a vision we can fulfill together, and to whom many that follow us will be grateful. Let us do it together for us and them by keeping Lancaster County an ongoing Living National Treasure -- indeed, a most noble and worthy "Vision to Fulfill."

Boyd's vision for Lancaster farmland should be the vision for every acre of farmland in the nation.

NOW IS THE TIME

To Repair Farm Equipment

This is the time to replace those worn or damaged parts and tires on your farm machinery.

Maintaining and restocking needed spare parts should be a must before the really busy spring season is underway. Have the tractor engine timed by your local dealer. Consult the operator's manual and adjust field machines according to manufacturer's recommendations.

Order a supply of oils, filters and greases that are needed to maintain tractors and other equipment. It pays to take time out to start a system of record-keeping for each machine. Keep good records of maintenance and repairs and you can save money in this highly mechanized farming operation.

Remember, a breakdown at planting time is costly. The best prevention is good maintenance.

To Recognize Stress in Farming

Life can become so hectic... too much to do... on the run. You've been on the tractor or in the barn almost nonstop since sunrise and there's too much on your mind to notice the beautiful sunset. Farming is still full of the best of life. Probably many of the reasons you wanted to be a farmer or live on a farm are the very things you don't pay much attention to anymore.

It's more than machinery or livestock, bills or market fluctuations -- it's a way of life which in itself holds much to be desired and appreciated.

We must not let the excessive stress on the farm interfere with our home and family life. Medical research estimates as high as 90% of today's illness and disease is stress related. Farming is one of the most stressful occupations today. We must admit stress before we can deal with it. Most importantly, take time to "smell the flowers," and say to yourself -- just for today, I will live through the next 12 hours and not try to tackle all life's problems at once.

To Be Aware Of Grain Storage Safety

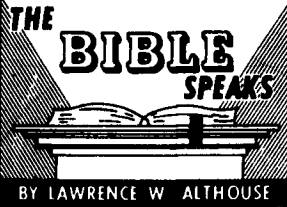

Every year grain in storage or grain which is being moved into or out of storage claims the lives of farmers or farm family members across the United States, according to Robert J. Anderson, Extension Agronomy Agent. Flowing grain can trap and suffocate a person very easily. Many accidents with grain involve children. Often farm children are more excited about playing in the pile of grain than they are aware of the safety hazard involved.

We must constantly warn all children of the danger of grain. Grain can trap a child in as little as two or three seconds and pull them under in less than 10 seconds.

A few simple rules will help keep everyone safe if followed. Always keep all access openings and doors to grain bins locked. Make sure the outside ladders on grain storage facilities are out of reach of children. Keep children away from any grain being transported by wagons or trucks between storages. Don't allow children to play in or near grain storage facilities. Never allow anyone to enter grain in storage without rescue procedures understood by someone who will be in contact with that person.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

SOMEONE FROM THE DEAD?

January 20, 1991

Background Scripture:

Luke 16:19-31.

Devotional Reading:

Luke 12:13-21.

Normally, the parables of Jesus have but one important truth to impart in each. But in the story of Dives and Lazarus, Luke 16:19-31, we find a teaching story that is used to impart several important teachings.

It is interesting to note that there is a similar story from ancient Egypt. In the Egyptian version a rich man dies and is carried in fine raiment to his elaborate tomb. At the same time, a poor man, clothed only in linen garments, is buried ignominiously. An observer notes the obvious advantages of the rich man. But then the observer is taken to the underworld and there he finds that the fortunes of the two men have been reversed: the poor man is in the place of honor and the rich man suffers torment. The story concludes with the moral: "He who is good on earth fares well in the realm of the dead, and he who is evil on earth fares ill."

DIVES & LAZARUS

The story of Dives and Lazarus, while a bit more detailed, is similar in its intent. After death, the fortunes of the two men are reversed. It is interesting to note that even in the midst of his torment the rich man continues in his arrogance: "Father Abraham, have mercy upon me, and send Lazarus to dip the end of his finger in water and cool my tongue; for I am in anguish in this "flame" (16:24). He still regards Lazarus as someone quite beneath him.

It is believed by some that Jesus was directing this parable at the Sadducees who were very wealthy and materialistic in their outlook: they lived to get all they could in this life because there was nothing else after that. They lived to get their reward on earth. This was obviously the attitude of Dives (a Latin word for 'rich'). He not only lived in great luxury himself, but ignored the plight of those like Lazarus who were poor and destitute.

Now, however, the situations are reversed and upon dying Dives goes to a place of great heat and torment, while Lazarus goes to be in the presence of the patriarch Abraham. Jesus is saying that the poor of the earth will experience God's plenty after they die. The rich have already experienced their reward in this life.

DIVES IN TORMENT

But, what of Dives? Why is he consigned to torment? The parable doesn't tell us that he is an evil man, except that it suggests that he knew of Lazarus and knowingly failed to help him. To ignore the needs of those around us will have grave consequences for us. Dives may have been a very faithful Sadducee, attending the temple regularly, making the required sacrifices, etc. But all of that counted for nothing, because he saw but did not respond to the needs of his brother.

Finally, Dives gets the message and decides to warn his brothers who live pretty much as he did. "Then I beg you, father, to send him to my father's house, for I have five brothers, so that he may warn them, lest they also come into this place of torment" (16:27).

It sounds like a bright idea. Surely if Lazarus' ghost brings them a warning, they will heed it and repent. But Abraham replies: "If they do not hear Moses and the prophets, neither will they be convinced if someone should rise from the dead."

Not even a ghost will reach us when we have our hearts set on material rather than spiritual things.

BRRRR! WHY DOES JANUARY HAVE TO BE SO LONG? WHY COULDN'T THEY HAVE MADE IT ONLY 20 DAYS LONG, RATHER THEN 31...?

THAT'S SILLY OTIS. THEN THEY WOULDN'T HAVE HAD ENOUGH DAYS TO FINISH OUT THE YEAR

DAVE CARPENTER

COUNT ON CARGILL!

Hi!
Look at this new Pennsylvania mountain range, courtesy of Cargill 7877. 7877 produces ears so full, this grower made a mountain out of his no-till! There's even talk of opening a ski resort. If you want your corn yields to climb to new heights this year reach for Cargill 7877.

See you soon!*

Your Cargill Seeds dealer.

P.S. Ask me about the rest of my high-yielding range of Cargill hybrids,

Sweet Corn Growers

If you grow sweet corn under plastic, here's an option you don't want to miss. You won't have to go through the aggravation of slitting open and discarding the plastic. About 40 to 50 days after planting or when corn is 4" to 6" tall plastic will start breaking up and disappear.

This year's corn yield leaders surprised some people, too.

We know that some people think of Jacques as an unlikely candidate to be the new hybrid performance leader. But it's not the first time events have taken a surprising turn.

Actually, the more you know about Jacques plant breeding research program, the less surprising it is. It's a program that's turned out 45 new hybrids and varieties in just the past four years. And the research pipeline is full of promising new contenders.

The folks who aren't surprised are those who have seen Jacques new performance levels firsthand — on their own farms. And that's a group which has grown substantially over the past few years.

So see your Jacques dealer or talk to one of your neighbors who planted Jacques this spring to compare with his other brand. Just don't be surprised when the underdog wins

Join Us, Meet Noted Soil Scientist WILBUR R. FRANKLIN

Wilbur R. Franklin's seminar will address how you can put low input profitable agriculture to work on your farm. Focused on the value of lime in the soil complex, soil compaction and water management, the seminar will also address the issue of lower fertilization costs compared to yields and profits. For more information, contact Growers Representative:

Keystone

Top Cow 26% Concentrate

High producing dairy cows have unique nutrient requirements, particularly in early lactation.

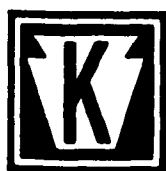

Keystone Top Cow 26% Concentrate supplies additional Vitamin A, E and Niacin plus zinc methionine complex to help cows reach peak production faster and hold production longer.

Increased levels of Vitamins A and E combined to improve reproduction performance while higher Vitamin E helps to reduce mastitis problems. A concentrated live yeast is included to aid digestion in high producing animals.

Note: This product to be used when feeding a base concentrate like Keystone Dairy 36%.

Available in meal and pellet form.

Farm Management New Program In N.J.

WOODSTOWN, N.J. — The South Jersey Dairy Conference and Trade Show will be held on Tuesday, February 5, 1991, at Elmer Grange Hall, Pole Tavern, New Jersey, from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m.

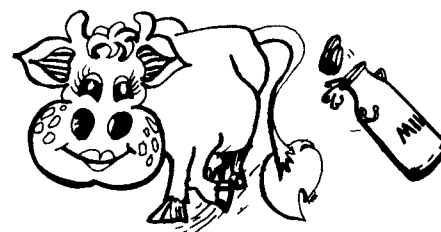

Dr. Lowell Wilson, professor of animal science, Penn State University, will be the guest speaker. His topic will be "Animal Rights, Animal Welfare, and Animal Agriculture."

Wilson is involved in beef research and is currently working on new research technology within the veal industry. He has given many presentations on animal welfare issues.

In addition, a proposed new concept for South Jersey dairy and livestock producers, "Integrated Farm Management," will be presented by David Lee, South Jersey dairy extension agent.

This year's program should be of interest to all of the agriculture community. Farmers and non-farmers alike are welcomed to attend. For additional information, contact Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Salem County at (609) 769-0090.

Clinton County DHIA Presents Awards, Honors Top Producers

LOCK HAVEN (Clinton Co.)— Production award winners were honored at the 51st annual meeting of the Clinton County Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA) held Dec. 4, at the Country Lounge Restaurant.

The top herd in the county -- ranked according to pounds of protein -- was the 70-cow registered Holstein herd owned by Paul Courter of Mill Hall. His herd averaged 20,362 pounds of milk, 752 pounds of butterfat and 655 pounds of protein during the past testing year.

Awards were presented to all herds with an average of 600 pounds of butterfat or more. Winners were:

• Ronald Meyer, Loganton- 19,862 pounds milk, 774 pounds fat, 643 pounds protein.

• Paul Courter, Mill Hall- 20,362 pounds milk, 752 pounds fat, 655 pounds protein.

• Richard Schenck, Mill Hall- 18,700 pounds milk, 718 pounds fat, 606 pounds protein.

• Blair and Elaine Courter, Mill Hall- 19,014 pounds milk, 692 pounds fat, 613 pounds protein.

• Robert Billman, Beech Creek- 18,134 pounds milk, 678 pounds fat, 567 pounds protein.

• Keith & Ben Carson, Jersey Shore- 19,713 pounds milk, 675 pounds fat, 604 pounds protein.

• Dean & Brenda Daubert, McElhattan- 16,307 pounds milk, 639 pounds fat, 586 pounds protein.

• Anthony & Caroline Graine, Mill Hall- 18,456 pounds milk, 637 pounds fat, 586 pounds protein.

• Jacqueline Seyler, Mill Hall- 17,173 pounds milk, 628 pounds fat, 529 pounds protein.

• Harold Muthler, Loganton- 17,469 pounds milk, 624 pounds fat, 567 pounds protein.

• Roland Irvin, Beech Creek- 16,342 pounds milk, 616 pounds fat, 529 pounds protein.

• Jacob P. Miller, Mill Hall- 17,252 pounds milk, 605 pounds fat, 529 pounds protein.

An award for the cow producing the most butterfat during the year in 305 days was won by Paul Courter, Mill Hall. "Milly," a 7-year-old Holstein, produced 29,302 pounds of milk and 1,121 pounds of butterfat. The highest milk producing cow was Singer owned by Keith and Ben Carson of Jersey Shore. She produced 29,589 pounds of milk and 913 pounds of butterfat.

Other top cows were: LuAnn, owned by Dean and Brenda Daubert, 25,671 pounds milk, 1,038 pounds fat; Emily, owned by Dean and Brenda Daubert, 21,953 pounds milk, 1,036 pounds fat; #78, owned by Ronald Meyer, 25,355 pounds milk, 1,016 pounds fat; Lasso II, owned by Blair & Elaine Courter, 26,797 pounds milk, 1,010 pounds fat.

During the 1989-90 test year, 89 cows completed lifetime production records of a minimum of 100,000 pounds of milk or 4,000 pounds of butterfat.

The top five cows in lifetime production are: Moni, owned by Paul Courter, 215,480 pounds milk, 9,408 pounds fat; Kraft, owned by Ron & Bonnie Beck, 208,566 pounds milk, 7,206 pounds fat; Cookie, owned by Paul Courter, 193,714 pounds milk, 7,115 pounds fat; Lacy, owned by Richard Schenck, 173,496 pounds milk, 6,648 pounds fat; Singer, owned by Keith & Ben Carson, 177,389 pounds milk, 5,992 pounds fat.

The award for most improvement during the year was won by Harold Moore, Mill Hall, whose herd increased 1,173 pounds of milk and 52 pounds of butterfat.

Daniel F. Stoltzfus received the award for the herd with the lowest somatic cell count.

Awards were sponsored by Clintondale Mills, Dunkle & Grieb Inc., Sire Power Inc., Thomas Dunlap, Tony & Caroline Graine, Dotterer Equipment Inc., Select Sires Inc., and Webb's Super Gro Inc. Door Prizes were provided by Mill Hall Agway Inc. and Pa. DHIA.

DHIA supervisors for Clinton County are Robin Rupert, Mill Hall, and Tom Fox, Mackeyville.

FFA Sponsors Honored At Convention

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)— Sponsors of Pennsylvania FFA activities for the 1990 year were honored at a capitol brunch here on Wednesday, January 9.

The brunch was hosted by the Honorable Samuel E. Hayes, Jr., president of the Pennsylvania FFA Foundation.

Immediately following the brunch, held in the reception room of the new East Wing of the Capitol, sponsors were introduced and recognized by more than 1,000 Pennsylvania FFA'ers at their Mid-Winter Convention, held in the Forum Auditorium across from the capitol building.

More than 118 companies contributed to the Pennsylvania FFA this year. Levels of sponsorship include the following: contributor- up to $100; bronze- $100-249; silver- $250-499; gold- $500-749; star- $750-999; and keystone- $1,000 or more.

The following sponsors attended the ceremonies and were presented plaques in recognition of their contributions by state FFA Vice President, Larry Feeser:

• Keystone Sponsors: Hatfield Quality Meats, Monsanto Agriculture Company, Penn Jersey Power Equipment Dealers, Pennsylvania Beef Council, and Pennsylvania Florists Association.

• Gold Sponsors: Pennsylvania Farmers' Association, Ford New Holland, Mrs. Iva Kunkel, PSU Employee Training Program.

• Silver Sponsors: Evergreen Farms, Evergreen Tractors, Farm Credit of Baltimore, Keystone Farm Credit, Kuhn's Brothers Lumber, Mifflinburg Farm Supply, North East Farm Credit, Pennsylvania Cattleman's Association, Pennsylvania Livestock Association, and Penn West Farm Credit.

• Bronze Sponsors: Atlantic Dairy Cooperatives, C. B. Hoover & Son, Hamilton Bank, Lancaster Ford Tractor, Mid Penn Bank, Pennfield, Pennsylvania Nurseryman's Association, Pennsylvania Association of Meat Processors, and Penn United Technologies.

• Contributors: Balsbaugh Insurance Agency, Meridian Bank, Mifflinburg Young Farmers, and Jean Weller.

The activities covered by sponsorships included national and regional trips for state winners in more than 27 agricultural and leadership categories, state leadership training events, the Student Legislative Leadership Conference, state officer expenses and scholarships, general scholarships, Keystone Degree winners expenses, record book winners expense, Mid-Winter Convention and June FFA Activities Week expenses, sponsorship of the "FFA Today" statewide newspaper, and various program activities carried out on a statewide level by the Pennsylvania FFA.

Fact: 121 alfalfa varieties were reviewed by the National Alfalfa Variety Review Board (NAVRB) from 1986 through 1989.

Fact: Only three of these varieties were classified as winterhardy by the NAVRB.

Fact: All three of these varieties are from Pioneer.

In 1986, the National Alfalfa Variety Review Board (NAVRB) began requiring winter survival data before any alfalfa variety could be classified as winterhardy. Since 1986, successful winter survival data has been accepted for only three varieties— 5472, 5373 and 5262—all from Pioneer. Prior to 1986, 5432 and 526 from Pioneer had also successfully met the standards to be classified as winterhardy.

Until 1986, the standard measure for winterhardiness had been based on the fall dormancy rating of an alfalfa variety.

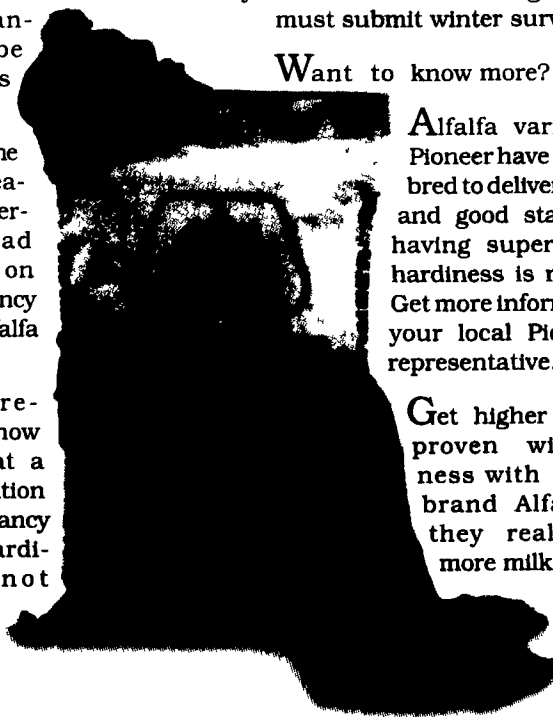

However, research data now indicates that a direct correlation between dormancy and winterhardiness does not always exist.

The other 118 varieties reviewed by the National Alfalfa Variety Review Board from 1986 through 1989 carry only a dormancy classification—such as dormant, moderately dormant or non-dormant—but do not carry any type of winterhardy classification. Before gaining any type of winterhardy claim, the company or institution submitting the variety must submit winter survival data.

Assessing Milk Production In The 1990s

Westmoreland County

With the budget reconciliation act poking its nose into dairy policy, dairy farmers are faced with an interesting decision.

The act places an assessment of 5 cents per hundred pounds of milk produced in 1991 on dairymen who produce more milk in 1991 than they did in 1990.

In addition, it goes on to impose a minimum assessment of 11.25 cents/cwt milk on dairymen producing more milk in 1992 than in 1991. This 11.25 cents continues through 1995 and will be charged to farmers who increase milk production over the preceding year.

It is important to remember that everyone will be assessed.

At the end of the year, farms that can prove that the amount of milk marketed has remained unchanged from the previous year will be able to apply for a refund with the ASCS office.

The decision at hand is whether or not to let this assessment step in your way of increasing milk production.

Milk production typically increases at an average rate of 2% per year. Looking at individual herds, milk production may drop or increase 3,000 pounds per cow.

The table shows the effects of the milk assessment on a range of herds with a 2% increase in milk production. Milk prices in 1991 for Federal Order 36 are anybody's guess but this example uses an average price of $12.00/cwt, along with feed costs of $5.40/cwt milk produced (represents the average feed cost for Westmoreland County DHIA herds in 1990).

Looking at these "average" increases, it appears that even with the milk assessment, it will pay you to continue increasing milk production per cow in 1991.

Of course the individual farm will differ and thus require an analysis using its own cost/price information. Farm managers should take the time to figure out how much milk increase is needed per cow to break even with this assessment. Once this is done, minimum goals can be established for milk production for the coming year.

If the cows don't respond, it may be desirable to decrease milk marketed from the farm in order to prevent losing money from the assessment.

For herds that are planning an expansion in milk production in the future, a careful, long-range budget should be developed comparing the effects of borrowing money and expanding in 1991 versus waiting to expand during the 1992-1995 period.

For herds that are planning an expansion that will not require major capital investments, it may make sense to put those cows on during 1991 or make feeding changes now before the increased assessment hits in 1992.

Farm Operation Agreements Need Business, Common Sense

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff
LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The days of the one-man, one-owner farm are disappearing fast and agriculturalists and would-be farmers who intend to remain in their field of vocational interest may find themselves involved in some form of business partnership.

In order to maintain a healthy and rewarding business partnership, Penn State Extension agents in Lancaster and Chester county are offering assistance in constructing formal agreements in order to create as smooth and firm a working relationship as possible.

On Tuesday, about 75 Lancaster County farmers attended a first-time seminar held in the basement of the Lancaster Farm and Home Center to hear how to determine fair and equitable dairy farm rental and business agreements.

The featured speaker of the seminar was Alan Strock, a multi-county farm management agent in Lancaster and Chester counties who has been helping to write various farm-business agreements.

Glen Shirk, Lancaster County extension dairy agent — who has also helped farmers determine rental rates and non-market prices for farm products, such as forages — also provided some information.

Both men cautioned that accountants and attorneys should be consulted in order to finalize and agreement that is mutually agreeable.

Shirk and Strock said that in many cases an about-to-become partner is family or friend, and both parties enter into an informal agreement with good intentions.

However, hard feelings and a lot of unhappiness can arise when responsibilities, prices, options, and other details, which are bound to arise, eventually do surface and are not resolved to satisfaction before the partnership starts.

Although it is impossible to see far enough ahead to calculate everything which may become an issue of contention, in their experience, both men advised that a formal business agreement helped partnerships, whatever the form, survive.

Strock talked about four different, hypothetical types of livestock business arrangements, mostly in dairy terms, but applicable to other types of agriculture, and how they affected each party involved.

The first scenario he presented was a normal landlord-tenant farm rental with straight cash.

In this scenario, Strock said the landlord didn't make as much profit, but the tenant carries all the risk of success or failure.

The arrangement is such that the tenant owns the livestock, the machinery, does all the field work and hauls manure. The landlord may work a little at his discretion, but receives cash wages when he does and the working relationship is strictly as owner-tenant.

The advantages to this kind of relationship is that it provides the best opportunity for a starting dairy farmer to pay off debts, save money and eventually buy his own farm. There is usually a longer term commitment in the agreement.

A second type of arrangement is a 50-50 partnership in which the income is split between landlord and tenant.

In these arrangements, the work and responsibility is also split according to whatever terms the two decide is fair, with one owning the property, buildings and machinery and the other owning the livestock and does some field work and hauls manure.

The advantages are spreading the risk, provide a good income to both in a good year, provides equal incentive to operate well and provides a way for a younger man without the wherewithall to buy land to enter into business.

A third and fourth scenario aren't as easy to form and maintain, but Strock said he knows of some types of business arrangements which fit into these categories.

In one, the landlord sells feed-stuffs to the tenant and may work a few hours. The tenant owns the cows, does no field work, but hauls manure.

We feel it is totally unexcusable and unacceptable what is happening to the prices being paid to our area dairy farmers.

What other segment of our economy would be willing to work for the prices they received in 1978?

We support the efforts being put forth by the Pennsylvania Farmers Union in an attempt to correct the unrealistic prices being received by area dairy farmers.

It certainly is time for all Dairy Cooperatives and farm organizations to support our dairy farmers!!

The pricing formula used to establish milk prices does not reflect the needs of the dairy farmer. It is time for a change in the milk pricing formula, and dairy farmers are demanding a change.

We feel a TWO TIER pricing formula based on the average cost of production, as presented by Arden Tewksbury, on behalf of the Penna. Farmers Union is a workable solution.

During the last six weeks the Pennsylvania Farmers Union has held several press conferences, along with many meetings with dairy farmers and interested parties.

At these meetings a representative of PFU has been explaining the precarious position that dairy farmers are being forced into.

We want to thank all the farmers for attending these meetings in an attempt to rectify the problem.

PFU intends to continue our effort to correct the idiotic prices received by our dairy farmers, as well as work on the problems faced by other commodity producers.

Many business people, churches, township supervisors, granges and schools have aided us in our efforts. We urge everyone to become involved in solving this financial crisis.

So far we have had nearly 1,000 farmers attend our meetings and there is overwhelming support for PFU's 2 tier pricing mechanism for the dairy farmers.

We think that farmers can and will make a difference. PFU is cooperating with the National Farmers Union in circulating a petition to have the 1990 Farm Bill reopened.

Editor:

A letter in the Farm Forum (December 22, Lancaster Farming) from Leroy Rowles raised some serious concerns that deserve our attention.

First, Mr. Rowles said that farm leaders should listen to all members, "instead of just doing what suits them". That's not the case in Pennsylvania Farmers' Association nor the American Farm Bureau Federation. Our policies are developed by our membership, adopted at the county, state and national levels by majority votes. Once these policies are adopted we stick to them, because the membership has spoken. I don't know of any better operating structure for a farm organization.

That's not saying everybody agrees with our policy. Some don't.

I made the observation earlier in the Lancaster Farming article that the European Community (EC) was stealing U.S. farm income through unfair competition in the world market. Mr. Rowles questioned that statement.

In 1976 the EC was importing about 28 million metric tons. Now it is exporting more than 20 million metric tons. Nothing wrong with that increase if done in a fair manner. But, keep in mind that U.S. wheat is selling for about $2.06 per bushel versus $6.82 per bushel in the EC.

In a fair and equitable world marketing system the U.S. wheat producers could easily outsell the EC. The EC must move their surplus grain. So they are subsidizing the grain farmer to grow it, and then subsidizing the grain again to sell in the world market. That's not fair nor good economic sense.

The EC is virtually giving their product away at a tremendous loss, but in the process the U.S. grain farmer is losing business and his farm to the EC's unfair competition.

We're not asking other countries to cut prices to match our commodity prices. We are asking them to bring to a halt the extremely high subsidies in order for us to compete fairly in the world market. If that happened U.S. farmers would experience a dramatic increase in their prices.

Mr. Rowles suggests that if commodity prices are so high in the EC, why don't we export our products to those countries. The answer is quite simple. There is no EC market for grain because the EC prohibits our access to those markets. Quite frankly that's the main reason for the GATT negotiations.

Earlier when the U.S. attempted to subsidize farm income the results were enormous government stockpiles of surplus grain. As soon as the price of grain would go up in the open market our government would dump grain to bring down the price. Subsidies didn't work.

There is no way that I would condemn any farmer for getting more net income, but it should not be at the expense of a better and more efficient agriculture system, like the one here in the U.S. And that's exactly what's happening right now.

As a result good farmers are losing their farm operations in the U.S. because the EC is putting them out of business with unfair grain prices.

I agree with Mr. Rowles that the recent drops in milk prices are deplorable. Before long the average dairyman will be producing milk for about $2 per hundred-weight less than his cost of production.

PFA is doing everything within the system to increase dairy prices. We want the federal government to discard the assessments made against dairymen in the recent budget cuts. They call it an assessment, but I call it a tax. It's not a fair tax, nor is it a tax based on the farmer's ability to pay.

We also are working to reinstate the capital gains treatment which was eliminated in 1986. The average dairyman would gain another $1,200 per year in tax savings.

As far as selling dairy products in the EC it can't be done, because the EC also prohibits access to their markets for dairy products. Again that's why we were holding the GATT talks.

The EC makes matters worse by dumping dairy products on the world market with the use of dairy subsidies. Again it gives the product away at a loss.

TUNNEL VENTILATION

For a number of years ventilation systems for hogs have used fans spaced equally along side walls the full length of the building. This system performed reasonably well but it was also an expensive system to build and operate.

More recent developments recognized better ventilation can be achieved by placing the exhaust fans at one end of the building and inlets at the opposite end. This arrangement produces a very desirable wind tunnel effect. It is also a very practical and efficient way to build and operate.

Andrews Recommended For Top Ag Position

AMES, Iowa — The National Farmers Organization (NFO) has recommended Mark Andrews, Republican U.S. Senator from North Dakota, for the new Secretary of Agriculture.

The NFO board of directors, meeting here recently, sent its recommendation to President George Bush in a letter signed by NFO president DeVon Woodland.

The letter read:

"Dear Mr. President:

"Your selection of a new Secretary of Agriculture is a matter of grave concern to the National Farmers Organization and America's farmers and stockmen. Our National Board of Directors today unanimously agreed to urge that you appoint as the new Secretary of Agriculture a man with a strong background in farming.

"In the interest of objectivity and fairness, we recommend your careful consideration of the highly qualified U.S. Senator from North Dakota, Mark Andrews.

"Senator Andrews, having served in both the House and the Senate, has a wide range of contracts among the organizations and businesses involved in agriculture. His farm production includes grain, sugar beets and cattle. In Congress he established a strong working relationship in the House Appropriations Committee. While in the Senate, he served on both Appropriations and Agriculture Committees, earning an admirable reputation as a moderate in his party who mastered worthwhile tasks. He has retained wide-ranging friendships and strong working relationships in his recent activities. Many leaders among the nation's agricultural groups would be comfortable with Mark Andrews.

"The farm depression of the mid-80s and the economic difficulties projected for the whole economy in the immediate future point up the urgency involved in this appointment. The next Secretary of Agriculture should be a farm producer with a broad political base and the mature judgment required to run the U.S. Department of Agriculture in the best interests of the whole rural economy in this country.

"The members of the National Farmers Organization are all farmers and ranchers, located principally across 35 northern and mid-western states from coast to coast.

"Although NFO's major activity is centered in the bargaining and sale of its members' production of livestock, milk and grain, its members are also keenly aware of the influence of the U.S. Department of Agriculture on their economic livelihood.

"We appreciate this opportunity to recommend to you Senator Mark Andrews for Secretary of Agriculture.

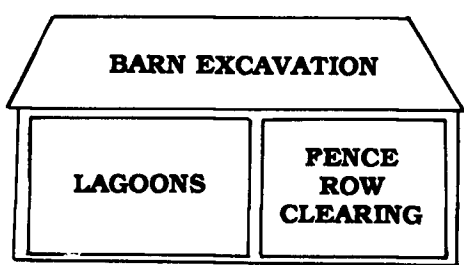

"Sincerely,
DeVon R. Woodland
President, National Farmers Organization"

Gov. Casey Proposes $2 Million Cut In Agriculture

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff
HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Gov. Robert Casey has targeted cuts of more than $2.5 million to agricultural programs this year, as part of a total $72 million state budget spending reduction plan.

The reductions in state spending are being required to offset a large budget deficit that, prior to November elections, he claimed did not exist.

Casey, who must by law provide a balanced budget, said last summer that his budget for the state actually carried a surplus.

However, just before Christmas, Casey said a state budget deficit did exist. The exact amount has been debated, but some reports are that it may reach up to almost a billion dollars.

In an attempt to curb state spending, Casey has authority to not spend money in programs directly under his control. Those programs include all state agencies, but not elected offices.

The state Office of the Budget released a list of potential cuts on Jan. 7, but it wasn't until this week that the "hit list" was made widely available.

Included on the list are several agricultural reductions in spending to the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA), the state Department of Environmental Resources, and the state Milk Marketing Board, which total an estimated $2,604,000.

Possible reductions to the PDA total an estimated $1,297,000. The current overall PDA budget for 1990-91 is $38,728,000.

The proposals have caused outcry from some legislative and private agricultural organizations. Some, including the department of agriculture, say they will live with the cuts.

One agriculture group says it is too early to form an opinion about the proposed cuts in spending and what effect it will have on the leading state industry.

Shelia Miller, a spokesperson for Sen. Edward Helfrick, chairman of the Senate Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, said the cuts for agriculture represent a reversal of support for the state's agricultural industry, especially the dairy industry.

"He is stripping the entire (milk) marketing board fund — the entire $600,000. That's all the tax revenues that were given to the marketing board in June.

"We consider it a total breach of faith," Miller said of the position of the Senate committee. "Now what he has done is propose to strip the marketing board entirely of support from the general fund."

The state Milk Marketing Board is a separate organization from the state Department of Agriculture.

The Milk Marketing Board is a state agency, created in 1937 by the state legislature to set minimum milk prices in the commonwealth's wholesale businesses.

The agency also enforces the state Milk Security Act, which requires all milk dealers purchasing milk from Pennsylvania farmers to submit bonds.

The agency licenses dealers and haulers and acts as the general policing agency of the milk industry.

The history of the funding of the milk marketing board is already an item of dispute between Casey and agricultural proponents.

While proposing the current state budget in June, Casey had decreased state support by $300,000, causing protests from a number of agricultural organizations, especially the Pennsylvania State Grange.

Prior to the 1990 budget formation, various agriculture organizations had sought an increase of $300,000 to the $900,000 the board had been allocated from state general funds.

Casey said it was impossible.

In response, the dairy industry proposed legislation to increase their own licensing fees with the proceeds from the increases to be used by the marketing board.

Casey supported the method of augmenting state funding of the marketing board and supported the legislation, which, because of the dairy industry support, passed easily through both the Senate and House agriculture committees.

However, when the 1990 budget came through, Casey had stripped state support of the marketing board by $300,000, the same amount raised through the increase in license fees.

In effect, the board's budget remained underfunded, but now the dairy industry was left paying for a large part of the state agency's budget.

Brenda Shambaugh, lobbyist for the Grange, said the action was an act of Casey going back on an agreement of understanding.

"The money (raised through the license fees increases) was supposed to augment the state budget, not replace it. That was the understanding," she said.

"The burden of supporting the marketing board (which among other things sets retail milk prices and producer prices) has been put totally on the producer. It isn't right. It comes back again to the producer paying for it," Shambaugh said of Casey's proposal to eliminate tax-generated funding.

The administrators of the milk board are not fighting the cuts, however.

According to Tom Kugle, spokesman for the board, "We go out and test the milk, audit, and where the individual or business is not living up to the law, we fine accordingly."

Kugle said the board is not protesting the cuts, but reviewing its financial situation in order to see how much it can afford to do.

"We intend to fully comply with the governor's wishes. Right now, we're seeing what we're collecting in fines and fees, working on things like travel (expenses) . . . just seeing.

"Doing all this research is a long, arduous process and we have no answers right now, except we're going to do our best," Kugle said.

The three-member board of directors met Monday with the executive secretary to discuss the cuts. Kugle said the directors are working with the secretary to seek solutions.

The Pennsylvania Farmers Association (PFA) is not ready to make any comment on the proposal, according to spokesperson Jan Carson.

"We have not completely evaluated the cuts and we are going to continue to monitor (the effects) of the cuts. Until we have a clear indication of what will happen, we are not forming an opinion," Carson said.

Other programs on the hit list include a complete stripping of funding for the newly created Animal Health Commission.

The commission was formed with the creation of the current budget by consolidating several animal health programs and the state indemnity program under one program. A commission budget of $250,000 was allocated, which was short of the total amount which had been previously allocated to the separate programs.

According to state officials, the $250,000 can't be used for indemnities anyway, because the commission hasn't the authority to grant them. However, there remains no funding for the animal health programs.

Miller said the commission cut is also an item of contention.

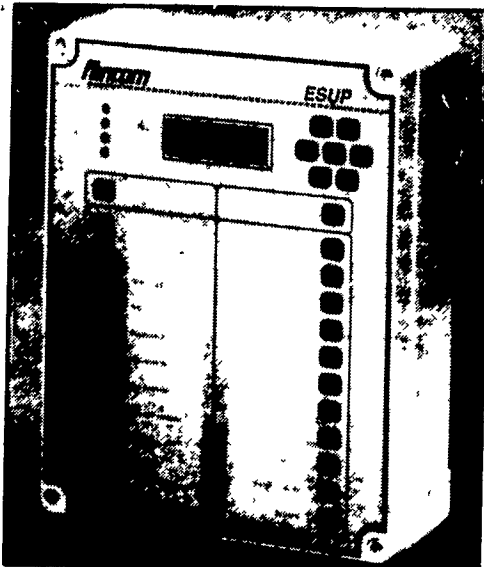

"In addition (to the other cuts), the governor has proposed to cut the animal health commission line $250,000. He campaigned on that, how they created the animal health commission, and the day before he is inaugurated he comes out and says he cut it," Miller said.

Other proposed cuts include:
• A 6 percent cut to general government within the agriculture department.

FARM COMPUTER GROUP TO ORGANIZE

Roland P. Freund
Regional Farm
Management Agent

A farm computer user group will organize in the Gettysburg High School vocational agriculture room at 7:30 p.m. on January 22, 1991.

Other meetings are scheduled for February 26, March 19, and April 9. It is anticipated that farmers from Adams, Franklin, Cumberland, and York counties would participate initially, but people from other counties and other states will be welcome. Later, spin-off groups might decide to organize at other locations.

The vo-ag program at Gettysburg High School, under Ron Bower, has access to computer labs which are very well equipped with I.B.M. and Apple computers. We are grateful that the Gettysburg High School has offered to sponsor this user group.

Penn State extension agents John Schwartz, Laura Watts, and Roland Freund will also support the group and seek outside resource people as needed.

The initial meeting will be a chance for those interested to decide the course of events for their group. Subgroups for fruit growers, dairy farmers, or livestock producers might wish to explore software of specific interest to their enterprise.

Educational presentations might be offered on:

- Software selection.
- Spreadsheet basics.
- Database development.
- Word processing.
- Information access.

Personal computer adoption by farm families has not been as rapid and spectacular a process as many computer salespeople had hoped for eight or ten years ago.

To serve farm clients, there were many sales organizations, several glossy magazines, and numerous software developers. Then came the "farm financial crisis" of the eighties, and the boom seemed to go bust.

Nevertheless, the adoption process has continued at a steady pace, so we now have quite a large group who own and use computers on the farm.

Computer technology has made very sophisticated equipment relatively inexpensive. At the same time, software has become much more user-friendly but often quite complex. The price for one of these integrated packages can now exceed the cost of the hardware needed to operate it.

It can be very confusing and exceedingly expensive to purchase software through some mail-order catalog and then find that it does not perform the tasks for which you need it.

Participation in a user group can open up many contacts through which you can see computer systems and software doing the kind of job you have in mind.

Farm families are usually willing to share their experience of new practices with other farmers. They regularly do this through farm tours, farm groups, and extension meetings.

This will be a chance for a group of farmers with a common interest to get together, share experiences, and learn new skills which can help them to more efficiently manage their operations.

Participation in a user group need not be a long-term commitment. Groups often serve a purpose for the members, and then disband when the task is completed. Others maintain themselves by cycling new members through the organization or by establishing new goals and new directions for the group.

There will be a great deal of flexibility. Beginners will be able to learn the basics, while power-users and hackers might even learn some new tricks.

If you have a need in this area, come along, present your thoughts, and have a fun time as you participate and learn. If you need any further information, contact Ron Bower, (717) 334-6254; John Schwartz (717) 394-6851; Laura Watts (717) 249-7220; or Roland Freund (717) 757-9657.

$2 Million Cut In Agriculture

• A $859,000 cut to the Farm Show fund (this may be reduced to half that amount).

• A $50,000 cut in payments to state fairs.

• A $38,000 cut to agricultural promotions.

• A $100,000 cut to hardwoods research and promotion.

Overall, Gene Schenck, PDA press secretary, said cuts are a reality that have to be lived with.

Schenck said the department of agriculture can manage.

"It's a lean agency. I think it's also described as a highly motivated agency. Boyd Wolff has attracted a group of people who are of high caliber. We intend to minimize the cuts.

"The reality is that all state agencies are going to be cut. People in agriculture might act surprised, but we shouldn't be surprised. It shows, if anything, that the governor and the commonwealth is serious about balancing its budget and spending less," Schenck said.

"The theme is that, before anybody goes looking for any more tax dollars, we have to make sure we are getting the most out of every tax dollar that we are already getting," he said.

According to Schenck, Secretary Wolff has "spent the lion's share of his time lately, and probably will in coming weeks, trying to plot a course that will minimize the impact of any cuts and help this agency to do its share toward the governor's goal of balancing the budget."

William Ringler, master of the Pennsylvania State Grange, said, "We realize all state agencies have to make significant sacrifices. We are concerned, however, about the effects these reductions will have on our number one industry.

"Are we causing even more havoc to our economy with these types of budgetary constraints?"

He said the Grange is recommending to Casey that he and his administration reconsider some of the cuts.

However, Schenck said that the cuts wouldn't jeopardize the agriculture industry.

"We're not going to jeopardize Pennsylvania's leading industry, because we are going to minimize the impact of the cuts.

"We're the agency that makes these programs work. It's up to us to make these cuts. The impact that's been identified so far has been minimal," he said.

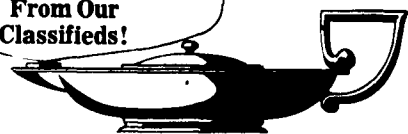

Furthermore, Schenck said the department is looking at other ways to maintain the integrity of the department while cutting down on expenses.

"We found some pretty innovative ways to try to do the same with less. One of the things under consideration is the consolidation of the Bureau of Amusements with the Bureau of Weights and Measures. You can save a lot of money through consolidation," he said.

"We've postponed all purchases of computers and equipment. We've stopped buying that kind of stuff. We are reviewing all contracts, leases and grants. We're taking a look at everything."

Milk Prices Meeting

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — On Monday, February 11, a farm and financial analysis workshop will be held here at the Wayne County Extension office.

The workshop will begin at 8 p.m. and last approximately two hours. The meeting will be the first in a series.

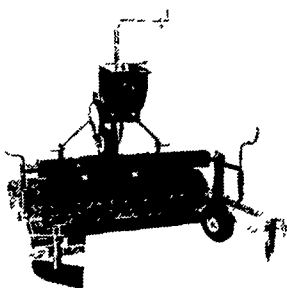

These workshops will help producers analyze their current farm situation and will offer them an opportunity to compare and contrast different business alternatives.

Experience tells us that farmers are at times hesitant to take a good look at their farming operation. The programs we use can help you evaluate many different production and market scenarios and give you concrete numbers which will enable you to make the best decisions for your farming future.

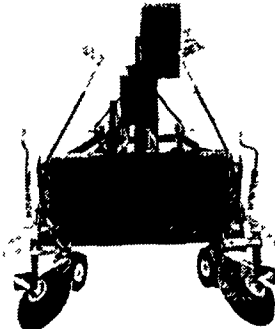

Because of limited space, the workshop will be limited to the first seven (7) farms. Couples are encouraged to participate together. Financial and production records from 1990 are needed for the FIN-PAK programs. All records and computer inputs and outputs will be strictly confidential.

Lebanon County Captures Third Straight Farm-City Award

Lancaster Farming, Saturday, January 19, 1991-A29

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — For the third consecutive year, the Lebanon County Farm City Committee placed first in a statewide contest for its year-round efforts to promote rural and urban understanding.

Led by Constance Hoffer, the Lebanon County Committee narrowly defeated the Franklin County Farm-City Week Committee and the Mifflin County Farm-City Committee.

Secretary of Agriculture Boyd E. Wolff presented an engraved plaque to the three county organizations in the Small Arena during the 75th Farm Show at the start of Dairy Night.

Judging for the awards was based on innovative approach, community impact, use of local resources, citizen participation and rural-urban cooperation. The Farm-City activity scrapbooks submitted for judging will be on display for individuals interested in promoting the farm-city concept.

The Lebanon County Farm-City Committee, a part of the regular agriculture committee of the Lebanon Valley Chamber of Commerce, sponsored many farm-city activities throughout 1990 to capture the winning title.

They took senior citizens and elementary students on farm tours, held local job exchanges and assembled a farm display at the Lebanon Valley Mall.

The committee also held a special farm breakfast for the local media covering their Farm-City Week activities and sponsored a Farm-City Week kickoff banquet.

Committee activities took farmers to banks, factories and processing companies, and likewise, took business representatives to Lebanon County farms. Committee members also filled baskets with Lebanon County agricultural products for needy people in the area.

Placing second was the Franklin

County Farm-City Council, co-chaired by Dalton Paul, Julia Meyers and John Shearer. Their sponsored activities included an agricultural exposition at the Chambersburg Mall, local job exchanges between farmers and business people, an elementary school art poster contest and a great pumpkin caper decorating contest.

Along with the Franklin County Society of Farm Women, the council took area school children on farm tours.

Chaired by Donna Snook, the Mifflin County Farm-City Committee sponsored local store displays, billboards and a mall show. They conducted a poster contest, local job exchange program, Fall Frolic Square Dance and Farm-City Week Banquet. The committee presented Mifflin County Farm Family (Aurand family) and Business Family (co-owners of Danks' Department Store) awards and had the Mifflin County Commissioners sign a proclamation declaring Farm-City Week.

Next year's Pennsylvania Farm-City Week Celebration is slated for Nov. 22 through Nov. 28.

Secretary Wolff said he is encouraging local organizations to get more involved in farm and city understanding by sponsoring events in their own community.

For more information on submitting materials for next year's awards program, call (717) 540-9300.

Representatives of the award winning Lebanon County Farm-City Week Committee receive a plaque from state Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff. From the left, Thomas Osborne, who was judged Mr. Farm-City, Janine Winebark, Miss Farm-City, Constance Hoffer, chairman of the committee, Stephan Vegoe, executive director of the Lebanon County Chamber of Commerce, and Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff.

possible sale of powdered milk to another country but it fell through because the EC was selling powdered milk for about one-half of the U.S. price. That in my opinion is theft of a market.

Mr. Rowles and PFA have the same goal... more net income for our farmer members. But, the majority of our members want the market to dictate our prices, not government, giving us what they term is "a fair price" for our products.

The majority of our members put their faith in good economics and the market place.

It's impossible for the U.S. farmer to compete with the budget of the EC. But when it comes to efficient production of farm commodities we can knock their socks off. Given the opportunity to compete on fair terms, our markets will expand and our prices will increase.

For Yield, Quality, and Persistence... W.L. alfalfa stands alone year after year.

Today's successful growers work harder than ever before — but they also work smarter. Alfalfa farmers across the country recognize that in tough times, they can't afford to gamble with anything less than W.L. alfalfa seed to give them the high yields, quality forage and long stand life necessary for a profitable crop. They also know that W.L. alfalfas are backed up by over 25 years of research, technical teams of experts and a reliable, service oriented distribution system.

You can't buy better alfalfa seed than W.L. — you can't afford to buy less.

"If the news media is reporting drug residues in the milk supply, it doesn't matter at what level the residue exists. If the public perceives a problem, it is a problem."

A new check list and implementation program of quality assurance has been developed by the Federation and the American Veterinarian Association. Some of the items covered by the program that relate to the new federal laws include:

1. Use FDA approved products.
2. Develop a veterinarian/client relationship.
3. Have drugs properly labeled by a veterinarian and follow the label exactly.
4. Store drugs for lactating animals away from other drugs.
5. Identify treated animals properly.
6. Keep permanent records of treatments.

7. Test for residues on each treated animal before allowing milk or meat to be sent to market.

"If you don't have a specific test for the drug you use, don't use it," Adams said. "We can eliminate drug residues in milk and meat. And we must do this to maintain consumer confidence and satisfy the regulatory concerns that now confront us."

"We must fine tune the testing of individual dairy cows that have been treated to make sure our milk supply is free from all traces of drug residues."

Marc Goldman, Farmland Dairies, presented his views on how to handle the declining consumer use of milk.

"The radical concept I propose," said Goldman, tongue in cheek, "is to sell more milk."

Goldman said the seemingly simple law of economics in the system of supply and demand goes against much of the nation's dairy policy over the last 50 years.

"For generations, dairying has focused most of its attention, lobbying efforts and congressional debate, on the supply side. We have tried to control what comes out of the cow instead of what goes into the mouth of the consumer."

Goldman's views have become somewhat controversial as he has developed Farmland from a few cows, and the horse-drawn delivery wagon of his grandparents in the early 1900's, to the largest family owned business of its kind in New Jersey. In recent years, Farmland and the Regional Cooperative Marketing Agency (RCMA) were at odds over independent/cooperative memberships. But the questions from the floor here at the Exposition didn't show any resistance to Goldman's proposal to congress and the subsequent mandate to the department of agriculture to create a referendum to have milk processors agree to a 20 cent fluid milk check-off to be used from promotion and marketing. The questions from the floor centered on how the program would work in relation to the present programs supported by the farmer check-off moneys.

"The program would be controlled by a board of dairy processors whose daily dependence on consumer preference make them well suited to oversee this effort," Goldman said. "Milk can and should be positioned as the beverage of fashion and choice to the consumer."

"Just 25 years ago milk was the beverage of choice of Americans,"

Goldman said. "The average person consumed 24 gallons of milk annually, fully one-third more than soft drinks. From then to now, milk consumption has decreased 20 percent while soft drink has increased 300 percent."

Goldman blamed this change in preference, not on a change in the metabolism of the American consumer, but in the supply side management policies of the dairy industry. In addition, he said the soft drink industry has out-gunned the milk industry by a 12 to 1 ration with promotion and advertising funds and the development of new products.

Sophisticated mass marketing efforts for the soft drink industry were pegged at $1 billion per year. And famous persons were called the "foot soldiers" in the beverage wars. Largely through the medium of TV, the soft drink industry has convinced the American consumer that a can of pop is necessary right now. And when a product has reached its market peak, a new version of the product has been introduced in such a way that consumers wondered how they could have done without the product all these years.

"We must react to these trends with the precise tools used by the rest of the beverage industry to regain the market advantage," Goldman said. "The dairy industry can become strong without government hand-outs or controls by simply adhering to this marketing idea. If we focus our policies on demand, we will create an eager consumer."

And if the processors don't approve the check-off for themselves in the referendum? Goldman said failure to approve this program will render the dairy industry a long term sentence of continued decline in consumption.

Other speakers included Jack Van Almelo, Northeast DHIA; Dr. William Heald, Penn State University; Paul Knox, Knoxland Holsteins and Dr. Walter Williams, University of Maryland.

John Dumschat, Rutgers Cooperative Extension was the organizing committee chairman and Everett Newswanger, Lancaster Farming was master of ceremonies.

Doebler's big winners in 1990 trials

by Ted Doebler

I'm Ted Doebler with a mixed bag of winners in our trials. Super singles, commercial hybrids and a three way all made impressive showings.

What a corn year.

Harvest was late last fall but the wait was worth it. Crop reporters tell us Pennsylvania farmers harvested 108 bushels statewide, up five from 1989.

New Jersey and Ohio were also +5, and Delaware, +4. Maryland stayed even at 110 bu. Only Virginia took a tumble. From 110 bu. in 1989 to 95 bu.

Doebler's has some big numbers to trot out, too.

Like Doebler 75X's three 200-bushel yields and a top ten average of 194.1 bu.

And a 1990 best in our strip tests of 222.1 bushels by Doebler's 86XA at Stockton, NJ.

But read on. Here are our top performers in 1990.

Silage winners in farm tests

Full season — Doebler 944-3 way made clean sweep of our silage trials with 21.87 tons silage, 4.46 tons TDN and 1115 lbs. protein. Doebler 84XP close.

Medium season — Doebler 66XP buried the competition with 27.94 tons silage, 5.40 tons TDN and 1241 lbs. protein. Doebler 59X second for silage, TDN; 57XP for protein.

Early season — Super single 45XP headed pack with 20.30 tons silage, 4.41 tons TDN and 1108.4 lbs. protein. Ten best tests of early hybrids averaged 16.5 tons.

These hybrids lead the pack

DOEBLER 86XA, 119 days. Better than we predicted. Wagon filling 222.1 bu. at Stockton, NJ, 202 bu. at Weyers Cave, VA. Top ten average of 193.6 bu. Healthy.

DOEBLER 75X, 113 days. PA's all-time corn champ keeps popping big ones — 218.5, 208.1 and 205.9 bu. in 1990. And a top ten average of 194.9 bu.

DOEBLER 66XP, 103 days. Good blight resistance. Great stalks. Solid producer. Like 193.2 bu. and 24.8% m. at Belleville, PA. And ten best average of 186.6 bu.

DOEBLER 57XP, 97 days. Slightly off its 1988-89 pace. But still a most respectable 179.7 bu. at New Holland, PA. Top ten average, 164.3. Super oomph.

DOEBLER 45XP, 90 days. Big firepower for early season hybrid. 204.5 bu. last fall at Dubois, PA. 165.25 bu. average in Cornell's 1989 trials. Fast dryer.

DOEBLER 35XP, 83 days. Sturdy stalks and solid yields. 2% downcorn and 164.5 bu. in Clearfield County, PA. 1989 best in Cornell trials, 169 bu.

and others in the community have made a large impact on the development of the county's youth.

"The spirit of giving back to the community that supports you is also one of these gifts that apparently has been received by Bomgardner," Winebark said.

Bomgardner said he donated the money because he felt he owed something to the youth organizations. He still has two years' eligibility in the groups.

"I just felt I had been in 4-H and FFA that long that I wanted to give something back," Bomgardner said.

"I could use the money. But I have enough money for college and I just wanted to give something back and I was completely satisfied with the $5,000 and I felt lucky to be there and winning. I felt satisfied.

"We were never in the position to donate or give money before, and now that we were in the position, we were just grateful to be able to give it," he said.

The young man said his plans for the gilt are "To breed it to one of our breed boars and we'll see how she does. We want to use one of the pigs to go to Farm Show next year."

The son of Charles and Marlene Bomgardner, Daryl lives on a farm with his parents.

Charles and his brother Carl are in partnership and have about 350 acres on two farms. They keep about 50 milking grade Holsteins and about 35 Hampshire and Yorkshire purebred sows they use to produce feeder pigs.

They also raise alfalfa, corn, barley, oats and wheat. What they don't use they sell and buy all their sow feed.

Captain and starting guard on his high school basketball team (they were tied with Lancaster Mennonite for first place in the Lancaster-Lebanon Section III league as of presstime), Daryl also pulls his weight at home.

"I mostly help on the hog operation. During the summer I also help with milking.

His long term plans are to go to college, for which the $5,000 is earmarked.

"I want to attend a 4-year college. I'm looking at Penn State. And I want to major in agriculture. I'm leaning toward animal science, or agribusiness, or maybe food science as a major," he said.

Also a member of honor society, Bomgardner has been involved in livestock judging and this past year was second individual in the state 4-H livestock judging contest. In 1989, he placed third in the state in the FFA livestock judging contest and won a trip to the national livestock judging contest in Kansas City, Mo.

The win of the grand champion market swine at the 75th Farm Show rates high on his list of achievements.

"It's right up there, probably number one, as one of my accomplishments," he said.

Also at the livestock sale, the reserve champion market hog, shown by Matthew Howe, of Chester County, brought $4,000 and was purchased by Hatfield Meats Co. It surpassed last year's price of $3,700.

Joe Kuzemchak, of Centre County showed the grand champion market lamb, a 130-pound Hampshire which was bought by Wilmer "Willie the Butcher" Kreider of Stauffers of Kissel Hill, of Lancaster, for $2,200.

It was Kuzemchak's older brother Scott whose 1988 grand champion market lamb brought the record price of $9,675. Scott's 1990 champion brought $2,000.

Between the brothers, the Kuzemchak name has been associated with the Farm Show grand champion market lamb since 1987.

The reserve grand champion market lamb was also bought by Kreider, who paid $1,300 for the 125-pound Suffolk shown by Lisa Reiff of Lancaster.

Bill Campbell of Hoss's Steak and Seafood House purchased both the grand champion and the reserve grand champion steer.

The grand champion steer sold for $11,000 and was shown by Nathan Claycomb, of Bedford County. It was a 1,270 pound Anue/Angus crossbred steer.

The reserve grand champion sold for $3,400 and was shown by Kristin Chupp, of Lancaster. Her Angus/Chianina crossbred steer weighed in at 1,260 pounds.

Overall, the annual sale of youth market livestock compared well to other years. Market prices have somewhat of an affect on prices paid. Lamb prices have been depressed, while beef and swine prices have been up.

Even with the depressed market prices, the number of market lambs entered for competition at the Farm Show was up by 47 entries compared to the 1990 Farm Show.

There were 187 lambs weighed, and 120 sold in auction. The others were either overweight or underweight.

With the grand and average grand champion averaged in, the average price paid per-animal was $196.92, or $1.74 per pound.

Without the champion market lambs average in, the lambs averaged $170.60 each or $1.51 per pound.

Of the market swine, there were 345 weighed in with 165 being sold at auction. The average price per animal was $315 with the record price for the grand champion and the price for the reserve grand champion included. That came to $1.36 per pound.

With the prices of the two top animals figured in, the average market swine sold at Farm Show auction brought $245.76 per animal, or $1.06 per pound.

The record price inflated the average price per animal in the market swine sale. Without the champions, the prices paid matched prices paid last year.

There were 59 steers weighed in with 57 being sold through auction.

With the prices of two champion steers averaged in, they brought $1,393. each, or $1.13 a pound.

The average without the prices for the champions was $1,182.72 per animal, or 96 cents per pound.

Last year's steers average price with the champion was $1.07 per pound. The price without the champion last year was 89 cents per pound.

The snow and freezing rain on Jan. 11 kept most people off of highways and away from the Farm Show complex. However, it didn't seem to detract from the support provided by buyers of the youth's livestock.

"On the auction price, I don't think the weather had any effect," said Charlie Itle, Farm Show assistant director. "The buyers were, for the most part, able to get there, and there were some phone bids made."

The weather did have some affect on other participants, however.

Because of school closings, a high school band which had been scheduled to play the national anthem and intermittent songs during the sale had cancelled due to a weather-caused school closing.

And general public visitors, who had crowded the Farm Show complex all week long, were barely in evidence.

ahead to address them. I am pleased that the beef industry has a long range plan in place that not only forecasts future challenges, but also sets a course for the industry to successfully compete in the future."

In addition to hearing Reese's comments, the meeting attendees were each presented with the Pennsylvania Beef Council's 1989-90 Annual Report. The report, which will be mailed to more than 25,000 producers within the state in the coming weeks, highlights the programs and activities conducted on behalf of producers by their state beef council.

In his closing comments, Pennsylvania Beef Council Executive Director David Ivan thanked the attendees for their continued support of beef council activities. "While the Pennsylvania Beef Council has achieved many successes, the credit must be given to the individual producers, and their various organizations, for their continued support and efforts on the beef industry's behalf."

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The heifers you raise today are the cows you will be milking in the future, and how well those cows will do will be affected by how well you care for your heifers.

Are your calves and heifers doing as well as they should? Are they calving at the proper age and weight, and do they milk as well as they should as first and second calf heifers? Do you know the changes in heifers' needs at various stages in their development? Do you know what your heifer program is costing you?

If you would like to learn more about raising calves and heifers, attend a three-day Dairy Heifer Nutrition and Management School to be conducted in Lancaster and Chester counties by Penn State Cooperative Extension.

The school will be held 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Tuesday, January 22 and 29 at the Farm and Home Center in Lancaster. On Wednesday, January 23 and 30, it will be held at the Cochranville Fire Hall.

A $30 registration fee will be charged for meals and materials. For reservations call (717) 394-6851 for the Lancaster County School and (215) 696-3500 for the Chester County School.

Land Use Policy-Making Under Debate At Ag Breakfast

NEWARK, Del. — This month's Friends of Agriculture breakfast is scheduled for Thursday, January 24, at 7:30 p.m. at the Sheraton Inn, Dover.

The breakfast is sponsored by Delaware Cooperative Extension and state agricultural agencies, and is open to all regardless of race, color, sex, handicap, age, or national origin. Immediately following the breakfast, the Delaware Association of Conservation Districts will hold its annual meeting.

Dr. Gerald Cole, chair of the food and resource economics department at the University of Delaware, will discuss an issue of concern to both agricultural and urban populations — the values, beliefs, and myths in land-use policy making. Cole was instrumental in producing the eight-pamphlet series "Land Use Issues and Alternatives in the Northeast."

The $6 per person buffet will include French toast, bacon, hash brown potatoes, toast and choice of beverage. Make checks payable to Friends of Agriculture and mail to Dave Woodward, Extension Administration, Townsend Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, DE 19717-1303, (301) 451-2505.

Foundation Meets Banquet Set

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Farm and Home Foundation's 27th annual meeting is to be held 6:30 p.m. Tuesday in the auditorium of the Lancaster Farm and Home Center, Tuesday Jan. 22.

The Farm and Home Foundation is the community support group which raised the money to build the center which provided centralized housing for all of the county's agricultural agencies. The foundation continues to own the building and maintain it.

Buying a foundation membership helps maintain the community service structure.

The cost of the ticket for the banquet is $12 each and includes membership dues.

The scheduled program speaker is Jays Howes, director of agricultural service with the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

For more information, contact the Lancaster County Extension Office at 394-6851, or the Farm and Home Center at 392-4911.

N.J. Dairyman Receives Service to Ag Award

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Dairy farmer August Knispel of Pitts-town, N.J., recently received the New Jersey Farm Bureau Distinguished Service to Agriculture Award "in recognition of his many years of outstanding volunteer efforts on dairy issues and farmland preservation in service to his fellow farmers in New Jersey and Northeast United States."

Knispel is a director of Dairylea Cooperative Inc., president of the New Jersey Dairy of Distinction

Board, and a member of the Board of Directors of the Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program. He also is chairman of the New Jersey Milk Industry Advisory Council, president of the Garden State Milk Council, and a member of the Hunterdon County Board of Agriculture Executive Committee.

Knispel, who farms 300 acres in Franklin Township, accepted his award at the New Jersey Farm Bureau convention in Cherry Hill, N.J.

Kore J. Peachey, Milroy, PA

"That's right. But I soon had to change my mind.

You know, at first, people would tell me that if it worked, everybody would be using it. I think the time will come when they will.

For the past two years we've been on the Fertrell Feeding Program, and during that time we've earned Pennsylvania's 'Dairy of Distinction' Award, boosted our profit over feed costs to over $1900 per cow, and had one cow produce a 365-day record 29,000 lbs. of milk with 1,248 lbs.

in fat. We've seen less stress in the cows and we've also noticed less udder edema. Even the quality of our hay is better with Fertrell. The protein levels are higher than they were, even during the drought.

All I can say is, the Fertrell Program is the best I've tried."

OUR ORGANIC FERTILIZER CUSTOMER'S CROPS ARE SO GOOD QUALITY THAT WE OFFERED $12 PER BU. FOR WHITE SOYBEANS to go to soybean food factories scattered over the country. We are getting it now for last year's crops, and $8.00 for yellow beans for livestock because the farmers prove that they are so much better than others for livestock, because they are non toxic. One crop tested 47% protein. We sell this seed. It should produce high protein beans same as a high producing cow's daughters also are high producers.

And our fertilizer which is famous for non toxic crops, will also make better feed for your livestock, worth $8.00 per bu. We sell both the yellow and white beans for seed.

OTHER BENEFITS

Bigger crops than the neighbors, especially in drought and excessive 1989 rains. No need to spray alfalfa. The same for some faithful vegetable growers. Less erosion because springy soil holds the water instead of going down the ditch. Easier tillage, saving fuel and time. Good high producing herds need very little bought minerals. They are in the crops in better balance than man can do it. Ask for literature. State your interest.

Pa. Holstein Association Convention Offers Full Agenda

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The 1991 Pennsylvania Holstein Association convention at the Berkshire Sheraton Hotel in Reading has a full agenda with entertainers, an art contest, tours, and several speakers, in addition to awards presentations and an annual business meeting. The three-day event is to run from Thursday, Feb. 21 through Saturday, Feb. 23. Deadline for tickets is Feb. 6. Room reservations must be made by Jan. 31. Ticket prices vary, depending on the number of events to which attendance is desired. At most, a full complement of tickets for events possible costs $60.50 (See ticket form in this issue).

On Thursday, the registration desk opens at 10 a.m. in the main lobby of the hotel. Commercial exhibits will be on display in the lobby during the convention.

The Pa. Holstein Association Board of Directors meets from 1 p.m. to 2:45 p.m.

A dairy bar, located near the hotel swimming pool in the Wyomissing Room, opens at 1 p.m. and remains open during the convention.

Also at 1 p.m., an art contest is open for viewing. Officials said the art contest is open to all convention attendees.

"Contestants can bring their paintings, photographs, stitchery projects, quilted wall hangings, and wood or stained glass projects to the convention. Each entry must have a Holstein cow depicted in it. Paintings, photos, or stitcheries must be matted or framed," according to an association news release.

From 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. a panel program called "Holstein Breeders — Supporters of Animal Welfare" is to be held, featuring a number of federal and state officials.

Included on the panel are to be Linda Detwiller, spokesperson for USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service; Mable Owen, director of the Division of Animal Health in Boston, Mass.; Dr. Stanley Curtis, department head of dairy science at Penn State University; and Dr. Thomas Hartstook, an extension livestock specialist with the University of Maryland.

Starting at 6 p.m. Thursday, is a social hour that features sauted veal, chicken wings, deep fried, stuffed and broiled mushrooms, cheeses, ring bologna, Lebanon bologna, dips, fruits, and vegetables and milk punch.

At 7 p.m. the convention banquet begins. The guest speaker for the evening is Cynthia Kereluk, 1984 Miss Canada and current spokesperson for the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Agency (MAMMA). Kereluk has a daily exercise show on cable television and writes a newspaper column about fitness. She is to talk about fitness and her efforts to promote dairy products.

The banquet meal is to feature stuffed breast of capon, vegetables and ice cream.

Following the meal, Country Western show group "Shucks" is to perform contemporary and traditional country music, gospel music and songs from the 1950s and 60s.

Also following the banquet, presentations of the Pennsylvania Hall of Fame award and the Distinguished Young Breeders awards are to be made.

On Friday, registration will continue to be accepted from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the hotel lobby.

Also starting at 8 a.m., and continuing to noon is to be a tour of Rothrock Golden Holsteins and Plushanski Farms. A box lunch is provided enroute.

From 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., a ladies' program and luncheon is scheduled with a presentations by Oley Valley Redware and Vanity Fairy followed by a shopping tour at outlet stores.

From 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., the 78th annual meeting of the association is scheduled to be held in the hotel ballroom.

Wally Lindskoog, owner of Arlinda Holsteins in Turlock, California, is to be the guest speaker for the banquet. His speech is called "Stewardship — Wally Lindskoog's Walk With God."

Also on Friday is the convention sale. It starts with a pre-sale buffet from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. and the sale commences at 7 p.m. in the ballroom.

Saturday morning at 7:30 a.m. is the awards breakfast followed by an awards program and guest speaker John Tenneson. Tenneson is co-owner of Skagvale Holstein Farms in Sedro-Wooley, Washington.

Farm Operation Agreements

The advantages again are spreading the risk of success, a relatively inexpensive method for a young farmer to go into business and be reasonably assured of quality feedstuffs.

But the incentives may be taken away from the tenant, it requires a closer working relationship with more potential for disagreements to arise, provides for little profit to the tenant, can create tax problems for the landlord, and most likely is not a long term situation.

The fourth type of scenario which has even a less chance of working is for the landlord to own the land, machinery and a portion of the cows and the tenant owns a portion of the herd. He also does no fieldwork and may haul manure. In effect the tenant is a herdsman with a partial ownership of the herd.

Problems such as different treatment of animals, lack of incentives to produce, possible tax problems, far outway for most that this is the cheapest way for a young farmer to break into the business.

But according to Strock all four of these hypothetical situations can work if the potential partners sit down and work out details such as when rent is due, how much of a milk check split is fair... all questions that can come to mind... and then talk it over with an attorney, an accountant. See if it still sounds like a comfortable relationship that will generate income and happiness and then proceed.

Although the services of Strock and Shirk are limited to their own areas, others interested in finding out more details of setting up agreements and rates can contact their local extension agent for help in acquiring information and direction.

Mifflin Artist Preserves History With A Paint Brush

Gail Strock

BELLEVILLE (Mifflin Co.) —

Nothing warms the heart quite like seeing a painting, sketch, or photograph of something familiar, something from the past, something nostalgic. Artists capture on canvas what historians describe with words. In areas where the land brings forth new generations with roots deep in the community, the urge grows stronger to save images of local landmarks — ones that, if not gone already, will not last the next 20 years. Caught on canvas by local artists everywhere are the old mills, the old railroad, main street and the general store, centennial and bi-centennial farms, the ageless mountains and the timeless Amish.

One such local artist, gaining popularity outside the Mifflin County area as well, is Daphne Marthouse of Belleville in Big Valley. Daphne's latest print entitled "Israel B's", an oil painting of an Amish farm during sale day, is one of Daphne's first nostalgic touches at preserving history.

"That farm is right down around the corner from where I lived and just about every day my sister and I had to carry a milk can down to Israel B's. There was a grandmother's house attached and every once in a while, she'd come to the door and call us in and give us those little pink wintergreen lozenges.

Israel B. died two years ago, and I went to the sale that April to buy roofing slate to stencil. It was like a reunion. It had been 20 years since I'd been there and a lot of the Amish kids I'd played with were there."

While painting things characteristic of Big Valley, Daphne is every mindful of the issue of exploiting the Amish. "You can ask them if you can take a picture of their 'carriage' as they call it, and they don't mind as long as you're not taking a photo of them. And I respect that, I really do."

"I'd really like to preserve some of the Belleville area. Buildings are coming down and things just aren't there anymore. This is where I grew up. These are things that were here when I was little.

Like the grainery isn't there anymore. I'd love to have a photograph of that."

Artistically, Daphne works with oil paints, water colors, pencil, pastels, and pen and ink. "The summer after high school (1977), I went straight to work at the 'Framing Gallery' in Lewistown. That's where I got a lot of education as far as prints, art work, how to market it, helping to sell. I was there nine years."

In 1985, Daphne held her first one-person show, a sell-out, and from that, generated her first print. Her second show, also a sell-out, took place at the "Artist's Circle" in State College in 1987.

"I'm ready for another one. It'll be the end of May at the Westside Gallery (formerly The Framing Gallery) in Lewistown where most of my originals are."

Daphne spends much of her time marketing her latest print "Israel B's". "There's a gift shop in Intercourse, Lancaster County, called 'Nancy's Corner' who sells a lot of my stuff." Daphne attends two art festivals each year in Mifflin County and a show held at and sponsored by the Central PA Business School in Harrisburg.

Daphne speaks of priorities in her life now. Married to Jim Marthouse of Lewistown, with two girls, 7-year-old Lindsey and 2-year-old Casey, she chooses to avoid the pressure of raising a family and expanding the business.

"I'm hiding! As far as any type of large exposure because of the children for now. It's not worth sacrificing a peaceful home life. When the youngest gets to be six or seven, I'll start expanding a little," Daphne explains.

In fact, the quality of her painting depends on having the time to do it right. "I don't like the stress and pressure. You put me under stress and pressure and you're going to end up with a picture that looks bad. It's not going to be thought out, looked at, and studied to catch mistakes."

Daphne is thankful for her husband's support, not only financially, but also for his business sense and for his honesty in what he thinks. "I really rely on him," Daphne adds.

While respecting the privacy of the Amish, Daphne Marthouse paints scenes of rural life in Mifflin County's Big Valley.

The Belleville area of Mifflin County abounds with scenes such as this - a print from an oil painting by Daphne Marthouse entitled "Israel B's".

Overall, Daphne gives credit to God. "In everything I give credit to the Lord. He's my strength. He is in the middle of all I do. He's going to say when to go ahead and when to stop! And I think that's why I'm dragging my feet now. Because of the priorities in my life. I think if I would run right ahead now (with art work), I'd run into a couple of closed doors".

Daphne's talent was first noticed by teachers as early as kindergarten. She realizes the importance of encouragement from others, both as she was growing up and now - teachers, her family, and her husband. She comes from a creative family.

"I had a grandfather who was into everything from musical instruments to chalk drawings in churches. He had such a big span. Dad isn't an artist but he's a craftsman in wood. So there's creativity down through there". Daphne's father occasionally writes poems to use with her art work. "I think because I was encouraged when I was little to pursue it and had an interest in it, that's what got me where I am today."

Daphne does not always paint from photographs. "Some of my better paintings come from blurry photographs. It left a little area there for creativity. Some things, when you've got to be exact, like 'Israel B's', it's nice to have a good photograph. Sometimes I get something in my mind and paint it, but then it's not of an exact place."

As long as people are happy with my paintings and feel they're worth it, that's all I want. Painting is something I have to do. It's hard to explain. I'll sit down and color with Lindsey to satisfy that need to create", Daphne laughs.

Daphne Marthouse's art work can be seen at the Westside Gallery in Lewistown and at Nancy's Corner in Intercourse. She can also be contacted at RD1, Box SW6, Belleville, PA 17004 or by calling (717) 483-6277.

*I wish I could go down that lane again, --
And smell the tea and feel the wind --
And hear Dad say, with a great big grin,
"Come on son, time to bring the cows in again."*

© 1990 Buddy Krapps

This poem was written by Daphne's father. She sells the poem with the pictures of the Amish boy herding the cows. The pen and ink sketches by Daphne appear on note cards.

The oil painting "Dancy's Shadow" was painted by Daphne Marthouse of Belleville, Mifflin County.

One tree doesn't make a Woods

Nor does just one product. That's why when Woods introduced the world's first successful tractor powered rotary shredder back in 1947, they didn't rest on their laurels. Instead, they continued to apply outstanding engineering expertise producing equipment packed with performance, reliability and value. The results: a line-up of over 50 different products including mowers, cutters, rear scraper blades, back-hoes and specialty machines. The best that money can buy.

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

For winter snacking — whether it be for Super Bowl or old-time movie-watching parties — hearty foods are in order. A snack made with lean pork strips, spicy seasonings, and a low-cal dipping sauce is one answer. And, the answer to quick convenient cooking is your microwave.

The pork cuts that work best for today's recipes and are best for microwaving are the leanest of the "new" lean pork. I say "new" because a recent study by the University of Wisconsin revealed that pork producers are indeed raising leaner hogs. The study reported that since the last U.S. Department of Agriculture report in 1983, pork has become on the average 31 percent leaner, 17 percent lower in calories, and 10 percent lower in cholesterol. If you'd like a free brochure that gives calorie, fat and cholesterol counts and other information about the "new" lean pork, send a stamped, self-addressed business-sized envelope to National Pork Producers Council, P.O. Box 10383, Des Moines, Iowa 50306.

Any of these pork chop cuts — center rib, center loin and top loin — are the leanest and the tenderest of the cuts and are ideal for microwaving because they stay tender, moist and juicy. These cuts all have fewer than 180 calories, 9 grams of fat, 3.5 grams of saturated fat, and 80 milligrams of cholesterol in a cooked, trimmed three-ounce serving. The tenderloin, coming in at a mere 133 calories, 67 milligrams cholesterol, and 4.1 grams fat per three-ounce cooked serving, is the lowest and also microwaves well. (Use slightly less microwaving time.)

I've found that pork strips when microwaved as in today's recipes, are best done on a Medium-Low setting. This is 30 percent power or about 200 watts. When you microwave the strips in a bowl, as in micro-stir-frying, High power works OK, but the lower power helps prevent the strips (and the roll-ups) from overcooking. Notice that the strips and roll-ups should be turned over and rearranged halfway through cooking. That prevents some from overcooking and getting tough, while others remain undone.

Cook pork to a medium doneness — that means the strips and roll-ups can look slightly pink when done. They will be juicy, tender and safe to eat. According to the Food Safety and Inspection Service, fresh pork can safely be cooked to a medium doneness (160° F). FSIS tests show that Trichinella spiralis (a parasite that is in a tiny amount — only .1 percent — of the U.S. pork supply) is destroyed instantly when pork is cooked to an internal temperature of 137° F. (Rare is 147° F.).

The first recipe, Piggie Wings is a take-off on the popular Buffalo Chicken Wings (sometimes called Western New York Chicken Wings). First made in 1964 at the Anchor Bar in Buffalo, New York, their fame has spread to other cities and states. The original calls for deep-fat-frying chicken wings and serving them with a buttery hot sauce. A blue cheese dipping sauce, made with mayonnaise, sour cream, blue cheese and seasonings, is also traditionally served with them.

My version switches to lean pork strips coated with spicy seasonings and quickly microwaved with no added fat. The dipping sauce combines two low-fat ingredients: non-fat plain yogurt and bottled low-calorie blue cheese salad dressing.

The second recipe, Seasoned Pork Roll-Ups, also calls for a seasoned coating of no-calorie herbs and spices. Vary the seasonings any way you want, but be sure to use paprika to add color.

Piggie Wings (Spicy Pork Strips)

2 teaspoons dried marjoram leaves
1 teaspoon paprika
¼ -1 teaspoon chili powder
¼ teaspoon garlic powder or salt
¼ -½ teaspoon black pepper
½ teaspoon ground ginger
8 ounces ½-inch-thick boneless pork chop, cut in ¾-inch-thick strips

Buffalo Dipping Sauce (below)

Mix together seasonings, varying amount of chili powder and black pepper to suit your taste. Coat strips with seasoning; arrange in a single layer on a microwavable tray or large pie plate. Cover with waxed paper. Microwave on Medium-Low (30 percent power, 200 watts) 4 minutes. Turn strips over and rearrange; re-cover. Continue microwaving on Medium-Low 4 to 4½ minutes. (When done, pork will still be slightly pink. Cut into several of the largest slices to check for doneness.) Serve hot with Buffalo Dipping Sauce. Makes 6 to 8 snack servings.

Note: For 4 ounces of pork strips, microwave on Medium-Low a total of 4 to 4½ minutes; for 1 pound, 16 to 18 minutes.

Buffalo Dipping Sauce (Low-Fat)

½ cup non-fat plain yogurt
½ cup "light" blue cheese salad dressing

Stir together ingredients. Serve with Piggie Wings, Pork Roll-Ups, or fresh vegetables as a dip. Refrigerate if making ahead. Makes 1 cup.

Note: Nutrients in this sauce will vary considerably, depending on the type of salad dressing you use. Check dressing labels and choose the "light" dressing with the lowest fat and calories.

Variations: Substitute low-fat sour cream for yogurt and your favorite creamy-type (for example: creamy Italian, ranch, or mustard dijon) salad dressing for blue cheese salad dressing.

Seasoned Pork Roll-Ups

1 teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon dried thyme leaves, crushed
½ teaspoon dried rosemary leaves, crushed
¼ teaspoon dried tarragon leaves, crushed
4 ounces ¼-inch-thick boneless pork chop, cut in ¾-inch-thick strips

Buffalo Dipping Sauce (above) (optional)

Mix together seasonings. Coat strips with seasoning. Roll up each strip, with seasoned-side to outside, fastening with a wooden pick. Arrange (cut side down) in a circle, with the center open, on a microwavable dinner or pie plate. Cover with waxed paper. Microwave on Medium-Low (30 percent power, 200 watts) 3 minutes. Turn strips over and rearrange; re-cover. Continue microwaving on Medium-Low 2½ to 3 minutes.

Serve hot with Buffalo Dipping Sauce. Makes 2 to 4 snack servings.

Note: For 8 ounces of pork strips, microwave on Medium-Low a total of 8 to 9 minutes.

Each serving — ¼ of recipe, made with center loin chop, without Buffalo Dipping Sauce: 42 calories, 7g protein, 1.7g fat, 0 carbohydrate, 10mg sodium, 17.5mg cholesterol.

Variation: Place a strip of thin ham in each seasoning-coated strip before rolling up. Serve hot or well-chilled with Buffalo Dipping Sauce.

To make butter curls, simply draw the hook for a butter curler down the length of a stick of butter. Then drop the curls into ice water to set their shape.

When making a cream sauce that starts from a roux (cooked flour and butter), a wire whip works well for blending the roux with the milk or cream and for stirring the sauce as it cooks. Beware, however, that the chemical reaction between a metal spoon or whip and an aluminum pan can cause discoloration of some sauces.

Have You Heard?

Sharpen Your Check-Out Skills

One of the most frustrating parts of grocery shopping is the long wait at check-out lanes. Here are some suggestions from checkers and store managers to help speed you through. Read them carefully and do your part the next time you shop for groceries.

When approaching check-out lanes that are in use, look to see if the lane light is on (when lights are used). If not, that checker is usually about to close. There is nothing more exasperating than standing in line only to find out that it is closing before you get through.

When you get to the cash register, tell the checker immediately if you want any special handling (such as packing all frozen food together, etc), whether you have coupons, and if you have a food stamp order. Usually it is best to place coupons with products as you unload your cart.

Follow the posted directions when using express lines. Do not exceed the number of items for express lane check-out. Express lanes are usually open only at the busiest times. If express lanes are to be helpful, we need to use them in the way the supermarket suggests. When express lanes are not open and you are waiting in a regular check-out lane, be courteous to others. If the person behind you has only a couple of items and you have a cart full, let them go ahead of you. You know how you appreciate this kindness when someone does it for you. Also, allow easy access to other shoppers who must cut across check-out lines.

Have your money ready and be sure you have enough. If you plan to write a check, have as much of the check filled out as possible, such as the supermarket name, date and your signature, so that all you have to do is fill in the amount when the total is run up on the cash register. Have your check-cashing card or your driver's license ready if needed for further identification.

If the supermarket does not have electronic cash registers that read the UPC codes, place all the items selling at multiple prices ("2 for's" and "3 for's") together. Place all purchases with the prices up facing the checker. It is also a big help if you separate non-taxable items from taxable ones. Send the non-taxables through first. It helps if foods are grouped on the conveyors according to departments - meat, produce, dairy and grocery - because cash registers have a separate key for ringing up different categories. On food stamp orders, separate the non-food items from food items and those not eligible and place them on the conveyor last. Of course, electronic cash registers read the UPC bar codes and record all the information.

Store managers suggest that if you see checker practices that are a disservice to the shopper, such as lengthy chats with customers, charging regular prices for sale items, cash register mistakes, let your concerns be known to store managers. The management wants your shopping trip to be a pleasant one, and the only way they will know your complaints is if you tell them.

By following some of these guidelines, you wait in line will be shortened and you will be doing your part to speed up the process. Everyone, store managers, checkers and customers alike, recognize the problem, so working together is the best way to accomplish the speediest, most efficient check-out.

All-American Brick cheese got its name for the fact that bricks were once used to weigh the curd and press out the whey. It is also shaped like a brick.

If a cream sauce is too thick, thin it with cream or milk beating in a tablespoon at a time after the sauce has boiled for one minute. If it's too thin, blend 1/2 tablespoon butter with 1/2 tablespoon flour until paste-like. Beat paste into sauce; boil one minute; repeat if necessary.

Pizza — Any Way You Want It

You say the pizza you brought lacks the rich flavor you were savoring? The deluxe version from your favorite pizza parlor doesn't string the way you expected?

Don't blame the cheese — the topping might be an imposter!

There are imitations for more than a dozen real cheeses. Read the ingredients. Real cheese is made primarily from milk. Imitation cheese is made from vegetable fat and casein. Imitations contain water, stabilizers, emulsifiers, vitamins, minerals, and chemical additives.

For the best flavor and nutrition — always use real cheese. You can taste the difference.

CRAZY CRUST PIZZA

Batter:

- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon Italian seasoning or leaf oregano
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 2 eggs
- ¾ cup milk

Topping:

- Meat mixture of 1½ pounds ground beef or sausage or 1 cup thinly sliced pepperoni
- ¼ cup chopped onion, if desired
- 1 4-ounce can mushroom stems and pieces, well drained
- 1 cup Pizza sauce*
- 1 cup shredded Mozzarella cheese

In medium skillet, brown ground beef or sausage (no need to brown pepperoni). Season to taste. Drain well. Set aside. Lightly grease and dust a pizza or jelly roll pan with flour or cornmeal.

Prepare batter. In a small bowl, combine flour, salt, Italian seasoning, pepper, eggs, and milk, mixing until smooth. Pour into pan; tilting pan so batter covers bottom. Arrange topping of meat, onion, and well-drained mushrooms over batter.

Bake on low rack in oven at 425 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes until pizza is deep golden brown. Remove from oven; drizzle with pizza sauce and sprinkle with cheese. Return to oven for 10 to 15 minutes.

If desired, use 1 8-ounce can tomato sauce, 1 to 2 teaspoon leaf oregano, and ¼ teaspoon pepper as substitute for pizza sauce.

DELICIOUS PIZZA

- 1 package dry yeast
- 1½ cups lukewarm water
- 2 tablespoons oil
- ¾ cups flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 8-ounce can tomato sauce
- 1 6-ounce can tomato paste
- ½ cup water
- 1 teaspoon oregano
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 2 8-ounce packages shredded mozzarella cheese

Dissolve yeast in water; add oil. Combine flour and salt; add yeast mixture. Mix until well blended. On a floured surface, knead dough until smooth, about 10 minutes. Place dough in greased bowl. Cover; let rise in a warm place until double in bulk, about 1½ hours. Punch down; divide dough in half. Roll each half to fit a lightly greased 14-inch pizza pan. Heat oven to 425 degrees.

Sauce: Combine tomato sauce, paste, water, oregano and salt; mix well. Spread ½ of mixture over each pizza crust. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake at 425 degrees for 20 minutes.

Any topping of your choice can be added before baking.

FRUIT PIZZA

First layer:

- ½ cup margarine
- 1 egg
- 2¼ cups flour
- Pinch of salt
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ cup milk
- ½ teaspoon vanilla

Combine ingredients and spread on a greased pizza pan or an 11x15-inch cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 12 minutes. Cool.

Second layer:

- 1 8-ounce cream cheese, softened
- 1 can condensed milk
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- ½ cup lemon juice

Whip cream cheese until smooth. Slowly add condensed milk, lemon juice and vanilla. Spread over cooled crust. Top with your favorite combination of fresh fruit or drained canned fruit. Chill and serve.

May also be glazed with ¼ cup fruit preserves mixed with 1 tablespoon water or juice.

If it's pizza you want, you'll find many different ways to make it.

VEGETABLE STROMBOLI

- 4 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 2 ounces oil
- 1 package dry yeast
- 1½ cups warm water

Stir flour, salt, sugar, and oil until blended. Mix water and yeast in other container. Let set for 3 minutes. Mix in with other ingredients until dough is workable then knead. Divide into 3 parts. Make a round ball and let set in refrigerator for about 15 minutes.

Or use one loaf of frozen bread dough. Thaw and spread on oiled cookie sheet to a 10-inch round shape. Flip dough one or two times for easy spreading.

Combine the following ingredients to make about a 2 pound mixture: Mushrooms, onion, sweet peppers, ground meat, sausage, pepperoni or ham. 12 to 15 slices American cheese and 3 cups mozzarella cheese. Put vegetables in center of dough. Spread out a little and add 1 cup sauce, sprinkle on a little salt. Put cheese to top, another of layer of vegetables, sauce and cheese. Fold two top ends. Overlap sides and flip over on side and stretch lengthwise on ungreased pan. Put about four 1-inch slits in the top to let air out. Bake in 400 degree oven for 15 to 20 minutes or until light brown.

PIZZA

Dough:

- 1 package instant dry yeast
 - ¼ cup hot water
 - 1 tablespoon sugar
 - 3 cups flour
 - 1 cup milk
 - 1 tablespoon margarine
- Dissolve yeast and sugar in ¼ cup hot water. Set aside. In a large bowl, melt 1 tablespoon of margarine in 1 cup milk. Add 1 cup flour to milk and margarine mixture. Blend well. Add yeast mixture and stir.

Add balance of flour, mixing well. Turn dough onto a floured pastry board and knead, adding more flour if necessary until dough is no longer sticky.

Place dough in greased bowl, cover and set aside to rise until doubled in bulk. When dough has risen, punch down, divide into 3 equal parts. Roll out one piece at a time to fit pizza pan.

Grease pizza pan, lay in dough, trim to fit pan. Sprinkle dough with garlic powder and oregano if desired.

Cover dough with pizza sauce. Sprinkle with oregano and shredded mozzarella cheese and topping of your choice: pepperoni, mushrooms, onions, cheese, sweet peppers, meat balls, sausage or anchovies.

Pizza sauce:

Finely chop 1 onion and 1 or 2 garlic cloves. Simmer lightly in 2 tablespoons of oil. Add 1 16-ounce can tomato sauce and 1 8-ounce can tomato paste. Add 24 ounces of water (1 can of water for each can of sauce and paste. Stir until smooth. Cook on medium heat until simmering. Lower heat to low. Add oregano, Italian seasonings and oil. Simmer sauce to thicken about 1 hour.

PIZZARONE

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- Salt and pepper to taste
- ½ teaspoon oregano
- ½ teaspoon garlic powder
- 2 8-ounce cans tomato sauce
- 2 cups raw macaroni
- 1 cup milk
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1 cup shredded cheese

Brown ground beef with chopped onion and add spices and tomato sauce. Set to simmer while crust.

Cook macaroni according to package directions and drain well. Stir milk, beaten eggs and ½ cheese into the cooked macaroni. Spread macaroni mixture on well-buttered cookie sheet or 2 pie plates. Bake crust at 350 degrees, 15 minutes. Remove from oven and spread with beef-tomato sauce; sprinkle with remaining cheese. Bake an additional 10 minutes. Cut into wedges to serve.

The second annual Ice Cream Churn-Off held at the Pennsylvania Farm Show was won again by Jim and Faye Reisinger of Loysville. Their strawberry ice cream earned them $300.

Ice cream churn-off judges included Phil Keeney Jr., Hershey Creamery Co.; Judy Zerby, PSU Dairy Products judging team; and Mrs. Peggy Wolff.

Churn a batch of this prize-winning ice cream.

STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM

- ¾ cups to 4 cups crushed strawberries
- ½ cup sugar

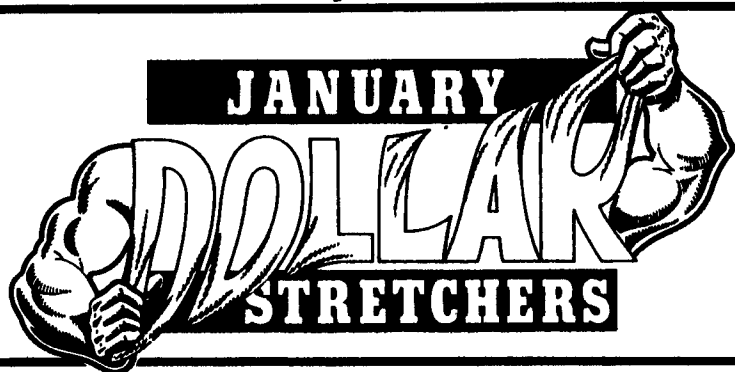

Combine sugar and strawberries and let this mixture stand for 10 to 15 minutes, stirring occasionally.

- 4 pasteurized processed eggs
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon imitation vanilla
- 1 can sweetened condensed milk
- 1 pint whipping cream
- 1 cup milk
- ½ teaspoon salt

Beat eggs for two to three minutes. Add sugar and salt and continue beating a couple more minutes. Add vanilla, sweetened condensed milk and whole milk. Beat until well blended. Add strawberries and mix well. By hand, stir in cream. (The amount of sugar put with the strawberries depends on the sweetness of the berries). Makes 4 quarts.

Cook's Question Corner

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — Tracy Moyer, Reading, would like to know how to make cotton candy. If we do not receive an answer to this request within the next week, we will drop the request.

QUESTION — Myah Tielman, Lehigh, would like a recipe for a round loaf of rye bread similar to that which had been sold by Fritzinger's Bakery, Walnutport, which is now out of business.

QUESTION — Betty from Pennsylvania would like a bologna recipe for venison that tastes like Seltzer's Lebanon Bologna.

QUESTION — Nancy Bennett, Port Matilda, would like a recipe for an all butter coffee cake that tastes like those made by Sarah Lee.

QUESTION — Raymond Stauffer, Stevens, wants recipes using licorice extract.

QUESTION — A Southeastern Pennsylvania reader would like a recipe for a homemade horseradish sauce.

QUESTION — Mrs. A.W. Stang from Knoxville, Md., would like a recipe for homemade root beer.

QUESTION — Tracy Moyer from Reading would like a recipe for chocolate chip cookies that do not get hard after they are baked. She would also like one for soft and moist oatmeal raisin whoopie pies.

QUESTION — Mrs. Jamie Bagley of Shunk, Sullivan County would like a recipe for shrimp in a white sauce poured over rice.

QUESTION — Cordelia Wolfe of Seven Valleys would like a recipe for peanut butter pie similar to the one sold at a cheese stand at Root's Auction. She thinks it has cream cheese in it and a crumb crust with a thin layer of chocolate, the peanut butter mixture, and chocolate drizzled on top.

QUESTION — Violet Darty of Mercersburg lost her great-grandmother's recipe for an applesauce sponge cake. How about it readers, can you help her?

QUESTION — Barbara Randall of Holcomb, N.Y. would like a recipe for sugar cookies that stay soft.

QUESTION — Marian Mosemann of Lehigh, thanks our readers for the many good recipes she has found in this paper through the years. She has requests for a fudge without sugar, an egg cheese recipe using goat milk, a Russian tea mixture, and a recipe for gingerbread ornaments made out of applesauce and cinnamon.

ANSWER — Donna Merkeel, Strykersville, N.Y., requested a recipe to make peanut butter and a recipe to make old-style rock candy on a string. Thanks to Mrs. Jamie Bagley of Shunk and to a mom who loves this column for sending the rock candy recipe, and thanks to Lois Hostetter of Lititz for sending a recipe for peanut butter.

Rock Candy

- 1 cup water
- 1 cup sugar

First, prepare string as follows: Tie string around the middle of a pencil leaving one end long. Set pencil across the brim of a cup with string hanging into the center of the cup but not touching the bottom.

Boil 1 cup of water. Add 1 cup sugar. Stir until sugar dissolves. Pour mixture into the cup. Let set in a cool place for 7 days.

Rock Candy

Punch holes at the top edge of a thin 8-inch square pan and lace about 7 strings or sticks from one side to the other. Place the laced pan in a pan deep enough to catch any leaking syrup.

Dissolve 2½ cups sugar in 1 cup water. Cook without stirring to about hard ball stage 247-252 degrees. Pour syrup into laced pan. It should reach a level about ¾ -inch above strings. Cover the surface with a piece of foil. Watch and wait. The syrup sometimes takes a week to crystallize. Lift out the laced pan. Cut strings or sticks and dislodge the rock candy. Rinse quickly in cold water and put on racks in a very low oven to dry.

Peanut Butter

Put one-half to one pound roasted peanuts, salted or unsalted in a blender. Blend until it turns to peanut butter. Stop and scrap sides often.

ANSWER — Dianne from Halifax requested a recipe for yogurt coating used on pretzels, peanuts, and raisins. Thanks to Rose Marie Jerals of Ringus, N.J., and to Deidre from Hope, N.J. who writes that yogurt coating is too hard to make at home since ingredients are not usually available. Commercially-made yogurt coating is made by Eagle Brand sold in some supermarkets and candy stores or order from Maid of Scandinavia, 3244 Raleigh Avenue, Minneapolis, MN 55416. Catalogue number 93793 at $6.95 for 2½ pounds.

ANSWER — Mary Gardner, Newburg, requested recipes for pasties. Thanks to Deidre of Hope, N.J. and to Pat Michalak who is from Michigan's Lower Peninsula. Deidre writes that pasties are a Welsh all-in-one meal of meat, potato and sometimes onion in a pie crust dough like a turnover. The only all vegetable pasties that she has seen are made by Pepperidge Farms. Deidre writes that you must use a puff type pastry since regular pie crust is too heavy. Vegetables should be precooked and mixed with a cheese or cream sauce. A shortcut to make this dish is to make tart shells and fill with your favorite fillings such as broccoli in cheese sauce.

Pasty Dough

Sift together:

- 1 cup all purpose flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt

Using a pastry blender cut in ½ cup chilled butter and 4½ ounces softened cream cheese. When well blended, wrap dough in foil and refrigerate at least 12 hours. Roll to ¼ -inch thickness, using as little flour as possible. Form pasty circles over inverted muffin tins and bake at 450 degrees for about 12 minutes. When cool, fill with hot vegetable mixture.

Upper Peninsula Pasties

Pasty dough:

- 5 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1½ cups milk
- 2 cups lard

Vegetable and meat mixture:

- 1 onion
- 1 celery rib
- 1 rutabaga
- 3 potatoes
- 5 carrots
- 1 to 1½ pounds ground beef
- Salt and pepper

Dough: Mix dry ingredients, add lard, and cut into flour mixture. Add milk. Gently knead dough and form 12 balls. Vegetable and meat mixture: Chop vegetables and mix with ground beef; season with salt and pepper. Pasties: Roll out each ball, and fill with 1 cup of vegetable and meat mixture. Fold over and form edge. Bake at 350 degrees for about one hour until golden brown. Serves 12.

ANSWER — Estella Fink of Allentown, Pa. requested a recipe on how to make spaghetti sauce to can. Thanks to the many who sent recipes. Unfortunately, we do not have room to print them all, but I will keep them on file to use during the next tomato season. Here is one from Marge Drumheller of Pottstown.

Spaghetti Sauce

- ½ bushel tomatoes, cut in quarters
- 7 green peppers
- 3 to 4 hot peppers
- 2 heads garlic
- 12 large onions
- 1 cup oil

Cook together all ingredients until mushy. Put in blender until smooth. Dump mixture into large roasting pan that has been sprayed with Pam.

Add 8 small cans tomato paste

- 1 cup oil
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon basil
- ½ cup oregano
- 1 tablespoon black pepper
- 10 tablespoon grated cheese
- Mushrooms, optional

Bake mixture in 350 degree oven until sauce is desired thickness (4 to 6 hours). Pack in hot sterile jars and seal. Makes approximately 9 to 10 quarts.

PIZZA PUFF

- 1 pound pork sausage
- ½ cup tomato paste
- 1 teaspoon basil or thyme
- 8 slices Mozzarella cheese
- 8 slices white bread
- 2 cups milk
- 3 eggs, beaten
- ½ teaspoon salt

Break up sausage in frying pan, cooking slowly for 15 minutes. Drain meat well. Add tomato paste and basil (thyme or poultry seasoning are substitute seasonings). Season to taste. Butter a 9-inch square pan and cover bottom with 4 slices of bread. Cover the bread with cheese slices and spread sausage mixture over this. Place another layer of cheese slices on the meat and top with remaining bread slices. Mix together milk, beaten eggs, and salt. Pour carefully over all. This dish is best when fixed ahead of time and refrigerated at least 6 hours or overnight to serve for lunch.

PIZZA COOKIE

- ¾ cup butter, softened
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1½ cups flour
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup cocoa
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ¾ cup candy-coated chocolate pieces (M&M type), divided
- ½ cup chopped pecans, divided
- ¼ cup flaked coconut
- ½ cup miniature marshmallows

Line a 12-inch pizza pan with heavy-duty aluminum foil; grease foil, and set aside.

Cream butter; gradually add sugar, beating well at medium speed of an electric mixer. Add egg, and beat well. Combine flour and next three ingredients; add to creamed mixture, mixing well. Add vanilla, and again, mix well. Stir in ¼ cup chocolate pieces and ¼ cup pecans. Smooth batter onto prepared pan, spreading to within one inch of edge. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes. Remove from oven, and sprinkle marshmallows and remaining ¼ cup chocolate pieces on top; bake an additional 5 to 7 minutes. Cool on wire rack. To serve, cut into wedges.

PIZZA CASSEROLE

- 2 cups elbow macaroni
- 2 pounds hamburger
- 1 onion, chopped
- 1 can pizza sauce
- 1 can spaghetti sauce
- Dash garlic salt
- Dash oregano

While macaroni cooks, brown hamburger with onion. Salt and pepper to taste. When done, mix macaroni, hamburger mixture, pizza and spaghetti sauces. Mix and add garlic salt and oregano. Pour one-half of mixture in casserole. Top with mozzarella cheese; add another layer of macaroni mixture. Top with more grated mozzarella cheese. Top with pepperoni slices. Serves 10. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Boring, a friend had observed. What a boring thing to get stuck doing.

Well, no, not really. Actually, this whole undertaking had become sort of an adventure.

You've all seen cartoons of the situation that set it off. Someone goes to a closet, opens the door, and is buried under an avalanche of stuff stashed there. In our hall closet, the cartoon had become reality.

Spring cleaning was the problem. I don't.

Come spring and sunshine and soft breezes, who wants to be stuck in some dreary closet? No way. But with snow and ice piling up outside the doors, making even walking treacherous, a journey into the closet seemed a logical - certainly safer - alternative. Besides, a broom can only fall on one's head so many times until you know something has to be done.

Right off the bat came a "find." I'd been hunting ski caps since the weather turned nasty and here were two, like new. Preserved no doubt by the shelf-full of crumpled plastic and brown paper bags concealing them.

And there, by gosh, was a box full of file folders, turning up even as I debated on how many to buy to update the herd files. And four attachments to deceased vacuum cleaners. Five yardsticks, two umbrellas, and four fly swatters. A stash of assorted playthings stirred memories: a bag of dried play dough and molds for forming buys (yuck!), pick-up sticks, viewmaster, and almost-new crayons. Anyone need a poster commemorating Penn State's appearance at the 1988 Citrus Bowl? Or Betty Crocker coupons good until 1983?

1983! No wonder the broom kept falling.

The sense of accomplishment at being able to actually find something in the closet was so awesome the momentum caused me to tagger into another household landmine the "Junk Drawer."

Right off the bat, another household mystery began unraveling. Our usual stash of match packs had seemingly vanished recently. But, two minutes into the drawer, a pile of ten lay on the counter. Along with half a shoe insole, long-lost pack of colored pipe cleaners, 17 popsicle sticks, 3 textured-plastic jarlid openers, assorted pieces of string, two corks, an empty chapstick and nine advertising key holders.

Under instructions to operate a digital desk clock - dead at least a year ago - were a dozen more matchpacks. Plus, two foot rulers, seven candle stubs of assorted sizes, a male hose clamp and 12 more popsicle sticks. Scattered through this jumble were prizes like five "S" hooks, two fast-food coffee stirrers, recipe card sleeves, a plastic whistle (it works-we all tried it), two plastic axles to some long-broken toy car, old birthday-cake candles, 15 dead flashlight batteries and a pair of golf tees. (Odd. None of us plays golf.)

Final tally: 42 popsicle sticks, 46 matchpacks, 22 keychain holders, more paper clips than I intend to count and a tiny, one-inch-square piece of paper with the phrase "I Love Yoo" (yes, "yoo") written in a familiar youthful handwriting.

The bad-weather bailout binge swept on to the kitchen utensil drawer, through one cupboard and landed me eventually at the office desk drawer. There, a half-dozen dried up pens took a hike and a section of 10 brand-new postage stamps emerged stuck to the back of an envelope. Two fistfuls of assorted rubber bands were divorced from a half-pound of paper clips. Five dried-up colored markers got a decent burial along with two expired calculator batteries. How the fence steeple ever got there will forever remain unsolved.

Just a few more good snowstorms and we'll be totally and disgustingly organized. But, could someone just tell me what these seven old keys are supposed to unlock?

If it's one more cluttered drawer, I'll just pitch'em, thank you.

Who makes the most practical tractors?

Last year, more value-minded farmers picked Massey-Ferguson than any other make.

In fact, one of every five tractors now sold in the Western World is an M-F. Which makes Massey-Ferguson the Western World's largest tractor manufacturer.

One of the big reasons for this popularity is the great value of the 50-90 PTO hp line of M-F 300 Series tractors.

They all give you the torque, economy and reliability of world-famous Perkins diesel engines and all the advantages of advanced Ferguson system hydraulics. Plus you get the practical features you want, like hydrostatic steering as standard equipment.

Massey-Ferguson engineers put a lot of time and effort into designing these tractors to save more of your time and effort. They're incredibly easy to operate and maintain. And they have one of the best reliability records of any tractor ever made.

Better ask your M-F dealer soon to show you why an M-F 300 Series tractor can be the best value for your hard-earned investment.

Practical choices.

Wolves May Soon Appear At Yellowstone Park

MERCER CROSS
National Geographic News Service

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo.— The haunting bowl of the gray wolf, one of nature's great primal cries, may soon return to Yellowstone's wilderness after an absence of more than 60 years.

A federally appointed committee has a May 15 deadline to produce a plan for reintroducing the once-plentiful predator to the 2.2 million-acre park, the nation's oldest and the largest in the contiguous 48 states.

If a majority of the 10-member panel supports reintroduction, work could begin on the required environmental impact statement. Within a few years, the first wolves could be moved into Yellowstone. They would be the first major predator ever returned to a U.S. national park.

Environmentalists and wildlife managers would be ecstatic, because they see the wolf as an integral part of the Yellowstone ecosystem that hunting and trapping eliminated.

Neighboring sheep and cattle ranchers, however, have traditionally looked upon the wolf as a killer that threatens their economic well-being. Shaping a plan that they will accept poses a daunting challenge.

"It's not strictly an economic issue," says David S. Wilcove, senior ecologist at the Wilderness Society in Washington, D.C. "Many of us feel it's a moral imperative and a biological imperative."

Carolyn L. Paseneaux, executive director of the Wyoming Woolgrowers' Association and the Wyoming Public Lands Council, differs. "We must look at economics," she says. "The Endangered Species Act doesn't look at economics."

Since the act was passed in 1973, the gray wolf has been on the endangered list in all of the lower 48 states except Minnesota, where it's classified as threatened.

The movement toward wolf reintroduction in Yellowstone started in the 1960s, and in the late '70s one scientist relocating wolves from Canada or Minnesota.

But not until 1987 did the Fish and Wildlife Service adopt a wolf-recovery plan to transport animals from Canada to Yellowstone, northwestern Montana and central Idaho. The plan, which required legislation, proposed 10 packs of about 100 wolves in each of the three areas.

In 1988 Rep. Wayne Owens, D-Utah, introduced a bill in Congress to take the next step toward implementation: require the National Park Service to issue an environmental impact statement on wolf reintroduction.

Opposition arose immediately from the livestock and hunting industries, both big businesses in the West, and from members of Congress who represent those interests.

A 1982 amendment to the Endangered Species Act offers one avenue of compromise. It authorizes the Fish and Wildlife Service to designate reintroduced animals "experimental." This would downgrade such animals from the endangered to the threatened category, thus allowing ranchers and sheep-growers to shoot wolves outside Yellowstone's boundaries.

Everyone knows that wolves would roam beyond park boundaries. Controlling nuisance wolves and fairly compensating aggrieved livestock owners are two of the most contentious elements in the controversy.

"There has to be appropriate wolf management," says L. David Mech, a research biologist for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in St. Paul, Minn., and the nation's leading authority on wolves. "You can't let wolves run all over the place, just like you can't let bison run all over the place."

Most livestock organizations are skeptical. Paseneaux predicts that the first wolf-shooting would prompt an immediate lawsuit by environmental groups that would enjoin ranchers to hold fire for years, while wolves diminished their herds.

Wyoming woolgrowers see wolf reintroduction as "a surrogate issue to get commodities -- grazing, oil and gas, timber, mining and agriculture -- off the public lands," Paseneaux tells National Geographic. "Ultimately, it would shut down all of the little towns in the western part of the state that depend on commodities for their survival."

A critical player in the effort to achieve a compromise for Yellowstone is John F. Turner, director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

He gave birth to the idea for the 10-member committee that could produce a wolf-reintroduction plan by May. Committee members represent all interests -- federal and state, public and private.

Partnership is a vital component, Turner emphasizes. "It's the type of covenant that should be made with the states. The emotional extremes haven't contributed much to a solution that meets the national interest."

An impasse was broken in November when the House-Senate conference committee on the Interior Department appropriations bill approved the House's proposed $300,000 for the study committee.

Nearly everyone agrees that Yellowstone's wolves make a global environmental statement.

"I'm continually amazed at how symbolic Yellowstone is," says John D. Varley, the park's research director. "These wolves are going to be the most famous wolves in the world."

Deer hair from a recent kill still clinging to its nose, a gray wolf stares at the camera. Those who want wolves returned to Yellowstone believe that the wolves will eat elk, deer and bison, but others are afraid the wolves will venture beyond park boundaries and kill sheep and cattle.

Two satisfied wolves look up from their freshly killed deer dinner at Carlos Avery National Wildlife Refuge in Minnesota. An estimated 1,550 to 1,750 wild gray wolves live in Minnesota, where they are classified as a threatened species. Elsewhere in the lower 48 states, they're an endangered species.

Poster Contest

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.)— The Chester County Conservation District is sponsoring a poster contest using the theme "Fragile Frontiers: The Ends of the Earth." The theme will focus on the Arctic and Antarctic. A written title or slogan using this theme or a related statement must appear on each poster. There are five divisions for judging: Grades K-1, 2-3, 4-6, 7-9, and 10-12. Posters must be a minimum of 9"x12". There are no restrictions as to material used. The criteria for judging is: Does the poster contain a written theme or related statement? Is the message clear to the observer in 15 to 30 seconds? Quality in relation to the grade level, as well as simplicity and creativity are also considered.

The Conservation District will award a $20 prize for the first place poster in each class. The winning posters will be submitted to the Pennsylvania Association for Conservation Districts' State Contest. All posters for the local District contest must be received by April 1, 1991 at the District office.

For further information and specific rules contact Mrs. Crandley at the Chester County Conservation District, 235 West Market Street, West Chester, PA 19382 or call (717) 696-5126.

Kids Learn About Beef

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)— Sixth-grade students in Pennsylvania are getting the message that today's beef is leaner, thanks to a new science curriculum video recently distributed to more than 600 schools within the state by the Pennsylvania Beef Council.

"Digging for Data," a 20-minute video produced by the Meat Board helps students understand scientific problem solving. The new science program was provided free to teachers and includes the video, a teacher's guide and activity masters. Since sixth-grade students are often concerned about how tall they will grow, the video attracts their attention by talking about height.

In "Digging for Data," students research how the food available to the early native Americans and early settlers affected their average height. Students explore an archeological dig, travel to a mid-nineteenth century immigrant's home, visit a university beef cattle research center and finally meet with a food technologist in a supermarket.

"Improvements in food technology provide us with a greater variety of foods all year long," says David Ivan, executive director of the Beef Council. "Through the video, students learn this variety and a balanced diet are key to reaching their full height potential."

Pilot testing was conducted to measure the value of the tape as a teaching aid. One question asked, "New methods of breeding and feeding cattle reduces the amount of fat in beef, resulting in a better diet. True or false?" Before seeing the video only 30 percent of the students correctly answered true. After seeing the video, 77 percent answered correctly.

This message is also reinforced with the worksheet, "Cattle Go On A Diet." This worksheet compares cattle raised in the 1950s to those raised in the 1990s to show changes in beef in response to consumer desire for lean meat.

Farm Show Visitors Learn New Ways To Cook

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff
HARRISBURG (DAUPHIN CO.) — The aroma of hot food wafted through the west lobby of the Farm Show Complex and brought hundreds to sample the food and learn new ways of cooking.

Chefs from the Indiana University of Pennsylvania Culinary School prepared different dishes for food demonstrations held every other hour. According to Chef Mitchell of IUP, the food demonstrations were held to show onlookers how to prepare the products on display at the Pennsylvania Food Pantry.

"Our chefs use a lot of creativity and involvement to develop new recipes," Mitchell said.

Four student chefs participated in the food demonstrations. All wore the tall chef hats that according to Mitchell denotes the seniority of a chef.

He said, "The taller the hat, the more power."

Mitchell said that not only is Farm Show a time to show others how to cook, but it's a time to find markets for food. He said many restaurants purchase food from other states and countries because they don't realize some of the products exist so close to home. He believes restaurants should buy Pennsylvania produced food for freshness.

IUP offers a two- and a five-year course in culinary arts. Mitchell said the school concentrates on teaching basic methods of cooking rather than fancy items.

Veal Rib Eye Roast With Herbed Mousseline

2½ to 3 pound veal rib eye roast
2 tablespoon finely chopped parsley
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
½ cup each finely chopped carrot and zucchini
2 tablespoons Madeira wine
½ cup each beef broth and water
¼ cup each whipping cream and water

1 tablespoon each finely chopped fresh rosemary leaves and sage leaves

1 teaspoon oil
1 tablespoon minced onion
4 teaspoons cornstarch

Trim veal rib eye roast; reserve 6 ounces lean meat trimmings. Butterfly the veal roast by cutting horizontally through the center (parallel to the surface of the meat) the length and width of the roast. Do not cut through the opposite side. Meat should lay flat. Place reserved 6 ounces meat trimmings, whipping cream and ¼ cup water in food processor bowl fitted with steel blade and process until light and creamy; reserve.

Combine parsley, rosemary, sage, salt and pepper; sprinkle evenly over cut side of veal. Spread reserved veal mousseline over herbs to within ½ inch of edges.

Starting with long side, roll roast jelly-roll fashion to enclose mousseline. Tie roast securing with string at 1 inch intervals. Place roast, seam side down, on rack in an open oven roasting pan.

IUP chefs held cooking demonstrations at the Farm Show complex last week.

Insert meat thermometer so bulb is centered in thickest part of veal but not in mousseline. Do not add water. Do not cover roast in 325 F (slow) oven to medium. Allow approximately 22 to 26 minutes per pound. Do not overcook.

Remove roast when meat thermometer registers 155 F, allow roast to stand 15 minutes in a warm place before carving. Roasts continue to rise about 5 F in temperature to reach 160 F for medium. Meanwhile remove dripping from roasting pan and add enough water to measure 1 cup; reserve.

Heat oil in roasting pan over medium heat. Add carrot, zucchini and onion; cook and stir 8 minutes. Combine wine and cornstarch; reserve.

Add reserved pan drippings, reserved cornstarch mixture, beef broth and ½ cup water to vegetable mixture. Increase heat to high and boil 1 minute, stirring constantly. Carve into slices and serve with vegetable sauce.

Note: A veal rib-eye roast will yield three 3-ounce cooked, trimmed, servings per pound.

Crepes With Apples & Praline Sauce

New Ways To Cook

Fluffy Peanut Butter Pie

- 1/2 cup peanut butter
- 1 cup powdered sugar
- 9 ounce cool whip (thawed)
- 1/4 cup finely chopped peanuts (optional)
- 8 ounce cream cheese (softened)
- 1/2 cup milk
- 9 inch pie crust

In mixer: whip cheese until soft and fluffy, beat in peanut butter and sugar. Slowly add milk. Fold cool whip into mixture. Pour into prepared crust. Freeze until firm and serve. (For storage longer than 4 to 6 hours, wrap the pie well for freezing.)

Spicy Garlic Chicken

- 2 pounds boneless chicken breasts
- 15 cloves garlic, peeled & split
- 2 tablespoons honey
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 1/2 cup old cider mill hot pepper vinegar
- 1 ounce soy sauce

Wash chicken and cut in half; brown all in vegetable oil in heavy skillet. Add garlic and cook a little longer or until browned. Add remaining ingredients and cook over medium heat until chicken is done and glazed with sauce. Turn chicken several times during cooking (Smells absolutely mouth-watering while cooking)

Trout With Shrimp Sauce

- 2 pounds trout fillets, cut into 6 pieces
- 1/2 cup dry white wine
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 small onion, sliced
- 1/4 teaspoon thyme leaves
- 2 cups boiling water
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 3 peppercorns
- 1 bay leaf

Place trout in well-greased 10-inch skillet. Add water, wine, butter, salt, peppercorns, onion, bay leaf and thyme. Cover and simmer 8 to 10 minutes or until fish flakes. Remove trout and reserve broth. Place trout on hot platter, cover, make shrimp sauce. Serves 6.

- Shrimp Sauce
- 1/2 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
- 1/4 flour
- 2 egg yolks, lightly beaten
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/2 cup butter
- 2 cups fish broth, strained
- 1/2 pound shrimp, cooked and butterflied

Saute mushrooms in butter over medium heat, until tender. Add flour until sauce is thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Gradually add broth to sauce. Pour a small amount of sauce into egg yolks; then add yolks to sauce and stir. Cook over medium heat until thickened. Add shrimp and lemon juice, heat 2 to 3 minutes or until warm. Makes 3 1/2 cups.

Cheese and Chicken Tortilla Casserole

- 1 to 1-1/4 pounds of skinless, boneless chicken breasts (halves)-about 4
- 18 corn tortillas
- 2 cups sour cream
- 6 ounce Monterey Jack cheese, shredded
- 1-16 ounce jar of hot or medium salsa (preferably green)
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 cup of corn or other vegetable oil
- 1 cup of milk
- 6 ounce sharp cheddar cheese, shredded

Optional: sliced black olives rings of red pepper
Shred or coarsely chop chicken. Toss with salt and pepper. Heat a medium skillet, preferably non-stick or cast-iron, over medium heat. One at a time, brush each tortilla lightly with oil and cook for about 15 seconds on each side, until softened. Stack as they are cooled. Blend together the sour cream and milk, either by whisking in a bowl or by whirling in a food processor or blender.

Toss together the Monterey Jack and cheddar cheeses. To assemble the casserole, spread about 1/2 cup of the salsa over the bottom of a shallow 9x12" baking dish. Cover with a layer of tortillas, overlapping as necessary. Scatter half the chicken over the tortilla.

Drizzle about 1/4 of the remaining salsa over the chicken. Sprinkle on 1/2 of the cheese and spoon 1/2 of the sour cream-milk mixture over that. Repeat with another layer of tortillas and 1/2 the remaining salsa, cheese, and sour cream sauce.

Top with the remaining tortillas. Spread the remaining salsa over the tortillas. Cover with the rest of the sour cream sauce and sprinkle what's left of the cheese on top. Garnish with a few sliced black olives and rings of red pepper, if desired. (The dish can be prepared to this point up to a day ahead. Cover and refrigerate.) To bake: Preheat the oven to 350 degrees.

Bake uncovered 30-40 minutes until the cheese is melted and the casserole is heated through. Serves 6-8.

Trout Florentine

Dust trout in flour, salt & pepper. Sauté in butter until crisp. Serve with warmed steel's wild main blueberry sauce.

Beef Fajitas

- 1-1/2 pound beef top round steak
- 1/2 cup lime juice
- 2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
- 1 large red onion, coarsely chopped
- 1 bunch fresh cilantro leaves, chopped
- 2 cups tomato juice
- 2 teaspoons bottled hot red pepper sauce
- 2 medium tomatoes, coarsely chopped
- 1 large green bell pepper, coarsely chopped
- 1 dozen (8-inch) flour tortillas

Trim excess fat from steak. Cut steak in half lengthwise, then cut across the grain into thin strips; place in large glass baking dish. Mix next four ingredients; pour over steak strips. Refrigerate, stirring occasionally, at least 4 hours, no longer than 24 hours. Arrange chopped tomatoes, onions, peppers and cilantro on serving platter. Cover with plastic wrap, refrigerate until serving. Drain marinade from steak into saucepan. Cook marinade over high heat, stirring occasionally, about 10 minutes or until slightly thickened.

Wrap tortillas in aluminum foil. Warm in 350 F oven for 10 minutes. Broil steak strips 2 inches from source of heat, a few at a time, for about 3 minutes; turn and cook 1 minute longer. Keep warm until serving. Repeat with remaining steak strips. Serve steak strips on a platter with warm tortillas, vegetables, and sauce. Serves 6.

Veal With Leeks And Zinfandel Cream

- 1-1/4 pound boneless veal loin, trimmed and cut into 8 (2 ounce) slices
- 1 medium leek (about 6 ounces) cleaned, trimmed and cut on a bias julienne style
- 1/4 teaspoon each salt and white pepper
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1/2 cup white zinfandel wine
- 3/4 cup heavy cream
- red raspberries

Pound veal loin slices to 1/2 inch thickness. Dredges slices in flour. Cook Veal, half at a time, in butter in 10 inch nonstick skillet over medium heat until lightly browned and cooked through, about 6 minutes; turn once. Transfer veal to platter; keep warm. Add leeks to skillet and cook 30 seconds over medium heat. Add wine; cook over high heat to reduce by half, about 1 minute. Add cream, salt and pepper. Simmer 5 minutes. Spoon sauce over veal slices. Garnish with raspberries. Makes 4 servings.

CHELATION THERAPY

THIS MAY BE YOUR ANSWER TO: Heart Problems, High Blood Pressure, Poor Circulation, Arthritis, Diabetes, Leg Cramps, Numbness, Tingling, Cold Hands And Feet & Atherosclerosis.

Dear Golden Pride

I am 70 years old, I have never felt better Before taking Golden Pride Bee Pollen Propolis, Formula #1 and 76 Plus, I had problems with nerves, high blood pressure, diabetes, and angina

I have been on the above mentioned since April, '85 The last visit to my doctor he said "Jake, you have a clean bill of health. You don't have to come back to see me unless you need to Right now you are fine"

My weight has come down I weighed 205 lbs in March, 1985 I now weigh 184 I cut out all nerve pills, I eat good and sleep good I love what Golden Pride has done for me
Sincerely, Jake Tate

Dear Golden Pride

Before beginning to use Formula #7, Bee III, I conducted tests for my cholesterol level I tested at 265 After one month's usage of Formula #7, Bee III, I returned to have my cholesterol checked again It dropped to 195! That's 70 points in 30 days! I made no dietary changes and only added Formula #7, Bee III to my diet A beneficial side effect was that I lost 10 pounds!

Bob Gilstad

Dear Golden Pride

For many years I suffered from arthritis, borderline high blood pressure, and leg pain due to poor circulation After being introduced to Formula #1 by a friend and then attending your meeting in Raleigh, I began on 4 teaspoons/day reducing to 1 teaspoon after that

After just one week of Formula #1, I no longer had any problems with arthritis After just 2 weeks, my blood pressure dropped 10 points, both top and bottom readings My legs don't hurt anymore either I'M SOLD!

Maryland Winners Bound For California Wool Contest

DAMASCUS, MD — Two talented young women combined sewing and modeling abilities to win the right to represent Maryland at the National Make-It-Yourself-With-Wool contest scheduled for January 17 through 20, in Long Beach, California.

Alice Jeanette Seidenstricker, 15, of Calvert County, and Kristin Williamson, 19, of Baltimore County, earned this honor by capturing the overall championships in the junior (ages 14-17) and senior (ages 18-24) divisions, respectively, in the 1990 Maryland Make-It-Yourself-With-Wool contest held recently at the Kenilworth Park Mall, Towson, Maryland. Seidenstricker's winning entry was a royal blue 100% wool suit trimmed in black braid while Williamson created a "city-suit" with red shorts and coordinating red, blue, and green plaid jacket made of 100% wool.

The Make-It-Yourself-With-Wool contest is a national program measuring personal composure, modeling abilities, skills, and knowledge in clothing design and construction using wool. Seidenstricker and Williamson will be vying for college scholarships, fashion trips to New York City, sewing machines, and other prizes, with competitors from all over the country. Two National Sheep Ambassadors will be selected to represent the sheep industry for the next year.

Although only the junior and senior division winners advance to national competition, two other age division winners were chosen. Topping the preteen (ages 13 and under) division was Mary Ann Booth, 13, of Baltimore County, wearing an aqua jacket and coordinating gray/aqua skirt of 100% Pendleton wool. She received an Elnita 200 sewing machine donated by Elna, Inc., roses, rosette, and a length of wool fabric.

Taking the adult division rosette was Nancy Russo of Montgomery County in a gray handknit cable pattern dress. She received a

At the Maryland Make-It-With-Wool contest, Donna Marie DiPietro, left, of Coatesville and Jenny Otto of Glen Arm, Maryland won the judges' award for best handcrafted and best tailored entries, respectively.

$100 gift certificate to G Street Fabrics of Rockville, Md., roses, a gift subscription to Sew News magazine, and a membership in the Bishop Method of Clothing Construction Council. As the winner of the handcrafted garment class, she won a gift certificate to Mary Maxim, Inc., a national needlework/craft supply catalogue business.

Two special "Judges' Award" winners were selected from all age groups. The best handcrafted entry went to Donna Marie DiPietro of Coatesville, for her handspun, handknit suit; her award was a $50 gift certificate to The Needlecraft Shop in Jacksonville, Maryland. The best tailored entry award went to Jenny Otto of Glen Arm, Md. for her wool suit; she was given a $50 gift certificate to A Fabric Place, with locations in Towson and Cockeysville.

Grange Honors Kutztown Teacher

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.) — More than 160 people attended a surprise retirement banquet to honor Donald Reinert on December 28 at Kutztown Grange Hall.

Thirty years ago Reinert became an agricultural education teacher. Don taught his first five years at Pen Argyl and his last 25 years at Kutztown. Reinert is known for his one word philosophy - try. He dislikes the negative term "can't." He states: "You know, 'Can't' never tried."

Reinert served on the Kutztown Fair Board for 20 years. He served on the state Ag Advisory Council for many years. He held every office in the state Ag Teacher's Association, including president. In 1977, Reinert was recognized as the outstanding young farmer advisor in the state. In 1988, Berks County recognized him as the outstanding conservation educator.

In February 1990, he received the Honorary State Young Farmer award, the Honorary Keystone Farmer Degree, and the Honorary American Farmer degree. Reinert coached the FFA Gold Medal Team in proficiency skills at Springfield, Massachusetts in 1988. The team went on to compete at the National level at Kansas City where they won a silver medal.

Under the close supervision of Reinert, the Kutztown Vo Ag class controlled the broiler exhibits in poultry for years by consistently producing champions and reserve champions for the state Farm Show. For 20 years, the vo ag window exhibit consistently placed in the top 10.

More than 1,000 students graduated from the hunter safety program that Reinert taught.

A scholarship fund has been started in Don Reinert's honor and will be presented to an outstanding vo ag student each year.

More stability, less spillback

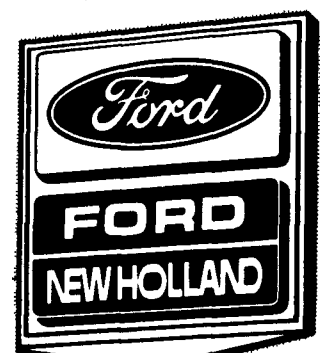

New Holland L-550 Series skid-steer loaders handle loads with greater efficiency. Model L-550 loaders are highly maneuverable, and can lift up to 1,700 pounds (SAE). Their longer wheelbase lends greater stability and the exclusive boom lift linkage lets you put the load right where you want it. A faster boom cycle time speeds up your loading and unloading jobs. High performance is a standard with New Holland loaders. Stop in and run one today.

Cook's Question

Festive Fruitcake

- 2 eggs
- 2 cups water
- ¼ cup oil
- 2 packages Pillsbury date or nut quick bread mix
- 2 cups pecans, halves or chopped
- 2 cups raisins
- 2 cups 12 to 13-ounces candied cherries
- 1 cup cut-up candied pineapple
- Corn syrup, if desired

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour bottom and sides of 12-cup Bundt pan or 10-inch tube pan. Combine eggs, water and oil in a large bowl. Add remaining ingredients except corn syrup; stir by hand until combined. Pour into greased pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 75 to 85 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan 30 minutes, loosen edges and remove from pan. Cool completely. Wrap in plastic wrap or foil and store in refrigerator up to two weeks or freeze up to 3 months. Glaze with warm corn syrup before serving. Decorate with additional candied fruits and nuts, if desired. Serves 24 to 36.

Cordelia writes that she has made many fruitcakes from scratch for many years, but this one is absolutely delicious. She made four this year for gifts and everyone who ate them raved about the taste.

Christmas Fruitcake

- 2½ cups unsifted flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1 28-ounce jar mincemeat
- 1 14-ounce can sweetened condensed milk
- 2 cups mixed candied fruit
- 1 cup coarsely chopped nuts

Preheat oven to 300 degrees. Stir together flour and baking soda; set aside. In large bowl, combine remaining ingredients; blend in dry ingredients. Turn batter into well greased and floured 10-inch tube pan. Bake for 1 hour or until wooden pick inserted near center comes out clean. Cool 15 minutes. Turn out of pan. Glaze and garnish if desired.

Heavenly White Fruitcake

- 3 cups sifted all purpose flour
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 cups candied cherries
- 2 cups candied pineapple
- 1½ cups nuts, pecans and walnuts
- 2 cups white raisins
- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 2 cups sugar
- 5 eggs
- ½ cup orange juice

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Cut cherries in half; cut pineapples in pieces. Mix the chopped fruit and broken nuts with the white raisins. Add several tablespoons of the flour mixture, stir to coat the fruit and nuts. Set oven to 300 degrees. Grease 2 loaf pans or 1 angel food pan. Line with wax paper and grease the paper. Work butter or margarine until soft. Add sugar gradually and continue working the mixture until smooth. Add eggs, one at a time, beat well after each addition. Stir in the flour mixture and orange juice alternately. Gently stir in fruit and nut combination. Transfer to pans pressing batter down gently. Bake cake 2 hours or until cake tester comes out free of batter when poked in the center of the cake.

Cool, remove from pans, peel off paper. Wrap in foil and store in an airtight container. Age one month before serving. Keeps for months in refrigerator or freezer.

potato and meat mixture. Cover and bake 1½ hours at 350 degrees. Remove from oven and sprinkle the cheeses over the mixture; put back in oven for 15 minutes. Serves 8.

POTATO PIZZA

- 1 pound hamburger
- 6 cups sliced potatoes
- 1 medium-sized onion, sliced thinly
- 1 can cheddar cheese soup
- 1 soup can of milk
- 1 15-ounce can tomato sauce
- Salt and pepper to taste
- ½ teaspoon oregano
- ½ teaspoon sugar
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 6-ounces shredded mozzarella cheese

Brown hamburger, add potatoes and onion to meat. Mix cheddar cheese, soup, tomato sauce, salt, pepper and oregano. Pour over

To enhance the flavor of cheese, allow it to stand for 30 minutes at room temperature before serving. Use cottage and cream cheeses right from the refrigerator.

FPPF Polar Power

Keeps Your Diesel Running In The Worst Winter Cold!

Fuel filters, separators do nothing to keep diesel fuel from the waxing or gelling that blocks up and clogs fuel lines and filters.

FPPF Polar Power contains FPPF's Fuel Power and FPPF's Polarized Diesel Fuel Flow Improver, the industry's leaders. It will keep your diesel running in the worst winter cold: lowering the pour-point, totally dispersing water, eliminating gum/varnish...outperforming all other additives and at lower cost.

Saga Of A Farm Boy Turned Missionary

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff
INTERCOURSE (Lancaster Co.) — Farming prepares people for many occupations. Farming prepared Elam Stoltzfus to teach Guatemalan Indians to raise animals, garden, build shelters, and other life-preserving skills.

These are only a few of the things that Elam accomplished in his 18-year term as a missionary. Although Elam was raised on a Lancaster County Amish farm and had only a ninth grade education plus two years of Bible college, he performed dentistry and medical skills for the people he was helping.

A passion to help the Guatemalan Indians was birthed when Elam, while still single, had visited the country with a musical missionary team. Later, he and his wife, Barbara, returned. The journey of their trip to the third world country and their 18-year stay in the jungle is filled with miracle after miracle that the Stoltzfuses attribute to God's faithfulness.

In 1972, the Stoltzfuses headed for the jungles where they were allotted 400 acres by the Guatemalan government under the Homestead Act, for the development of the jungle. Since the land bordered the river and the family wanted to work with Indian villages scattered along the river banks 40 miles upriver and 75 miles down river, someone suggested that the ideal method to reach the tribes would be a houseboat.

Elam agreed. "But it's so expensive and we don't have the funds," he said.

The person replied, "If you need it, God will supply it."

The next morning the family was given a 34-foot houseboat, which became their home for the next seven years. At that time, the Stoltzfuses had three children.

The river was the children's playground during their growing up years. "They became like little ducks," Barbara said. Three more children were later added to the Stoltzfus family.

Today the children's ages are Jean, 27; Miguel, 26; Virgil, 23; Anita, 18; Maria, 16; and Lisa, 15.

Of those beginning years in the jungle, Elam said, "We knew very little of what we were getting into."

At first, the Stoltzfus's prime goal was to preach to the Indians. They did. But the Indian's physical needs appalled the missionary family.

The people were extremely poor and undernourished. They lived mostly on tortillas, beans, and wild meat. The lack of hygiene and an unbalanced diet resulted in many deaths and illnesses.

Pigs and chickens were allowed to run in and out of their houses, which resulted in a constant problem with parasites.

When an animal was butchered, the family had to eat the meat within a few days because there was no way to preserve the food. So much of the meat went to waste because they had no way to can or freeze it.

Alarmed, the Stoltzfuses watched as babies drank coffee and Coke from their baby bottles.

"I thought of so many ways that the people could have better lives if they only knew many of the methods I learned growing up on an Amish farm," Elam said.

His first concern was to teach them to grow vegetables and raise cattle. But the people were convinced that vegetables would not grow in their climate because a government program to raise vegetables in the jungle had failed a few years earlier. As a farmer, Elam understood why the program had failed. The seeds were donated as Elam was growing up.

Although, in the early years, the Stoltzfuses had taken along canning supplies for their family's use, the natives did not have jars or canners. Even if they had, it would not have been practical since they cook over a wood fire.

"When I grew up, we canned everything, because Amish did not have electricity for refrigeration and freezers. The natives don't have it either so I knew how much better their diets could be improved if they could preserve their foods through canning."

Because the village where the Stoltzfuses settled was 50 miles from a medical clinic and took two to six hours to reach by river or jungle trails, many of the native's illnesses and injuries went untreated. Periodically, Elam would arrange for doctors, dentists, and nurses to visit the area for a few weeks to perform needed medical help.

But that temporary help could not meet the numerous physical needs caused by primitive living conditions.

"I never thought I would get involved in medical work," Elam said, "but the people kept coming for help."

At first, the Stoltzfuses did simple things like doctoring colds and handing out vitamins. One day from leftover stock that would not germinate. Eventually Elam was able to obtain hybrid seeds, and, today, some of the villagers are beginning to plant tomatoes, cabbage, radishes, string beans, and cucumbers.

"When I grew up, we canned everything, because Amish did not have electricity for refrigeration and freezers. The natives don't have it either so I knew how much better their diets could be improved if they could preserve their foods through canning,"

Heifer Project International also provided heifers to several of the villages. Some of the people have been very successful with the project; others not. But 15 years later, most of the villagers have cattle.

Planting and harvesting is done by hand, much like the Amish did a man received a machete slash across his hand. With no medical help available, Elam used a ham radio to contact a doctor friend in Florida. The doctor told him how to clean the wound and stitch it. It took 35 stitches.

"Again and again, we saw God heal. We had no training, but we saw good success," Elam said.

Barbara learned to deliver babies by following the instructions in a book. So many villagers came to them for help that the Stoltzfus's daughter began to deliver babies when she was only 14. Later she got her nursing degree in the states and returned to Guatemala to help with the medical needs.

Elam and Barbara Stoltzfus believe their farming background prepared them for work in the jungles of Guatemala. On August 31, communist guerrillas burned down the missionary complex that included medical and dental clinics, a canning facility, and housing. The Stoltzfuses are determined to return and rebuild the facility that is desperately needed in that area.

About 10 years ago, a 100x30-foot building was designed to be used as a hospital.

A dentist trained Elam to extract and fill teeth.

The Stoltzfus's oldest son, Virgil, attained a pilot license and a plane to transport the wounded to the city hospital, which could be reached in one hour by air but takes 18 hours by river. The plane was used also to fly supplies in and out.

Last year, Elam was able to purchase complete cannery equipment for $27,000 and transport it to Guatemala. The missionaries were almost finished building the cannery when attacked by the URNG, which stands for the National Revolutionary Guatemalan Union when translated from Spanish.

Although the family lived in a combat zone where guerrilla warfare often erupted, the Stoltzfuses did not expect trouble because they were not involved politically and they were helping the natives.

But the missionaries were concerned with the destruction that the fighting caused the natives. According to Elam, the URNG's ploy was to make the government military look bad and often did this by posing as the military.

During the Stoltzfus's 18-year stay in Guatemala, they said the URNG often dressed in stolen military uniforms and would storm into villages. The natives would rush into the jungle to hide while the gunmen ransacked the villages of food and valuables. The gunmen would then leave, take off their uniforms, and return as the "saviors" to the villagers.

"People were often confused about who the enemy really was — the military or the URNG," Elam said.

Two months before the bombing, the URNG had bombed a military boat. The missionaries' policy was to help those in need regardless of military affiliation. Consequently, they flew several wounded soldiers to the military hospital.

The URNG retaliated. On August 31, the URNG held the Stoltzfuses at gunpoint for 11 hours while they looted the hospital, cannery, personal home and guest home, and then burned the buildings to the ground, including the tractor and two airplanes.

At gunpoint the URNG forced Virgil, the oldest son to use his boat to transport the loot. When the guerrillas laid their machine guns aside while they carried the loot off the boat, Virgil grabbed a machine gun and held his captives at gunpoint.

Virgil said, "I could kill every one of you, but I want you to know that we did not come here to kill. We came to help people."

Then Virgil threw the gun at their feet. The leader told him, "We have orders to kill you, but if you and your family get out of the country within the next 72 hours, we'll let you go."

With no more than the clothes they were wearing, the Stoltzfuses escaped to the states.

"Everything personal — our children's pictures, our clothing — was wiped out," Elam said.

He estimates the building and equipment loss to be a half a million.

"If our faith was in material things, we would be devastated," Elam said, "But we believe everything has a purpose. Our hearts are with the people. We started with nothing before. We will do it again."

The family has a two-year rebuilding plan.

Elam shrugged when asked whether they aren't afraid that the URNG will attack them again?

Elam said that the URNG has admitted responsibility for the attack. They realize now that they destroyed a facility that was helping their people and now the people have nothing. The URNG said the Stoltzfus family could come back and rebuilt if they do not treat military soldiers in the clinic.

Presently, the family is waiting on ongoing discussions to have that clarified.

During the Stoltzfus's 18-year stay, they established six churches while there and trained natives to assume leadership for them. Now, these people encourage the missionary family by reminding them of the biblical story of Job, a righteous man who lost his family and possessions but in the end received more than he had in the beginning.

"It looks impossible, but we believe God wants us to return and start again," Elam said.

The Stoltzfuses can be contacted at (717) 768-3602, David E. Stoltzfus.

Lancaster Society 1

The Lancaster Society #1 of Farm Women met recently at the home of Mrs. Clayton Sangrey, Lititz. Mrs. Maurice Landis served as co-hostess. This is the 73rd year of existence for Society 1.

Devotions were in charge of Mrs. Raymond Tomb. About 22 members answered roll call by stating, "The hardest food for me to give up."

Mrs. Roy Brubaker will be in charge of scheduling eat-out breakfasts for the society for the coming year. Rachael Hollinger will be in charge of a book exchange within the society. Mrs.

Lloyd Sheaffer gave an interesting report of the society's recent trip to New York City to attend the Christmas Extravaganza at Radio City Music Hall and to tour the city.

President Julia Zahn pinned the 80-year pin on Mrs. Daniel Brubaker. She has been a member for 66 years. All members reaching 80 years of age receive this pin.

The program for the afternoon was a talk by a nutritionist on "Eating for the less active schedule."

Members will meet at the home of Mrs. Daniel Brubaker on February 2.

Lancaster Society 34

Lancaster Farm Women 34 met on December 17 at the home of Debbie Zug for a buffet supper furnished by the social committee. Members exchange presents with their secret pals who were revealed.

The next meeting will be January 21 at the home of Joe Wolgemuth for the reading of the bylaws. A Miss Solanco contestant will provide the entertainment.

Berks Society 11

Berks Society 11 met at the home of Doris Brown on January 10. They celebrated their delayed (due to snow) Christmas Party and secret pal gift exchange. They had fun making ice cream in cottage cans.

The next meeting is at Rose Hibshman for installation of officers.

Milk's Benefits

NEW YORK, NY — When young adults leave behind the high school yearbook and neighborhood friends, they sometimes forsake old food friends as well.

Yet, leaving milk behind may mean jeopardizing essential amounts of nutrients - calcium in particular - in the daily diet, according to nutrition experts.

Dr. Connie Weaver, a food and nutrition expert at Purdue University, explains that milk is one of nature's most efficient foods.

"Dairy products are the source of 75 percent of needed dietary calcium. It would be extremely difficult to meet your daily requirements of calcium in any other food group," said Weaver, in an interview for Dairy Council Inc. "Milk also contains minerals such as magnesium and phosphorus as well as protein. It is a very nutrient-dense food."

She believes many factors contribute to the decrease in milk consumption among adults. "Although there is no solid research on why consumption drops off, common sense and personal accounts indicate that issues such as being calorie-conscious, substituting milk with 'adult' beverages, such as coffee, and dining out more often contribute to the decrease," said Weaver.

Long-Term Benefits

Dr. Daniel Baran of the University of Massachusetts Medical Center, agrees that adults may be eliminating milk from their diets for calorie- or cholesterol-related reasons, but he speculates on the consequences.

"What's interesting to note is that in a recent bone mass study, 35-year-old women who had the equivalent of two glasses of milk a day for three years not only prevented losing bone mass, but showed no noticeable increase in fat intake either. In contrast, women who did not have the equivalent of two glasses of milk a day averaged a bone mass loss of 1 percent per year," said Baran. "Certain fast food is much higher in cholesterol than milk."

Especially in the older population, milk plays an important role in a balanced diet. "It's very important for the elderly to include dairy products in their diets. There are a variety of milk products that can accommodate everyone, even those who have dietary restrictions," said Baran. "And when fortified with vitamin D, milk is very helpful to older persons who aren't exposed to vitamin D from the sun. There is even some initial evidence that some hip fractures, which are very common in the elderly population, may be connected to a vitamin D deficiency."

Variety is Key

Choice is definitely a priority for adult consumers and the dairy industry has responded by producing a variety of milks, including lactose-reduced milks and low-fat milks fortified with protein for a creamier taste.

"Milk is such a complete way to get dietary calcium, protein and essential minerals. Adults may not be making the wisest choice when they choose a diet cola, for example, over milk. While the cola may have fewer calories, it has no nutrient value at all. A healthy diet needs to be more than just carefully counted calories, it needs to be a good balance of nutrients."

Berks Society 5

Berks County Society of Farm Women Group 5 met on January 8, at the home of Karen Mohn, Womelsdorf. Thirteen members were present to answer by-law questions.

The first order of business was the installation of new officers. The following members have taken office: president, Sylvia Scharff, vice president, Celeste Manbeck, recording secretary, Frieda Keppley, treasurer, Betsy Sattazahn, correspondence secretary, Michaelen Eves.

Members were informed that the Christmas gifts that were purchased by the group had been delivered to Twin Spruce Nursing Home in Myerstown and to Independence Terrace Nursing Home in Womelsdorf. The recipients were very excited and thankful. Much fun was had by all.

Several members were given small wooden boxes to be painted and stenciled for the Spring Rally.

Discussion was held about having a ham on roll sandwich sale in April.

Following the meeting, refreshments were provided by our hostess.

The next meeting will be February 12, at 7:30 p.m. A representative from Willow Creek Animal Hospital will speak on Lyme Disease.

Working in narrow and confined spaces just got a lot easier. Because the Kubota L2850 has an eight foot turning radius with brakes on a 4-wheel drive model. Plus a lot of other features that make this tractor exceptionally maneuverable.

First, it has a 4-cylinder diesel engine generating 27 PTO horsepower. Compare that to the smaller engines most other tractors this size come equipped with. So the L2850 runs smoother and gives you more performance.

Eight forward speeds and seven reverse speeds plus an advanced mechanical shuttle transmission make the going especially easy for front loader jobs. Add power steering for even faster cycle times.

Other standard features include direct injection for quick starts and improved fuel economy. Even stops are quicker and surer with wet disc brakes.

The only hard part about deciding on the Kubota L2850 is what to do with your old tractor.

McDonalds Adds Four Cities To Test Low-Fat Patty

CHICAGO, IL — Strong consumer demand for a new low-fat ground beef sandwich in its initial test market has prompted McDonald's to expand into four additional cities.

Nearly 300 restaurants in Knoxville, TN, Portland, OR, Toledo, OH, and Minneapolis, MN, joined Harrisburg as test markets for the new sandwich. Two months of preliminary research in 54 Harrisburg restaurants showed broad-based appeal for the product.

The sandwich, officially renamed as the McLean Deluxe, is made with a 91 percent fat-free beef patty and is the result of three years of checkoff-funded research and development at Auburn University.

Research figures show that the McLean Deluxe sandwich appeals not only to McDonald's regular customers, but also to health-conscious consumers who had typically avoided quick-service restaurants.

"It's significant that McDonald's has enough confidence in the product after its initial test market that it's introducing the sandwich in four additional markets," said Ralph Bell, Jr., chairman of the South Carolina Cattle and Beef Board and the Beef Industry Council's Foodservice subcommittee. "Since ground beef products represent nearly half of all beef sales, this is great news for the beef industry because this product is on target, and should mean more sales. And it's great news for health-conscious consumers because now quick-service restaurants can offer a beef alternative."

The McLean Deluxe has a quarter-pound ground beef patty, but contains 100 calories less than McDonald's Quarter Pounder™. When served on a sesame seed bun with ketchup, mustard, pickle, onion, lettuce and tomato, the McLean Deluxe has 310 calories and 10 grams of fat as compared to 410 calories and 17.4 grams of fat for the Quarter Pounder™.

McDonald's is the world's largest quick-service restaurant organization, with more than 11,400 restaurants in 53 countries. Product technology development research is a checkoff-funded program by the Beef Board and managed on behalf of beef producers and importers by the Beef Industry Council of the Meat Board, a federation of 44 state beef councils that works to build demand for beef.

Party Food Safety Tips

NEWARK, DE — If you're not out skiing the slopes or building snow sculptures, winter's a great time to make a social event out of a favorite American indoor sport — watching professional athletes perform on the television. Food will undoubtedly be a part of your social plans, just make sure that you follow basic food safety rules to avoid serving up a food-borne illness to your guests.

Whether you have party plans for two hundred or two, the same food safety rules apply, says Roxane Whittaker, University of Delaware Extension home economist. Serve hot foods hot — 140 degrees Fahrenheit or more — and cold foods cold — under 40 degrees F. Also observe cold storage, sanitation and thorough cooking rules to keep food safe anytime.

When preparing food for a crowd, it's often convenient to do much of the cooking ahead and reheat at serving time. But, cautions Whittaker, take care to cool the cooked food quickly to avoid food-borne illness. To promote fast cooling when working with large amounts of food, she suggests dividing hot, cooked foods into small, shallow containers and placing them directly in the refrigerator. It's not safe to counter-cool them first.

When serving a buffet, prepare a number of smaller platters and dishes ahead of time. Then keep them in the refrigerator or oven until they're needed. Serve hot foods from chafing dishes or warming trays registering 140 degrees F. Use a thermometer to check your chafing dish, Whittaker says, because most warming-trays only hold food at 110 degrees to 120 degrees — a good growth temperature range for some bacteria.

For cold foods, rest the serving dish on a bed of crushed ice. Remove the food and replace it with fresh, full trays every two hours. "It is unsafe to add new food to a serving dish that has already been out at room temperature for more than two hours," the home economist says.

If you are transporting food to a party or family gathering, pack it in a cold chest filled with ice or frozen gels. Refrigerate items to be served hot, such as meatballs, reheating them in an electric frypan or oven at serving time.

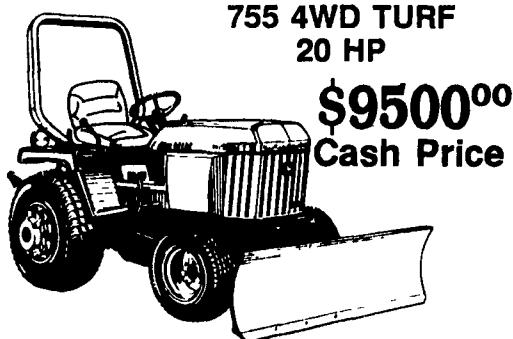

Food items — especially those that include meat, eggs or dairy products — can be a good medium for bacterial growth. This growth can be limited by keeping hot foods hot and cold foods cold.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

When I go to the grocery store, I tell myself that this week I won't spend so much. I'll just get the things on my list. But, then I read the advertisements. They say that if I buy one bag of pretzels then I may get another bag free. Or if I buy one loaf of whole grain bread then I may get another free. So there, I've just added two more items to my list.

Then I pass the aisle with the canned soups. In previous years, this was something that I never bought. However, with just two of us to eat, it is a very convenient meal for us on Sunday after church. So I sort through my coupons and find several for various makers of soup. The only problem is they say I must buy four cans in order to have 50 cents off of one purchase.

We've been trying to eat more healthful foods and so it is easy to pass the shelves of ice cream. But a special on chicken will get my attention even though we just put one-half a hog in our freezer.

The displays of vegetables and fruits at the Pennsylvania Farm Show held my attention. They were so colorful and informative. Especially interesting were the maple syrup exhibits and those displaying honey. One told that it took 49 gallons of sap, which when boiled down, would give one gallon of maple syrup. Another exhibit said that two million flowers had to be visited in order to produce one pound of honey and the bees would have to travel 55,000 miles. One bee will produce 1/12 a teaspoon in a lifetime!

So in view of these facts, I guess we should expect to have our grocery bills higher than we planned. I am sure that all producers of milk, eggs, meat and other food items work much harder than the ordinary consumer realizes.

CHIMNEY PROBLEMS?

- Had a chimney fire? Chimney Unsafe for use?
- Supafu - the ultimate masonry chimney liner
- Fight hot chimney fires before they begin!
- Insurance approved

Creosote build-up, cracked chimney tiles, decaying mortar and hot trapped gases. This is the way dangerous and damaging chimney fires start. A trained Supafu chimney professional can spot these hazards in a hurry and take care of them almost as fast. A fast cast-in-place Supafu installation makes your chimney better than new, safer than new. A smooth, strong Supafu lined chimney fights creosote build-up and eliminates hot trapped gases, dramatically reducing chimney fire dangers.

Chicken GIBLETS

Cooking chicken with the skin on produces a more moist product without increasing the fat or calorie content, according to the National Broiler Council. Leaving the skin on while cooking eliminates the need for high-calorie marinades that contain oil which increase chicken's naturally low fat content.

To decrease fat intake, the National Broiler Council recommends removing the skin of chicken before eating it -- not before cooking. There is no significant difference in the calorie and fat content of chicken cooked with the skin on or chicken cooked with the skin removed, according to the Council's research.

ACFA Begins Speaker's Bureau

GARDNERS (Adams Co.) — Adams County Farmers' Association (ACFA) President David R. Wenk said recently that the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA) is proposing to begin a speakers' bureau pilot project at the county level.

The goal of the speaker's bureau is to put farmers knowledgeable about certain subjects and trained or practiced in speaking before the public to speak in meetings and news interviews.

Wenk said the idea behind the speaker's bureau is to counteract some of the negative and counter-productive information being given to the public by special interest groups with agendas contrary to the goals of the agricultural community.

There will be a Speaker's Bureau Seminar at the 1991 annual meeting, to be held in Hershey in late January. All members will be invited to attend the seminar, but one Speakers Bureau member will receive free lodging and meals for one night and one day at the meeting for doing the best job, based on number of speaking engagements and coverage by the local news media.

Those interested in becoming part of the ACFA speakers bureau should contact David R. Wenk at (717) 677-9553.

HAPPENINGS

Horsin' Around Ends Year

The Horsin' Around 4-H Club ended its year by preparing and serving a holiday banquet for their 47 family members and invited guests.

Served were fruit punch and snacks, turkey meatballs in a hot cranberry sauce, potatoes au gratin, peas, corn, mixed greens salad with fresh fruit, and hot angel biscuits. Mint and chocolate parfaits, with cookies and homemade candies were served as dessert. Working in pairs, each member prepared at least two different items and had responsibility for other activities as well.

In addition to members honoring their families, individual members were recognized with end-of-year awards. Jessica Hill received the Horsin' Around's Outstanding Member of the Year Award. Hill has been an active 4-H member for five years. She served on the Lancaster County Horse Bowl Team, gave a presentation on driving which earned her a blue ribbon at both county and regional competitions, had perfect attendance at meetings, received a blue ribbon for the Veterinary Science Project Book, and was an active participant at the 4-H Fair and in other club activities during 1990. Hill also belongs to other 4-H Clubs, including Boots and Saddles, Lancaster County Production Club, and the Lancaster Woolies. In addition, she belongs to the Penn Manor's FFA Club, track team, and International Thesbian Society.

Kelly Sullivan, Lititz, received recognition for highest scoring junior veterinary science book. The highest scoring senior veterinary science book belonged to Eileen Holm, Manheim. High Sponsorship honors went to Sharon and Lori Harnish, Lititz. The Sportsmanship Award was presented to Mike Kerdeman, Manheim. Juniors Melissa Meiskey and Kelly Sullivan, Lititz were recognized for their presentation on the Arabian Horse. Senior Eileen Holm was honored for her presentation on buying a used saddle, having earned blue and gold ribbons at county, regional, and state competitions. Holm represented Pennsylvania in national competition in Louisville, Ky. in November.

As individuals, Lori Harnish placed 12th and Mike Kerdeman third in state competition in horse judging. As a team, they placed 8th. Leah Harvey, Lancaster; Michelle Kerdeman, Manheim; Jessica Hill, Conestoga; and Team Captain Sharon Harnish comprised the Horse Bowl Team, which placed second in the state.

Ed and Lois Holm were selected as the Outstanding Parents of the Year. Also honored were the adult leaders, Rose Fellenbaum, Nancy Harnish, and Pat and Dave Hill. The Horsin' Around 4-H Club is designed as an additional opportunity to learn more in-depth information about horses, and is open to any Lancaster County youngster ages 8-19 who is interested in horses. For more information about 4-H call (717) 394-6851.

Jessica Hill won Outstanding Member of the Year Award from the Horsin' Around 4-H Club.

From no-till to clean fields, John Deere drills it home

The John Deere 750 Drill is your true no-till drill. It adapts to handle no-till conditions with adjustable down-pressure for each disk opener. You can cut through the toughest sod and residue, and still get excellent seeding accuracy. And each disk opener has a depth gauge wheel for outstanding control of seed placement, even in dips and rolling fields. So just imagine how well it drills in less-demanding fields. See us today.

The John Deere 450 End-Wheel Drill gives you more of everything you liked about the 8000 Series. The 450 features more penetrating force for drilling in minimum-till conditions, more capacity for more efficient planting and left-side adjustments for easier operation. Set it up to fit the fields you farm.

WIFE Lauds Change In Farm Payment Regulations

OGALLALA, NE. — Farm women are a giant step closer to being treated equally under USDA farm program payment regulations, thanks to a decision made yesterday by Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter.

"Secretary Yeutter called January 7 to let me know that he would use his discretionary authority to provide for a much more reasonable and equitable treatment of farm spouses. This will correct part of the inequity that has plagued farm spouses, and particularly women, for many years," said Elaine Stuhr, president of Women Involved in Farm Economics (WIFE).

"This decision does not mean spouses are automatically considered separate persons," adds Stuhr. "But it will give many qualified individuals a chance to see if they are eligible to be compensated for their contributions. Husbands and wives who are both actively involved in their farming operations should recheck their 'person status' at their local ASCS office when they sign up for farm programs this spring."

After repeated attempts to persuade USDA to analyze a women's contribution just as they would analyze the contributions of a husband, son, or non-farm investor, the national farm women's organization sued the agency in 1987. WIFE members argued that USDA regulations discriminated against married couples because they basically treated a husband and wife as one person when they applied for farm program payments — even though two unmarried individuals who farmed together, such as two brothers, would qualify for two separate payments.

The group won their case in district court, but the decision was reversed by an appellate court and upheld by the Supreme Court one year ago today.

Since that time, WIFE members have worked with Sen. Bob Kerrey (D-NE), Sen. Nancy Kassebaum (R-KS), Rep. Ron Marlenee (R-MT) and several other Congressmen to make changes through the legislative process. The 1990 Farm Bill contained a provision that would allow qualified farm spouses to be eligible for separate payments if they agree not to receive farm program payments directly or indirectly through any other entity. But because of budgetary concerns, this provision was made discretionary for the Secretary of Agriculture.

Yeutter also announced that individuals who inherit land that is enrolled in the long term Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) will get some relief under this rule change.

"In the past, heirs affected by the payment limitation were put in the difficult position of either selling the land or terminating the CRP contract when a family member died. The new procedure allows that payments received with respect to the inherited land will not be charged against the heirs own CRP payment limitation," Yeutter said.

Stuhr said there will undoubtedly be many questions about how these new rules will actually work once all of the final rules are written. She anticipates that Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Chief Keith Bjerke will address some of these concerns when WIFE's Board of Directors meets in Kansas City, January 25-27. Bjerke's speech is scheduled for Jan. 26, at the Embassy Suites Airport Hotel.

You are what you

Estate Planning

ELIZABETHVILLE (Dauphin Co.)— You can help your survivors through a difficult time upon your death if you deal with the hard financial facts before you die. Through careful estate planning and discussion of these plans with your spouse, parents, children, or others whom you want to share in your estate, you minimize and perhaps eliminate the confusion of settling financial affairs which must be settled soon after your death. You can also help prevent many bitter family quarrels.

A special estate planning seminar will be held on Thursday, January 24, at 7:30 p.m., in the Upper Dauphin High School, Elizabethtown.

Patricia Powley, financial management agent with Penn State Cooperative Extension, will discuss wills, record keeping, estate planning strategies, and tax laws in regard to estate planning.

Anyone, age 18 and older, should plan to attend (especially if you have children). There is no registration fee; however, to adequately plan for attendance, please call (717) 921-8803 to register.

Sampler Quilt Class

YORK (York Co.)— If you have admired the beautiful sampler quilt displayed at fairs and quilt shows, here's your chance to learn to make one. The Penn State Cooperative Extension Service is offering an eight-session class "Let's Make a Sampler Quilt" starting January 29, 10:00 a.m. at the extension meeting room in the County Departments Building, 112 Pleasant Acres Road, York. The class will meet every other week until May 7. Sheila Arnold, a member of the local Quilters Guild will teach advanced piecing and applique techniques as well as methods for marking and setting lap-quilted squares together. This whole quilt will be made without using any quilting frames. A knowledge of basic quilting skills is required.

Advanced registration is required. Call 757-9657 for more information on cost and registration.

HAPPENINGS

4-H Organizes Wildlife Conservation Club

On Saturday, January 19, 1991, a new 4-H Wildlife Conservation Club formed. The new group will meet at 9 a.m. at the Dauphin County Agriculture and Natural Resources Center, in Dauphin. All youth ages 12 to 18 are welcome to join.

This new 4-H Club will concentrate on educational and hands-on experiences with wildlife conservation. Some possible experiences include the eagle restoration program and the Middle Creek Wildlife Management Area.

This group is to be held by Keith Snyder, wildlife conservation officer for the Pennsylvania Game Commission, and Joel Myers, agronomist for the Soil Conservation Service, USDA. These two men bring a wealth of knowledge to our Pennsylvania wildlife and habitat group.

4-H Potato Team

The Adams County 4-H Potato Judging Team placed first at the annual state 4-H potato judging competition held at the 1991 Farm Show. The A Division team members were Mike Linebaugh, New Oxford; Todd Racey, New Oxford; Abe Bucher, New Oxford; and Dawn-Renea Hoffman, Gettysburg.

The individual placing for combined divisions are as follows: Mike Linebaugh was first place individual with 454.5 points; Abe Bucher was sixth place individual with 438 points; and Todd Racey was tied for tenth place individual with 427.5 points. The Adams County first place A Division Team score was 1,320. The score was seven points higher than the second place team.

The teams have been practicing for the contest for the last 12 weeks. The contest consists of: 1) deciding if each of 100 potatoes is either in or out of grade - a time and accuracy relationship; 2) identifying 20 potato defects on 40 potatoes; and 3) placing 2 classes of 4 plates of potatoes.

THANK YOU

A very sincere THANK YOU to the Pa. Swine Co-op, exhibitors and everyone who had a part in the award I received at the Farm Show for service to the Purebred Swine industry. This certainly was a surprise and an award that I will never forget. Again, thanks - it certainly was appreciated.

Also, thank you to the exhibitors and buyers at the 1991 Farm Show bred gilt sales - the best ever. The Yorkshire - Duroc - Large White

We are proud to have exhibited the 1st, 2nd and 4th top yielding Yorkshire carcass barrow at the recent Keystone International. Litter mate was 2nd at York County Carcass Contest. Also 2nd top cutting Duroc barrow at K.I.L.E.The Yorkshires and Swedish pedigreed hogs:
These animals offer leanness and lots of muscle.
They are backed up by super productivity in Sweden. Crossed with American bloodlines which are heavy-boned, thick made productivity oriented. These boars have excellent nipple quality with a desire to breed.We feel our Yorkshire and duroc boars have lots of good to offer the swine industry. If you sell grade and you yield, the Swedish hogs can help put money in your pocket. Scan figures by Mike

ALUMINUM FOIL INSULATION GUARANTEED FOR LIFE

Direct factory to you sale on 1 million square feet of lifetime Radiant Barrier aluminum foil reflective insulation. Designed for poultry & livestock buildings, metal buildings, hog farms, horse barns, cold storage houses, etc... Update & insulate your buildings. Makes a cleaner & healthier environment, lower mortality rate. You will never have to reinsulate again. Buy any amount for 23¢ a square foot while it lasts. Farmers, growers, contractors & dealers inquiries welcome.

10 REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD CONSIDER RADIANT BARRIER REFLECTIVE INSULATION

- 1) Our reflective insulation has an insulating value equivalent to conventional types of insulation 8 times as thick.
- 2) Completely eliminates condensation, even in metal buildings
- 3) Controls Heat - Keeps environment considerably cooler in Summer months and warmer in the Winter months. This will result in lower utility costs and healthier livestock.
- 4) Specially coated outer surfaces can take power washing
- 5) Resistant to stains, mildew, chemicals, abrasions and animal waste.
- 6) Light reflective, provides a brighter work place with less lighting requirements
- 7) Tough and durable, structurally very strong while still remaining flexible. Not affected by vermin, birds or any rodents
- 8) Ease of installation and maintenance, there are no special clothing requirements needed like gloves, masks or eye protection. all you need is a staple gun and razor knife.
- 9) Our reflective insulation surpasses all building code requirements. Fire resistant NFPA class A. UBC class 1. Flame spread 25. Smoke density 15.
- 10) Our reflective insulation is not affected by moisture, so you will never have to reinsulate again. Radiant Barrier has been designed to last forever. A smart investment that will pay you forever.

ATTENTION ON THE FARM MIXERS

Improve your dairy, beef and sheep rations by incorporating Mol Mix Liquid Supplements in your grain or total mixed rations. It's the proven liquid supplement formulated to provide your herd with lost cost, high quality balanced diets for top performance

MOL-MIX

- Adds palatability for top feed intake
- Eliminates dry, dusty rations
- Adds low cost protein
- Eliminates ration separation
- Adds needed phosphorus, vitamins and trace minerals
- Does not add bulk
- Will not build up on equipment
- Flows evenly the year round
- Requires a minimum of equipment

Stop in or call today for Mol-Mix and put palatability plus nutrition to work in your herd for top net dollar returns

OUR BEST VALUE TRAILER JUST GOT BETTER.

The new Wrangler. More aerodynamic. Better looking. And the strongest Wrangler yet. With top-quality components and rugged construction, this Wrangler is the best trailer value you can find.

• LIGHTWEIGHT- Eby stock trailers are 25-35% lighter than comparable steel trailers. Less weight means better fuel mileage or increased payload.

• MAINTENANCE- Eby aluminum trailers won't rust. Welding and painting can cost you dollars in down time and repairs.

• DURABILITY- Eby trailers are built tough. Quality components and 6061 alloy aluminum provide the ruggedness required in a livestock trailer.

Firestone The Leader in The Field

Super All Traction 23°

R-1

- New top-of-line bias-ply tractor rear, featuring our long bar/long bar design for tread stability, and heavy bar bracing to extend tread life.
- Long wearing and smooth riding, due to the more uniform, flatter contour of the long bar/long bar design.
- Proven 23° bar angle for traction and open center for self-cleaning.
- Bead and rim protector shields the rim to help keep stubble and soil from getting between the bead and rim flange.

Sauder's Places High In Egg Competition

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.)—Sauder's Eggs from Lititz had 14 entries at the Pennsylvania Farm Show. There were 204 total entries vying for egg honors in this year's show. With their 14 entries, Sauder's garnered 11 first place awards and three second place prizes.

In the commercial category of the competition, Sauder's entries won first place honors for best dozen white eggs, best dozen brown, and best five-dozen brown.

The five-dozen white entry captured a second-place ribbon.

The producer carton-and-pack competition, in which both the eggs and the cartons they're packed in are judged, resulted in another first place plaque and a second place ribbon. The plaque went to the dozen brown entry, while the ribbon went to Sauder's dozen white entry.

Sauder's entries swept first place honors in the packers carton and pack category, with first place entries in best dozen white, best dozen brown, best five-dozen white, and best five-dozen brown.

In the broken-out contest, Sauder's entries captured plaques for both their best dozen white and best dozen brown entries.

Sauder's Vice President Glenn Sauder was particularly pleased with his company's performance in the broken-out quality competition.

"In this contest," said Sauder, "the judges take two dozen eggs, actually break them open, and judge them on the merits of what's inside the shell. As far as I'm concerned, this is the ultimate test of egg quality."

Serving The Agricultural Industry For Over 20 Years

Is Wayne Co. Beef Association Needed?

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — A beef cattle producers meeting will be held Monday, January 28, at 8 p.m. at the Wayne County Extension Service at the Courthouse here.

All current beef producers, prospective beef producers, and interested parties are encouraged to attend. The purpose of the meeting will be to gather ideas and opinions from Wayne County and area producers as to the desirability and need of a county beef producers association.

The meeting will discuss the need for an association, the goals and purpose of such an organization, and the structure of such an organization.

Producers organizations are only as productive and beneficial as the members make them. Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture figures indicate that there are more than 300 farms in Wayne County with some beef cattle.

The small producer, as the majority of these producers are, can reap the greatest benefit from such an organization. We hope the majority of beef producers can find time to attend this meeting.

For further information, call the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service, (717) 253-5970, ext. 239.

Engine On Mid-Range H.P. Tractor Develops 22% Torque Backup

RICHLAND (Lebanon Co.) — "Massey-Ferguson is introducing the new M-F 362 tractor for farmers that prefer a four-cylinder engine in a mid-range horsepower tractor," said John Zimmerman of Lebanon Valley Implement in Richland.

The M-F 362 features a Perkins A4.236 four-cylinder diesel engine rated at 52 PTO horsepower. "This engine is smooth-running and efficient with plenty of reserve power," said Zimmerman, "and it develops over 22% torque backup to keep the M-F 362 moving where other tractors have to stop and shift."

A standard eight-speed manual transmission has eight forward working-speed ranges and two reverse. An optional eight-speed synchronized shuttle transmission has eight forward speed ranges and eight reserve speed ranges.

Shuttle shifts are synchronized for easier gear change without having to come to a complete stop, and the shuttle transmission is ideal for utility and chore applications where there is a constant need to change from forward to reverse.

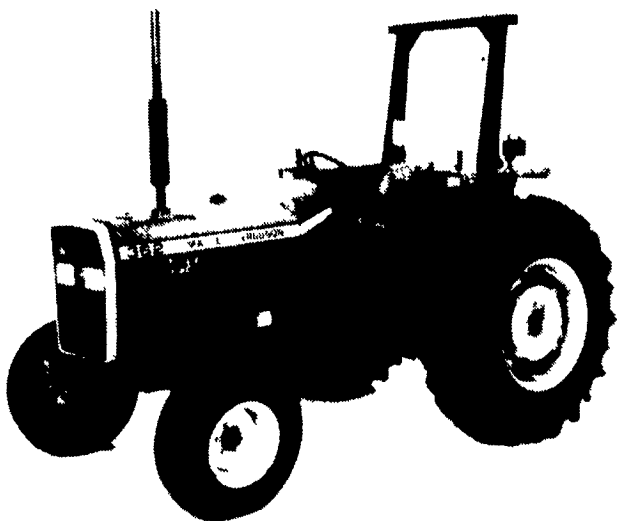

Standard features that add to the productivity of the M-F 362 tractor include hydrostatic steering, category 2 three-point hitch convertible to category 1, Ferguson system hydraulics, two auxiliary spool valves, and auxiliary hydraulic pump, disc brake/planetary reduction rear axle for maximum braking effort with minimal driveline stress, and differential lock.

At the operator station, a spring suspension seat can be adjusted for operator weight, fore and aft position, and height. All controls are easy to reach for maximum convenience, and a two-post ROPS and seat belt are provided.

Compact Diesels From Ford New Holland

The new Ford compact diesels give you more power than you'd expect from a compact diesel. They offer a bigger average cubic-inch displacement (CID) than leading competitors so the engine doesn't have to work as hard to generate its horsepower. And that means lower rated engine speeds, less wear and noise and better fuel efficiency.

Stop in and see the new Ford compact diesels. There's one just right for you.

Productive performer.

For performance, strength and durability, look to our Case 1840 Uni-Loader® skid steer. A 1350 lb rated operating load, with 50 net hp diesel engines and fast-cycling, responsive hydraulics form the basis for its productive superiority. Low profile, solid stance and 4-wheel hydrostatic drive keep you moving and earning everywhere there's work. And fast, accessible servicing keeps you working — not waiting.

- Low-effort, two-lever hand controls — no pedals.
- Maneuver, raise and dump simultaneously.
- 110.5" hinge pin dump height and 29.3" reach at full height make truck loading easy.
- Standard Case coupler for quick attachment change.
- Roll-out ROPS provides easy access to major components.
- Monitoring system keeps tabs on vital machine functions.

Early!

- 7:00 A.M. Arrive at the Dealership early for parts specials before the rush.
(coffee & doughnuts)
- 10:00 A.M. SEMINAR I "TMR & TODAY'S DAIRY HERD" RICHARD E. CARD, DVM
Dr. Card and his Jefferson Laboratories, Jefferson, Md., have long been acknowledged by peers and area dairymen as having had major input on the dairy industry in the areas of precision wet chemistry analysis, milk production, and dairy herd health. This presentation is a "must see" for the successful dairyman.
- 11:30 A.M. SEMINAR II "A LOOK AT LEASING" Ms. Jennifer Stafford
Leasing is an option for you to consider seriously in 1991.
- 12:00 NOON Lunch - Visit company representatives and displays. Purchase Parts.
- 1:30 P.M. SEMINAR III "THE ANIMAL RIGHTS ISSUE" KARL G. BROWN, PFA.
All you need to know but have been afraid to ask about the animal rights "movement". If you raise livestock or poultry; if you enjoy hunting, fishing, or trapping or if you apply chemicals to your farm, you will need to know what's been happening across the country. Unfortunately, ignoring this controversial issue will not make it go away!

SPECIAL NOTICE  CALL FOR RESERVATIONS

ATTENTION: DEERE, NEW IDEA, CASE IH, KINZE planter Owners, and prospective planter purchasers
This planter clinic will be staffed by Kinze Mfg. Service and Product Specialists, dealership personnel and representatives from allied suppliers. S.I. Mfg., Yetter, Buffalo, Etc. Heavy emphasis will be given to maintenance, upkeep, service and proper setting of planters for optimum operation.

BIG SAVINGS

NOW - Factory Discounts
NEXT YEAR - BIG PROFITS WITH YOUR REEL RAIN IRRIGATION SYSTEM

Now is the time to come in and make a special deal on the Reel Rain Irrigation system that's right for your operation. Factory discounts are in effect for a limited time and we're anxious to pass the savings along to you.

Adequate water at critical times during crop development is one of the most important factors in increased yields. Even in a normal high rainfall year, your yields may suffer if rain doesn't come at the right time. You are the BOSS when you give your crops the water they need when they need it. Invest in your future now. You will save BIG BUCKS for the whole family if you invest now.

OSWALT MODEL 333 RuffageMaster Ensilmixer

by J-STAR

EXTRA HEAVY DUTY — Designed to process those High Ruffage Materials — including Baled Hay into a fully blended feed ration!

Oswalt has taken its time-proven Commercial Style 4 Auger Ensilmixer — the Feed Mixer that has set new standards for performance and durability and put all of those features into the totally new High Performance RuffageMaster

- Tuff-Glide Side Liners
- Tuff-Glide Front Auger Bearings
- Tuff-Glide Lined Conveyor
- Hay Augers & Knives
- Oil Bath Drive & Grease Bank Lubrication
- Constant Velocity Tumbler Shaft
- Optional Tuff-Glide Bottom Liners
- High Capacity 40 inch Discharge Conveyor

Exclusive Tuff-Glide mixing chamber liners. You will probably never have to replace a mixer side or bottom (when lined with Tuff-Glide), because Tuff-Glide is not affected by acid and moisture and Tuff-Glide resists abrasion. Also, because the super low friction material is self-lubricating, it greatly improves mixing efficiency and capacity, while reducing the horse-power required to mix

Rugged Rear Drive

Massive, H.T. alloy shafts, bearings and chains on hardened sprockets are standard features on this rugged unit. Shafts are welded and permanently aligned in the auger tubing, eliminating flanged shimming to maintain alignment. All rear auger bearings are located inside the oil bath drive

Tuff-Glide Auger Bearings: The sleeve style front auger bearings, made from Tuff-Glide, require no grease and are not affected by moisture or acids

TORQUE AMPLIFIERS & CLUTCHES

- ★ New Wider Heavy Duty Super Sprag 1-1/32" Wide
- ★ 5 Yr. Warranty Against Sprag Failure
- ★ Introductory Price $695.00

We are pleased to announce a major improvement in TA strength & performance backed up by a warranty that is unmatched in the industry. The 5/8" width Dana sprag which we have used over the past 10 years has proven its ability to perform under the most adverse of conditions and has achieved results that have sent our competitors scrambling to keep up. By increasing the width of the sprag to 1-1/32" and caging it in a heavier frame, we now have an unmatched shock load capacity and dramatically raised our load carrying ability. Our studies have shown that 90% of TA problems are directly related to sprag failure. We feel that we now have the strongest sprag & best rebuilt TA available and it will be warranted as follows.

*5 yr - 100% parts & labor against sprag
*2 yr - 100% parts & labor on remainder of unit

Our standard heavy duty TA is still available at $645.00 and carries a *2 yr. - 100% parts & labor warranty.

* Certain restrictions apply and there will be a maximum labor pay-out of $450.00

We also have units & parts available to rebuild old style TA's, including ramp & carrier sets

NEW price on ramps & carriers - $200.00

PLY-FOIL is a very efficient form of insulation. In application after application it has proven to be extremely effective at controlling heat gain/loss, thus significantly reducing heating and cooling costs. PLY-FOIL Insulation uses an aluminum foil to reflect up to 97% of the radiant heat.

PLY-FOIL BENEFITS

PLY-FOIL products are clean, lightweight, and non-toxic; are unaffected by changes in humidity; do not shrink; and once installed require no maintenance. They do not promote the growth of fungi or bacteria, and provide no nesting support for rodent or insect pests. PLY-FOIL, which has a Class A/Class 1 fire rating, meets the fire and smoke safety requirements of most federal, state and local building codes.

Forage Program

- * 35 lbs. Corn Silage
- * 15 lbs. Alfalfa Hay

Grain Program

- * Sensenig's Custom Flaked Dairy made with Master Mix ProTek®
- * Topdress Testmaker 18 Hi Peak™

"The first two years I fed Master Mix ProTek, I gradually increased my production. This last year I switched my topdress from Testmaker 18 High Fat to Testmaker 18 Hi Peak and I saw the most increase. I also have better breeding by feeding the Hi Peak and the body condition on my cows is a lot better than it was this time last year.

"In my last year, my herd average went from 18,300 to 20,200 with my butterfat staying the same and my pounds of fat increasing. I started to feed Hi Peak in mid January and the cows were averaging 60 lbs. of milk with a 3.8 test. By mid February the cows were averaging 70 lbs. of milk with a 3.7 test. They continued to hold that production for four months until I turned them out on pasture when they dropped to averaging 67.5 lbs. of milk and a 3.6 test. I can't complain about the service at Sensenig's; in fact they have super service!"

Forage Program

- * 30-35 lbs. Corn Silage
- * 14-15 lbs. Alfalfa Hay

Grain Program

- * Sensenig's Flaked Dairy made with Master Mix ProTek® concentrate
- * Topdress Testmaker 18 HF

"With the lower quality hay forages I had last year, I decided to try a suggestion I heard at Sensenig's Dairy meeting. I fed heavier on the Testmaker 18 HF (about 6 pounds more) and I pulled back on my flaked dairy at the same time and my cows picked up right away. They really just took off! In April, I had 7 cows with 105 lb. average and they all held their backfat and most were bred back at the end of July.

"The cows' have good appetites and they clean up their feed. I have nothing to complain about with my butterfat tests. My butterfat has been running consistent the last couple of years while my production is increasing. From two years ago when I started with Sensenig's Feed Mill, I'm up a good 1500 pounds on my herd average."

Sam B. Lapp

Forage Program

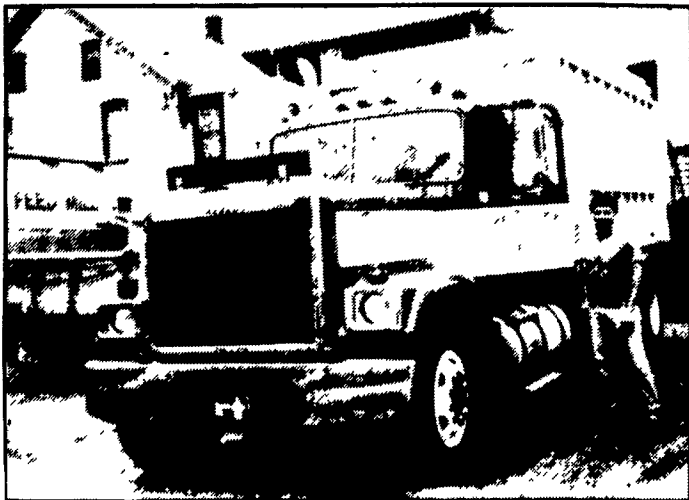

- * 30 lbs. Corn Silage
- * 15 lbs. Alfalfa Hay

Grain Program

- * Sensenig's Custom Flaked Dairy made with Master Mix ProTek®
- * Topdress Testmaker 18 Hi Peak™

"A year ago, my production was very good; however, I struggled with maintaining backfat on my highest producing cows. This year I switched from Testmaker 18 HF to Testmaker 18 Hi Peak. The Hi Peak pellets are holding the backfat on my cows a lot better than a year ago. My production on the Hi Peak is also very good. I averaged over 70 lbs. for 3 months and my butterfat stayed the same. My breeding is good, too, with my higher production.

"I can't complain about appetites. I think they eat really good. I also feed grain four times a day. Since using Hi Peak, I do not have to overfeed grain in late lactation like a year ago. I think I'll just stick to feeding Hi Peak."

ASCITES IN MEAT-TYPE POULTRY

H. S. Siegel
Professor of Poultry Science

Ascites (pronounced as-cite-ees), commonly known as "water belly," is a condition in which the abdominal area of the bird becomes filled with a clear or sometimes straw-colored liquid that may lead to the death or the condemnation of the carcass.

Although the incidence of ascites is greatly increased in the high altitude regions of the world, the condition is also becoming an increasing problem at lower altitudes.

A number of situations seem to influence the appearance of the condition: 1) Low oxygen tension (as occurs in high altitude); 2) poorly ventilated environment (as may occur in winter when windows or curtains are closed or restricted); 3) respiratory diseases; 4) rapid growth rates; 5) high energy rations; 6) toxins; and 7) some feed additives.

As can be seen from the above list, situations that physiologically create either an oxygen deficit or a demand for more oxygen seem to increase the possibility of ascites. This increased metabolic demand for oxygen exceeds the bird's cardiopulmonary (heart, blood vessel, and lung) capacity and the ascites syndrome can be triggered.

Research at Penn State by Drs. Robert Wideman, Robert Owen, and their colleagues using a hypobaric chamber that mimics the high altitude situation is studying the factors involved in ascites.

The researchers have been able to predict, in many cases, which birds are most susceptible to the condition by finding abnormal electrocardiograms (EKGs) in very young chicks long before the condition occurs. Interestingly, a GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — 1990-1991 membership in the Adams County Farmers Association (ACFA) is at an all-time high for this time of the year, according to John Hess, former ACFA president and current membership chairman.

As of the beginning of the year, the association had 756 paying members. The ACFA is an affiliate of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA), established in parallel condition called sudden death syndrome in turkeys — which is characterized by a round, flabby heart — may also be predicted by EKG measurement.

Further descriptions of the ascites condition in chickens can be found in the following scientific journals: "Zootechnica International," Vol. 11, pp. 58-62, 1988, R. J. Julian; "Avian Diseases," Vol. 34, pp. 754-758, 1990, R. L. Owen et al.; "Monsanto Nutritional Update," Vol. 6, No. 2, pp. 1-7, 1988, R. F. Wideman; and "Poultry Science," Vol. 69, pp. 741-745, 1990, D. A. Witzel et al.

1950. PFA represents agricultural interests in Harrisburg, Washington D.C., and at the county level, with the support of more than 23,000 families.

"The PFA and the national organization to which it belongs — the American Farm Bureau Federation — enables its members to shape events beyond the fence line," Hess said.

"On the county level, the membership committee is strongly urging all members of ACFA to contact and sign up as many new members as possible to continue the deep and solid foundation between the public and the farming neighborhood," he said.

One incentive this year is to give away commodity baskets, consisting of produce and other goods made and raised only in Adams County, to three lucky winners in a membership incentive drawing in January.

Products within the baskets will be donated in part or in full by the association's membership, Hess said. The ACFA Membership Kickoff Campaign began in earnest with a special meeting held at Spangler's Truck Stop, north of Gettysburg, in December last year.

The ACFA membership committee includes Hess; Elmer Smith, from the New Oxford area; Jack Bream of Orrtanna; Evelyn Waybright of the Barlow area; and Herb Lady of Biglerville. "But there's a whole lot more people out there in the different townships helping out," Hess said.

"We are requesting members of the organization to donate produce or other goods as a part of the basket to demonstrate the varied and widely-known agricultural products that are produced by members of the farming community in Adams County," Hess said.

Anyone who would like more information or who would like to donate goods contact the association's secretary, Pamela Ketterman, at (717) 337-2845.

When Feed Prices Are Low, Who Wins?

MILTON MADISON
Asst. Professor
PSU Poultry Science

Poultry producers are fond of complaining when feed prices increase. With feed prices representing up to 70% of on-farm production costs, who can blame them! But are lower feed prices better? Perhaps all meat producers — poultry producers in particular — need to reconsider their complaints.

My colleague Lou Moore enjoys quoting the meat industry forecasting equation: low feed prices lead to low meat prices which lead to tough times for meat producers. All meat producers have seen this equation hold true, and because poultry producers can expand production quickly, they see the effects much sooner than beef and pork producers. But the initial effect of lower feed prices is increased profits, which is the part producers remember and look forward to.

The toughest economic hardships often come at the end of an expansion cycle when producers face low meat prices and higher feed prices at the same time. The initial effect here is that producers become less profitable because of higher feed costs, and again that is what producers remember and dread. The various meat production groups are usually at different stages of expansion when the price-cost squeeze on profitability comes, so it has always been hard to judge which producers are being hurt the least and which the most.

Two USDA agricultural economists, Richard Stillman and Mark Weimar, formulated the annual livestock model to examine questions such as, What happens to meat production when feed prices are lower? Which meat producers profit from lower feed prices and which lose? The researchers examined what would happen to livestock production groups if feed prices dropped by 10% and stayed at that level for 11 years. Their results were reported in the October 1990 issue of "Agricultural Outlook."

The early results are familiar because they are seen fairly often. All producers take steps to expand future production and take advantage of lower production costs to increase profits. Broiler, turkey and pork producers, because of their animals' shorter reproduction cycles, increase production within the first year and continue to expand for the first several years. Beef producers, in order to expand, first retain breeding stock from potential meat animals, so their production during the first year will actually be lower than it would have been without expansion.

When examining actual market occurrences, results of a feed cost decrease in later years are harder to observe, since they are often clouded by additional feed price and consumer taste fluctuations. In the Stillman and Weimar model, other variables are controlled so the effects of the feed cost reduction are not distorted. Results of the 10% feed price decrease are compared to a base case in which feed prices remain constant.

The research results hold some interesting implications for broiler and turkey producers. The efficiency with which these birds utilize feed, compared to other meat animals, makes feed price declines work against producers. Throughout the 11 years considered, broiler and turkey production continues to increase. However, when compared to the constant feed price projection, poultry production increases by less when feed prices decline.

For the consumer, lower feed prices mean more total meat production and a gradual decline in meat prices. After some initial meat price increases for beef and turkey, meat will be selling for about 2% less than it would have if feed prices had not decreased.

When net returns to producers are examined, poultry producers benefit from higher returns for the first three years and then have lower returns for the rest of the 11-year period. Poultry producer's earnings for the entire period are lower than they would have been if feed prices had not declined.

Beef and pork producers, however, earn higher returns for the entire period than they would have if feed prices had not declined. By the ninth year beef and pork returns are nearly the same as they would have been without the price increase but earlier returns are substantially higher. These results indicate poultry producers have an advantage when their competitors have to pay higher feed costs.

Corn, Soybean Conference Set

NEWARK, Del. — Conference participants at the 1991 Delmarva Corn and Soybean Technology Conference will be in for a treat — donuts fried in soybean oil.

A donut machine, on loan from the Virginia Soybean Association, will be set up to demonstrate soybean oil's use in cooking at the conference on Wednesday, Feb. 13, at the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center in Salisbury, Md.

Jerry Kennedy, executive director of the Mid-Atlantic and Virginia Soybean Association, will be staffing the booth. According to Kennedy, the donut batter is made of wheat flour, soy flour, potato flour, and corn sweetener, which is then fried in pure soybean oil donated by Perdue Farms Inc. Soybean Oil Refinery.

Kennedy says the proof of soybean oil's usefulness is in the donut. "These are the best donuts you can get," he said. "They're excellent."

The theme of the 1991 conference, "Future Opportunities in Corn and Soybeans", will offer plenty of innovative information.

The doors open at 8:30 a.m. with a chance to visit exhibits including the donut machine. At 9:50 a.m., Derby Walker, chair of this year's conference, will give a brief welcome at 9:50 a.m. At 10 a.m., the formal conference will begin with featured speaker Wayne Humphreys, an Iowa farmer and humorist.

Dr. Marshall McGlamery, extension weed scientist from the University of Illinois, will discuss identifying corn problems. At 11:15 a.m., David R. Drennan, field service director of the National Corn Growers Association, will discuss new uses for corn and corn products.

Immediately preceding the noon lunch break, Frank Webb, extension weed specialist at the University of Delaware, will present two scholarships. One will be awarded to a Delaware college student, and the other will go to a student from Maryland.

The afternoon program will begin at 1:15 p.m. with Jay Vroom, president of the National Agricultural Chemical Association, who will speak on regulations regarding storage, transportation, and handling of pesticides. At 1:45 p.m., Mitch Woodward, advisor on nutrient management at the University of Maryland, will discuss the quick soil nitrate test and its use on the Eastern Shore.

University of Delaware plant pathologist Bob Mulrooney will discuss new problems with the soybean cyst nematode. At 2:30 p.m., Ron Mulford, farm manager of Poplar Hill at the University of Maryland, will discuss high management wheat. The meeting will adjourn at 3 p.m.

In addition to the formal program, a trade show and machinery exhibit will allow conference members a firsthand look at many of the new products used in corn and soybean production.

Entrance to the conference is free. Lunch will be available only to those who have purchased lunch tickets. The tickets, at $3 per person, are available at all county extension offices in Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia. They must be purchased by February 6.

Association Achieves 94 Percent Of Membership Goal

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — "We have 636 members in the Chester/Delaware Farmer's Association, 94% of our goal," Linda Hicks, West Chester, told board members at their January meeting were held recently.

"The goal is 675 members for the two counties," Hicks said. A membership rally for Region 1 will be held February 7.

In other business, the board made plans for the spring meeting, selected 10 priority policy issues, gave dates for Washington and Harrisburg meetings with legislators, and announced regional meetings for members and board.

Charles Moore, Cochranville, will head up plans for the spring dinner and meeting. David Herr, Parkesburg, will assist.

Eligible members will visit their legislators in Washington on March 6 and 7. To be eligible, members must attend the legislative update meeting Monday, February 11 at Yoder's Restaurant in New Holland.

Among the priority issues recommended for action by the board were wetlands, taxes (both property and school), public interference with private property, and deer damage. Alternative sewage treatment and public education were suggested as topics for research by the Pennsylvania Farmer's Association.

The Young Farmer and Rancher Spring Conference will be held Feb. 25-27 in Harrisburg. The program will focus on the legislative process as well as learning programs on policy development and rural leadership networking.

To assist farmers and their wives in participating in the election process, a "Winning Election Day Seminar" for state and local political candidates and campaign managers will be held Jan. 30-31 at the PFA office in Camp Hill. Participants will learn how to choose a "winning" candidate, organize for success, finance the campaign, and develop campaign strategies.

The seminar is designed for campaign managers, candidates for state or local office including judges, district justice, county commissioner, country row officer, township supervisor, or school board member. Details may be obtained from any farmer's association director.

Crawford Appointed Exec. Director

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Citing his extraordinary background in agriculture, Rep. Kenneth J. Cole, D-Adams, announced the appointment of Steve Crawford as executive director of the House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee.

"I'm very excited to make this announcement," said Cole. "With Steve's knowledge and background, I am very fortunate to have his guidance and wisdom as I begin work as chairman of this committee."

Most recently, Crawford has served since 1989 as deputy secretary of the State Department of Agriculture. Prior to that, he was executive assistant and policy director to Agriculture Secretary Boyd E. Wolff. Before joining the Department of Agriculture, Crawford was director of government relations with the Pennsylvania Farmers Association.

In accepting the position, Crawford said he is looking forward to working with Ken Cole. "I have known Ken for a long time and have a high degree of respect for him. I am familiar with the issues facing farmers and growers throughout the Commonwealth. Together, Ken and I can work toward keeping agriculture strong in rural Pennsylvania."

Crawford said, "I've enjoyed working for the Department of Agriculture and for Governor Casey. I am eager to continue working with the agriculture community in a different kind of partnership."

New Center Flex Folding Planter From KINZE

WILLIAMSBURG, Iowa — New economical 8- and 12-row folding planters, featuring center flex, modular design and a simple, dependable contact drive system, were recently introduced by KINZE Manufacturing, Inc., Williamsburg, IA 52361.

The new KINZE Model 2200 Flex Econo-Fold® provides up to 20° of flexibility for greater adaptability and versatility on all types of contours or terrains, including terraces.

The big-capacity planters come equipped with six large 7.50"x20" tires for maximum balance flotation and handling. They feature heavy-duty double (8-30") and triple (8-W, 12-30") folding markers controlled hydraulically through a sequence valve which alternates the row markers automatically. The marker system operates independently of the dual master/slave hydraulic system.

The 2200 toolbar is constructed with heavy 7"x7"x½" wall tubular steel. The hitch is built with twin 4"x7" tubing and HD 2½" diameter flex hinge pins. One-inch thick plates and 2½" vertical pins keep the wings aligned for easy mechanical folding. A single heavy-duty eyebolt on each wing locks them in the planting position.

Easy-access seed transmissions are mounted on each end to set planting rates for each half of the planter and allowing you to maintain more consistent populations in contours. Optional electrical point row clutches allow you to shut off either half of the planter.

4-Wheeler Can Tow To 850 Pounds

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.— The addition of a high and low range with reverse gear drive system makes the Polaris Trail Boss 250 a tough four-wheeler to beat anywhere.

This Boss combines all the quality features of the original Trail Boss 250, but with even greater utility.

Its 250cc engine hunkers down in low range to let you mow a field, tow a load, or climb a tough trail. The standard high-low range with reverse gear system is set to maximize the torque and power of the fan-cooled engine.

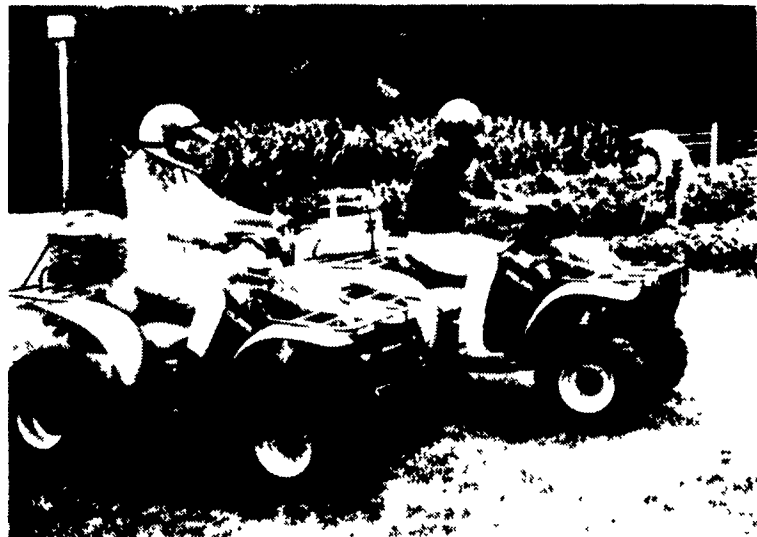

In high range the Trail Boss 2x4 becomes a sporty utility four-wheeler that lets you enjoy the advantages of its terrain-smoothing MacPherson strut front suspension and 6.25 inches of travel. At the rear, you have 8.5 inches of travel from a progressive action suspension.

Because you need to concentrate on the job at hand while working, Polaris engineers made the Trail Boss 250 and all other Polaris four-wheelers simple and efficient to operate. One lever controls the all-wheel hydraulic disc braking system. The Polaris Variable Transmission selects an infinite number of gear ratios to match power to the job. The ETC lets you throttle down to a crawl if necessary for selected chores and protects against sudden stuck throttles.

The Trail Boss 2x4 is a respected workmate. It features 22-inch front tires and 24-inch rear tires that are fitted for traction and ground clearance. The standard racks provide up to 125 pounds rear rack capacity and another 75 pounds capacity on the front rack.

The standard tow hitch has a tongue capacity of 30 pounds and a towing capacity of up to 850 pounds. The Trail Boss 2x4 with its high-low range with reverse gear system can haul in work supplies to a hard to reach work site, camping gear to a remote cabin, or do heavy everyday chores around the farm or ranch.

The Trail Boss 2x4 features 22-inch front tires and 24-inch rear tires that are fitted for traction and ground clearance. The standard racks provide up to 125 pounds rear rack capacity and another 75 pounds capacity on the front rack.

Cooperation Important In Feed Grains Trade

Washington, D.C. — In light of the changes occurring around the world, teamwork is increasingly becoming the key to ensuring continued success in world trade into the 1990s and beyond.

The theme of the U.S. Feed Grains Council's 31st annual board of directors meeting, "Teamwork Shapes Tomorrow," reflects the need for this cooperation. The meeting will be held February 10-13, 1991, at the Hyatt Regency in San Antonio, Texas.

The meeting's speakers will address recent changes in agricultural legislation and changes in the global trading picture. Their presentations will confirm the importance of a united effort among producer, private sector, government and associated groups to the ongoing success of agricultural trade.

The 1990 farm bill ensures a continued legislation commitment to the agricultural sector's export efforts. USDA Undersecretary for International Affairs and Commodity Programs Richard Crowder will discuss the administration's interpretation of the new farm legislation, particularly as it applies to export programs and U.S. competitiveness in the world marketplace.

Congressman Charles Stenholm (D-TX) also will discuss the new farm bill. As an active member of the House Agriculture Committee, Congressman Stenholm is in a special position to comment on the affect the farm bill — particularly the trade title — will have on the future of agricultural trade.

The changing face of the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe are of great importance to the agricultural community. Dr. Vladimir Fisinin, general director of Plistestrom, the Soviet Union's poultry industry, is scheduled to address the meeting. He is in a position to lend valuable insight into the changes underway within the Soviet poultry industry as well as Soviet agriculture in general.

An industry-wide panel of agricultural experts will discuss the present and future state of U.S. agriculture. William Kirk of Dupont, George Jones with the American Seed Trade Association, Dave Thompson from Burlington Northern Railroad Company, and Charles Nelson of Bunge will comprise the panel.

Other meeting highlights include a presentation by Foodwatch Chairman Larry Sitzman, who will address food safety. Two presentations will be made by council members who traveled on missions within the past six months. A participant from the corn utilization mission which traveled to Southeast Asia will discuss opportunities in that region for industrial uses of corn. Also, a member of the fact-finding mission which traveled within Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union will address prospects for U.S. feed grains exports within that region.

The latest update of the Council's World Feed Grains Demand Model Forecast, prepared by Sparks Commodities, Inc., will be presented at the meeting. Also, the chairmen of the three national commodity groups which comprise the Council — National Corn Growers Association, National Grain Sorghum Producers Association, and National Barley Growers Association — will all report on their group's efforts.

Facilities, Handling Make Livestock Programs Work

SCHAUMBURG, Ill. — Restraining facilities and handling practices that minimize stress on livestock provide the key to implementation of an effective herd health program that will increase profitability, according to the American Veterinary Medical Association (AVMA).

"Facilities should be designed to make it safe and easy to perform the essential herd health procedures — vaccination, deworming, pregnancy checking, bull breeding soundness examination, etc. — that will significantly increase the livestock producer's return on investment," said Dr. Leslie R. Douglas, D.V.M., of Arcata, Calif., a member of AVMA's Public Relations Council.

"Poorly designed facilities or rough handling practices will cause stress that can undo much of the value of a herd health program by contributing to reduced weight gain, lowered conception rates, and increased sickness," Douglas said.

"Rough handling of livestock is not only inhumane, but can cause excessive losses due to sickness and slower growth," said Dr. Temple Grandin, Ph.D., department of animal sciences, Colorado State University, Ft. Collins, Colo.

"Bruises at the packing plant cause slowdowns in the production line and economic loss. Careful handling of livestock in all phases of production is prerequisite to a profitable business," Grandin said.

Grandin, who also operates Grandin Livestock Handling Systems, Inc. in Ft. Collins, said minimal facilities for livestock handling include a complete squeeze chute, not just a head gate, an alleyway leading to the squeeze chute, and a set of corrals.

"For producers handling only a few animals, the alleyways and corrals can be rudimentary, but herd health care is virtually impossible without a headgate or a squeeze chute. And a complete squeeze chute provides better control and is less stressful for the animal," Grandin said.

Dr. Duane N. Rice, D.V.M., extension veterinarian, University of Nebraska, Lincoln, Neb., suggests that facilities should have a holding lane with solid sides high enough to prevent the animals from seeing moving objects or people outside the facility, a crowding pen, and a single-file lead up chute.

"Before any equipment construction begins, the producer should consult with his veterinarian to determine how elaborate the facility should be to accommodate the health care procedures planned. The cost of better quality equipment will be more than offset by preventing the loss of one animal or averting a single operator injury," Rice said.

Grandin bases her approach to the design of livestock restraining facilities on some basic principles of animal behavior:

- Vision: Livestock have wide angle vision and are easily frightened by shadows or moving objects. They are sensitive to light and will move from a dimly illuminated area to a more brightly lit one, provided the light is not shining directly in their eyes. They have color perception and will balk at changes in color, so handling facilities should be painted one uniform color.

- Noise: Livestock are more sensitive than people to high frequency noises, and unexpected noises can cause losses in weight gain.

- Isolation: All livestock are herd animals, and they are likely to become agitated and stressed when they are separated from each other. Cattle and sheep are motivated to maintain visual contact with each other, and they will follow the leader.

Understanding these behavioral principles is the key to good handling practices now followed by only about 25 percent of producers, according to Grandin.

ASCS Provides Option To County Farmers

YORK (York Co.) — Farmers and others involved in York County agribusiness may exchange expired commodity certificates for cash. The new provision affects "subsequent holders" of the certificates.

A subsequent holder is a person other than to which the certificate is issued. Prior to this announcement, expired commodity certificates held by subsequent holders were worthless.

Certificates expiring 1-6 months prior to application for cash redemption will be redeemed at 85% of face value. Those expiring 7-18 months are redeemed at 50% of face value. Certificates expired longer than 18 months are ineligible for a cash exchange. Applications must be submitted by May 28, 1991.

One special situation is noteworthy at this time. Certificates expiring on May 31 and June 30, 1990 are eligible for 85 percent of face value, and those expiring on May 31 and June 30, 1989 are eligible for 50 percent of the face value. Application for cash redemption in this category must be submitted by January 31, 1991.

Anyone that believes they have CCC commodity certificates falling into these categories should call the York County ASCS Office, at (717) 755-2801.

Silo Rods Provide

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaster Level-Flo, Inc. announces the introduction of Tuff Gard™ powder-coated silo rods.

Powder coating provides a super-tough, weather resistant surface. In a harsh salt-spray test conducted by an independent laboratory, rods with Level-Flo's powder coating lasted over three times longer than ordinary galvanized rods before they showed any rust.

Other independent tests compared Lancaster Level-Flo's new powder coated silo rods to rods currently on the market and found them comparable in size and tensile strength. The new Tuff Gard™ powder coated rods, therefore, are completely compatible with existing construction techniques.

A secondary benefit of the new powder coated silo rods is that all residue from manufacturing is thoroughly inert and environmentally safe. The by-products of traditional galvanizing processes are extremely hazardous.

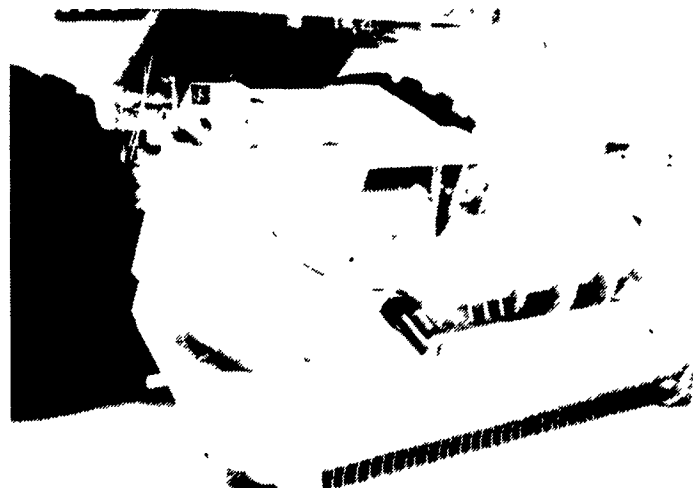

Lancaster Level-Flo offers a full line of silage handling and distribution equipment, including the Multi Flo™ silage spreader. For more information, contact Kris Knudsen, sales manager, Lancaster Level-Flo, 25 Eby Chiques Rd., Mount Joy, PA 17552, (717) 653-2239.

Wider Pickup For New Holland Harvester

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Ford New Holland's new Model 340W Super-Sweep windrow pickup for the 270HP Model 1915 and 325HP Model 2115 self-propelled forage harvesters is 106 inches wide with 144 closely spaced curved pickup tines. The new head has ample capacity to handle double windrows or wide unranked swaths and is sized for convenient transport between fields and on the highway.

The Model 340W head is new from the ground up, said Ford New Holland product manager, John Oehler. This head is designed for positive feed to the harvesters for full capacity haylage-making under a wide range of crop and field conditions. It features a quick-change three-speed auger drive and a dual torque clutch that has added torque in reverse for quicker plug discharge. Optional cab-controlled electrically powered lift kit allows raising or lowering on-the-go to match varying crop conditions.

The new Model 340W windrow pickup head fits Model 1915 and 2115 self-propelled New Holland forage harvesters. The 106-inch wide unit has 144 closely spaced curved tines for large windrows or unranked swaths. Three-speed auger drive and dual torque clutch help provide large capacity.

The 340W is designed for durability and simplified maintenance, Oehler said. The pickup has an open back for easy reel area access. Tine guards are ganged in seven-guard units that can be removed or replaced by four bolts. Pairs of tines can be replaced by removing a single bolt.

Livestock Notes

International Expert Will Speak To Cattle Feeders

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Dr. Temple Grandin, an internationally recognized livestock handling consultant and designer of livestock handling facilities for cattle, sheep, hogs, horses, and buffalo, will be the keynote speaker at the annual Lancaster Cattle Feeder's Day on Tuesday, February 5, 1991 at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center.

The event, open to anyone interested in cattle feeding, begins with exhibit visitation at 8:30 a.m. The educational program kicks off at 9:30 with H. Louis Moore, Penn State extension economist, concerning the outlook for cattle feeding.

Grandin will present topics addressing "Basic Cattle Handling Skills" and "Economic Incentives to Reduce Losses" aimed at equipping cattle producers with ideas to better protect their investment, improve marketing, and increase profits.

Dr. Grandin, an assistant professor of animal science at Colorado State University, has international experience as a consultant with Grandin Livestock Handling Systems.

She has worked with clients in 30 states, and Canada, Mexico, New Zealand, Australia, Denmark, England, Sweden, Norway, China, Saudi Arabia, and Finland as a designer of livestock handling facilities. Grandin, who received her Ph.D. in animal behavior at the University of Illinois, has consulted locally with Moyer Packing, Taylor Packing, and Hatfield Quality Meats in design of their receiving and handling facilities.

Cattle Feeder's Day will also include updates on the beef check-off, the Pennsylvania Cattleman's Association, and animal welfare issues.

The meeting is being conducted by Penn State Cooperative Extension and sponsored by Dauphin Deposit Bank, Hamilton Bank, and Keystone Farm Credit. Lunch will be available. The meeting concludes at 3 p.m.

Keystone Promotes Maihan

BALTIMORE, Md. — The Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore, is pleased to announce the promotion of Paul Maihan to vice president research/planning.

A native of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, Paul received his B.A. degree and M.A. degree in economics from Duquesne University. Paul began his career as a research economist for the National Association of Realtors and as an economic analyst for the Federal National Mortgage Association and Commercial Credit Company.

Paul joined the Farm Credit

Bank of Baltimore in 1979 as a research analyst to establish the bank's research function and, in 1980, was appointed director of research. In 1982 Paul assumed a major portion of the bank's planning function and was named assistant vice president research/planning. Paul has assisted in forging a more effective district planning process.

Additionally, Paul teaches economic analysis at the University of Baltimore, and is a member of the National Association of Business Economists.

Alpine Goat Takes Best Doe Of Show

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff
HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — An Alpine doe owned by a Montgomery County woman was named Best Doe in Show at the 75th Farm Show goat show, besting other top animals from five breed classes.

There were 188 entries at this year's goat show, down slightly from 1990's 191 entries, due to some scratching off of exhibitors whom officials said dropped out because of weather conditions.

Pondmere NW Galant, a 2½-year-old home-bred Alpine from the 13-animal herd of Harold and Joan Stump, in Telford, was presented the top title by judge Judy Quagliana, of Westfield, N.Y.

"We've had best-in-show before," Joan said, "but not at the Farm Show. This is our first really big win at the Farm Show and we're really excited. Because of the weather, we weren't sure we were going to come, but we're glad we came."

The Stumps and many others, not only goat exhibitors, but a number of dairy and cattle exhibitors, were stranded in the Harrisburg area with Friday's snow, freezing rain and poor driving conditions.

Joan said she didn't mind staying until travel became safer on Saturday morning.

"I don't want to risk my top animals driving on bad roads. I'm glad they (Farm Show officials) have allowed to keep them here (the goats in the large arena)," she said.

Joan Stump said Galant was one of 11 goats she entered in competition. Galant had won a junior champion and reserve grand champion of her breed during last year's goat show. This year, Galant's daughter was named junior champion of the breed.

In addition to making their own cheese and butter and drinking the milk, for the past 5 years, the Stumps have been feeding the milk to an average of four organically-raised pigs. They raise the pigs every year for butcher and usually keep a half a pig, every other year, for their own consumption.

"I don't like to dump milk," Joan said. "In using the milk to raise other animals, we considered between calves and pigs, and pigs are easier where we are."

The reason they picked the Alpine breed for their herd was through trial, Joan said. "We started with Alpines, dabbled in Toggenburg and Nubian and then decided on Alpines."

She said she got interested in goats only after she and Harold bought the property they have and built a barn.

"I lived in the country growing up. Harold used to work on several dairy farms and you can't afford to go into dairying without mortgaging your life away. When we bought the property and built the barn, we started considering raising animals, but we don't have enough area for cattle or sheep. Then I got interested in goats."

The Stumps' herd has been on Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA) testing for the past three years.

According to Joan, Galant's first test on this current extended first lactation was 8.2 pounds of milk a day. She peaked at about nine pounds and is expected to produce about 2,000 pounds.

The couple do use some artificial insemination in their Alpine breeding program, but do keep a buck for stud.

In other decisions at the Farm Show goat event, the reserve grand champion Alpine was a 3½-year-old doe, Shahena Ko Sasin Neon, owned by Fred and Anne Leader of Wellsville, York County, which had also come in second to Galant in the Alpine class competition for 2- to 4-year-old does in milk.

Galant's junior champion Alpine kid was Stump Hollow TS Beltane, shown by Harold Stump.

There were 15 exhibitors within the Alpine breed, representing 12 different families.

The Nubian goat breed saw the most exhibitors with 17 individuals registered under 15 separate addresses.

Taking the top title for the Nubians was Starfires Trixies Sarah *M, a 2½-year-old doe in milk, owned by Helen Snyder, of Newport, Perry County.

The reserve champion of the Nubians was also a Snyder-family entry, Starfires WFZ Cosmic Kiss, owned by Kassie Snyder.

Entries from Lorraine Yankovich, of Emmaus, Lehigh County, took both the junior champion and reserve junior champion titles in the Nubian breed.

The junior champion was Jasper Hollow Super Nova, and the reserve junior champion was Jasper Hollow Mar M'Lady.

In the Toggenburg breed, Rockspring Lucilla Lucy, owned by Ann Miller, also of Telford, Montgomery County, was named grand champion doe. Reserve grand champion doe was Miller's Rockspring Licilla Lucy, a 3-year-old doe in milk.

Junior champion and reserve junior champion kid titles in the Toggenburg breed went to entries from Pat Lowe, of Kempton, Berks County. Lowe's Nippenose Future Tiffany was junior champion and Nippenose Flashy Amanda was reserve.

In the La Mancha breed, a 2½-year-old doe in milk, Kidding Hills AB Jamelle, owned by Clarence and Lorraine Eschbach, of Bethel, was named grand champion doe. An Eschbach entry also took reserve junior champion kid.

The reserve grand champion was an entry from Ann Miller, Rockspring S Delit Dinah.

La Mancha junior champion kid was 40 Crossing HCDA Ariel, an entry by Nancy Trimer, of Alexandria, of Huntingdon County.

All other purebred goats were clumped together in a division and the grand champion of that division was a doe in milk under 2-years-old owned by Edward Solters, of Huntingdon County. The doe's name is Country W K Rosies Shasta.

The reserve grand champion was from Trimer, 40 Crossing CH Ditto.

Entries from Trimer also took both the junior champion kid and reserve junior champion kid ribbons.

In the recorded grades division, the grand champion doe was Shepherd Noels Fudge, a 2½-year-old doe in milk owned by Janet Shepherd, of Newburg, Cumberland County. Fudge was ousted from competing for best-doe-in-show by champion challenge entries. An entry from the Eschbachs took first place in the grades, while a Miller entry was second.

The reserve grand champion recorded grade was Bri-Ra-Bar FP Neks Nickel, a 1½-year-old doe in milk owned by Katie Evanchalk.

The junior champion grade was Amor Cyclones SM Madame, owned by Clarence and Lorraine

Eschbach. The reserve junior champion was Adelphia Shems Feline, an entry from Michael Layaou.

New York Ag Show Ready To Go

Lancaster Farming Saturday, January 19, 1991-D13

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — New York State is known as the Empire State. But only those in the field of agriculture know that New York State's number one industry is agriculture.

It is only fitting that New York State hosts a special indoor agricultural show which boasts over 225 agricultural exhibitors from across the country.

Starting Thursday, February 21 through 23, the New York State Fairgrounds in Syracuse will host this mid-winter show.

At last year's show, more than 20,000 farmers and others interested in Northeast agriculture came to see the latest in agricultural technology.

This year the show will be expanding into a third building. "We are looking forward to bringing the latest in modern agricultural technology to the farmers in the Northeast," said Scott Grigor, Farm Show manager. "With the additional third building, we can expand our show to include more machinery and other innovations."

Another highlight of the New York Farm Show will be the 2nd annual Farm Show Toy Auction to be held on Friday evening at 6 p.m. February 22 at the Arts and Home Center Building. Toy trucks, tractors, and farm equipment will be auctioned off by Steve Wright, Sidekick Auction Service, from Trumansburg, N.Y. Proceeds from the auction will be donated to the New York FFA Alumni Scholarship Fund.

The New York Farm Show will open its doors starting at 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily. The show is co-sponsored by the New York Farm Equipment Dealers Association and American Agriculturalist. Tickets are available free from local equipment dealers and other agribusiness organizations or by mail. Send request for free tickets with a legal-size, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Scott Grigor, show manager, New York Farm Show, P.O. Box 347, Syracuse, NY 13220.

Insulation Reflects Heat Rays

HANOVER (York Co.) — Energy World, Inc. recently introduced Radiant Barrier aluminum foil reflective insulation.

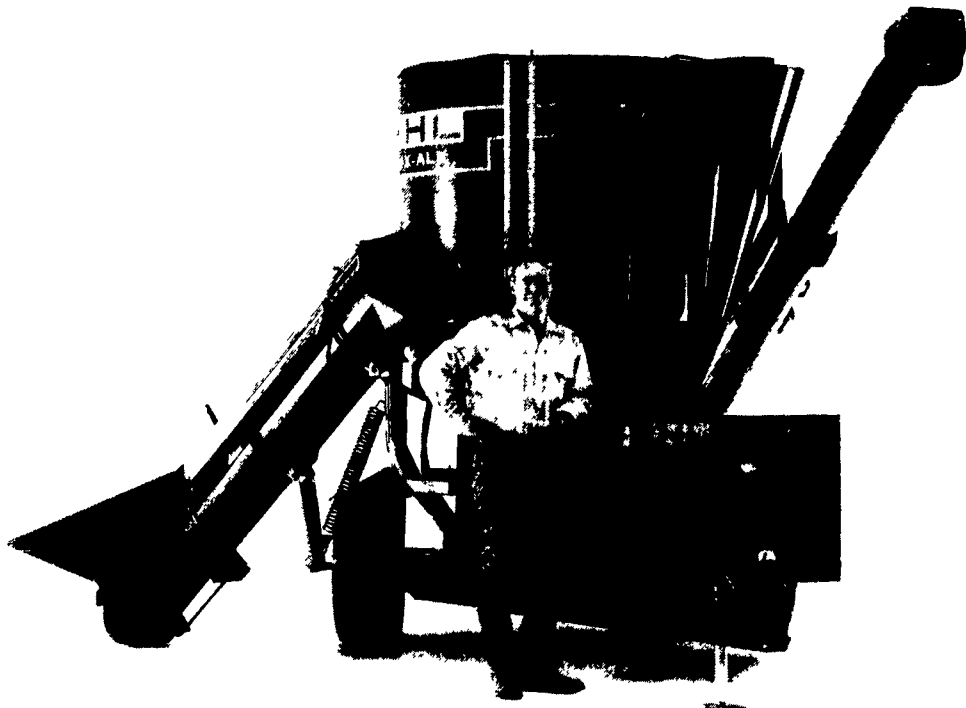

The insulation completely eliminates condensation and is designed to stop approximately 95% of all radiant heat rays by reflecting them back in the direction they came from.

Radiant Barrier insulation is constructed of plastic "double-bubbles" which are covered with aluminum foil.

In addition, Radiant Barrier insulation has an insulating value equivalent to conventional types of insulation, which is eight times as thick. It surpasses all building code requirements—fire resistant NFPA class A, UBC class 1, flame spread 25, smoke density 15 — according to the manufacturer.

The insulation is not affected by moisture, chemical abrasion, or animal waste. The specially coated outer surface of the insulation can take high pressure cleaning and is tough and durable.

Radiant Barrier insulation also controls heat, and keeps the environment considerably cooler in summer months and warmer in the winter months, resulting in lower utility costs and healthier livestock.

Most Mix-All owners will never buy another.

In fact, you'd probably have a hard time convincing Gehl Mix-All® owners to even look at anything else. And why should they?

The Mix-All's big 21-inch wide hammermill features 66 reversible thin hammers that cut, rather than pound the feed to deliver a more consistent grind and ensure uniform mixing for a better feed conversion rate.

Gehl's self-contained hydraulic system is designed-in, not added on. It provides the precision of infinitely variable in-feed attachment control to match tractor power for greater grinding capacity. Plus you get fast, smooth, trouble-free unloading with greater reliability.

And a wide variety of options and attachments lets you customize your Mix-All to fit any operation.

See your Gehl dealer for more details on the model that's right for you. It may just be the only grinder-mixer you'll ever need.

Value Of Lime In Soil Explored

MILAN, Ohio — Wilbur R. Franklin, one of the nation's foremost soil authorities and director of research of Growers Fertilizer Solutions, will present a low input agriculture seminar on January 24 at Country Buffet in Denver, Pa., beginning at 9:30 a.m.

According to area representative Melvin Martin, Franklin will focus the seminar on the value of calcium (lime) in the soil complex, a widely discussed but little understood relationship which research has shown to be of vital importance to the regulated growth of plants resulting in greater yields and higher quality agricultural products.

Franklin brings to this seminar 42 years of on-farm practical research culminating in a well-founded understanding of the low-input sustainable agriculture (LISA) approach and how it is best implemented by farmers who rely on soil productivity for their living. His education came partially from working with Dr. V.A. Tiedjens, author of the authoritative "More Food From Soil Science" and the developer of liquid and solution fertilizers.

Franklin, a published researcher and nationally known scientist, will also discuss tillage, soil compaction, water retention, and nutrient availability. His presentation will also include an analysis of the impact of environmental issues on area farmers and information on how to conserve soil nutrition while eliminating environmental concerns.

Franklin will point out that horticulturists have, for years, utilized foliage application of nutrition. He asks, "Why have farmers working with corn, soybeans, alfalfa, wheat, and other main-line crops ignored this highly practical and efficient approach which is so successful in other agricultural areas?"

The seminar, expected to conclude at 3 p.m. will allow for questions concerning specific plant nutrition problems.

York Co. Announces Grain Program Provisions

YORK (York Co.)—U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter has announced initial 1991 Grain Program details, according to Wayne Beshore, chairperson of the York County ASC Committee.

"The Secretary's announcement was in accordance with the recently enacted Food, Agriculture, Conservation and Trade Act of 1990, said Beshore.

Specific details announced include the Acreage Reduction Program (ARP) requirements of 15 percent for wheat, 7.5 percent for corn, barley and grain sorghum, and zero percent for oats. Advance cash deficiency payments will be available to participants and represent 40 percent of the total estimated earnings for the program year. Also crop bases and yields are used as in the previous farm act.

New provisions beginning in the 1991 crop year include annual or perennial cover on 50 percent of the required ACR and the "triple base" concept. Triple base provides that deficiency payments shall not exceed 85 percent of a crop base minus the required ACR. Also an additional voluntary 10 percent option is available. Crops planted on this 0/25 flex are not eligible for payment, are considered as planting history for the applicable participating program crop, and are eligible for nonrecourse loans.

A sign-up in early March is anticipated, but no specific dates are available now. York County farmers interested in this program can contact the York County ASCS Office at 120 Pleasant Acres Rd. in York, (717) 755-2801.

ELANCO Sets Pesticide Meeting

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — The Eastern Lancaster County (ELANCO) School District Adult Farmer Program will sponsor a pesticide update training meeting where growers can obtain 4 credits (2 core and 2 category). The meeting will be held on Tuesday evening, January 22, 1991, at the Blue Ball Elementary School, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Don Robinson, instructor, will present information on pesticides and pesticide safety dealing with general field crop production.

New products for corn, hay, soybeans, tobacco, wheat, and pastures will be discussed.

Several new products are now available to deal with problem weeds troubling area growers. Control of the western corn rootworm will be discussed. This pest appeared in large numbers last growing season and should be of concern to growers in 1991.

New families of pesticides are being applied in minute amounts, sometimes less than an ounce per acre, making measuring and calibrating vital. These topics along with other safety measures will be presented to earn core points.

The meeting is open to all interested growers. Licensed private applicators are reminded to bring their license number with them. The Blue Ball Elementary School is located about one mile east of Blue Ball on Ewell Rd., between routes 23 and 322. For further information, call the Adult Farmer Office at (717) 354-4525.

Leadership Schools Promote Study Of Environment

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Each Summer, high school students from across the state enjoy camping while they study conservation of the environment at Penn State's Conservation Leadership Schools.

The Conservation Leadership Schools are two-week outdoor workshops for students age 15 to 18 years old who are interested in natural resource management and conservation issues.

Faculty and students stay at Penn State's rustic Stone Valley recreation area. They camp in platform tents with bunks and concrete floors, and use the Civil Engineering Lodge and heated bathhouses. The educational setting includes a 72-acre lake, 700 acres at Stone Valley, more than 7,000 acres of the University's Experimental Forest, and Penn State's University Park Campus.

Classes are held primarily out of doors, where students study forestry, water quality management, energy production and use, wildlife management, soil analysis and use, recycling and waste management, speleology (study of caves), and more.

The Advanced Conservation Leadership School emphasizes leadership and problem solving. It is for students who have completed the two-week Conservation Leadership School or an equivalent program. Students should be 16 to 18 years old and have a basic understanding of environmental issues.

The instruction involves groups of 8 to 10 students supervised by a faculty member. All faculty members have academic backgrounds and experience in resource management. Representatives of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission, the Pennsylvania Game Commission, and Penn State academic departments provide additional programming.

The dates for the two-week Schools are School I, June 30-July 13; School II, July 14-27; and Advanced School, August 1-10.

The fee for each School is $245 ($300 for non-Pennsylvania residents).

For more information, contact Tamsin Crissman, Penn State Continuing Education, 102 Wagner Building, University Park, PA 16802, (814) 865-3443.

Drawing Offers Free Use Of Tractor

YORK (York Co.) — York Farm Credit, ACA and Waltemyer's Sales & Service, Inc. of Red Lion have teamed up to offer an unusual prize to attendees of York County's 1991 Corn Clinic.

The prize is one free week's use of a new 120 h.p. John Deere 4255 tractor. This tractor will be on display at the York County 4-H Center during the Corn Clinic that will be held on Wednesday, January 23, 1991, between 8:30 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Farmers can register for the tractor drawing at the Farm Credit display in the 4-H Center during the Corn Clinic. For more information, contact York Farm Credit at (717) 792-2641 or Waltemyer's Sales & Service at (717) 244-4168.

Alfalfa Yields 9.2 Ton Per Acre

YORK, PA — Gene Hohl, Seedway, Inc.'s director of marketing, reports Medallion has topped the Penn State yield trials conducted at Landisville, PA with a 9.28 ton per acre yield for the 1990 growing season. The variety also topped the two year average with an 8.48 ton per acre yield. These yields surpass the performance of all commercial varieties tested in Pennsylvania since trials were established in 1984. Medallion is marketed by Seedway dealers throughout the Northeast.

SIMPLE AND ACCURATE

The New 9000 Air Planters By New Idea

Positively Accurate

Our positive air metering system is the most simple and accurate planting system available today. There are no fingers, belts, or seals. The only moving part is our edgedrop seed disc so the system is easy to maintain.

Simple Preparation

Planting preparation has never been so simple. You can quickly shift sprockets to adjust seeding rates. The depth control adjustment is easy to reach and requires no wrenches. And our new 2 bushel hoppers let you spend more time planting, and less time refilling.

For your FREE New Idea 9000 Air Planter Information Kit Call 1-800-767-3221.

I'll prove the new 9000 Air Planter is simple and accurate.

BARN PAINTING
Aim For The Best -
In Coating Film Thickness

To do it right use the finest kind of bristle brush evening out the coating into a film thickness that does not peel in normal moisture stress (found on most barn siding from outside and inside by livestock or stored animal feed.)

1. PREPARATION. Peeling old coatings (improperly brushed) needs to be removed. The best again is simply water blasting or power washing! High volume of water - medium pressure is best! Done professionally or do it yourself, especially on the easy to reach areas

2. MAKING A NEW START spray on brush in painting on the renewed surface or resurfaced wood siding. The above mentioned AIM of coating thickness can prevent future peeling and resurfacing cost & effort. Simple, old fashioned brushing does most of the trick. This film will let moisture breathe through it. Depending on the amount of weather wear it can be recoated lightly in 10 years or more. Southern exposures usually wear faster

Program Ready For Pa. Corn Conference

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — The fifth annual Pennsylvania Corn Conference program includes a variety of speakers that will update corn growers on many of the key issues that have developed this year.

Topics included in this year's program include the 1990 Farm Bill, The Clean Air Bill, and wetlands regulations. The program will also address important aspects of farm management and grain marketing.

The conference will be held on Thursday, February 28, 1991, at the Penn Harris Inn and Convention Center in Camp Hill. More than 400 corn growers and ag dealers are expected to attend. In addition, more than 30 commercial ag exhibitors will display their latest products. The conference is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association and Penn State Cooperative Extension.

The program will be kicked off by Keith Heard, executive vice president of the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA). Heard is the corn growers representative in Washington, and has been watching the development of the 1990 Farm Bill. He will address how to set aside programs, target prices, crop base requirements, and environmental issues in the new Farm Bill, and other legislation that will affect the corn grower.

Eric Vaughn is with the Renewable Fuels Association in Washington, D.C. He has been very interested in the recently passed Clean Air Bill, and its impact on the future of ethanol production in the United States. This recent legislation mandates the increased use of oxygenated fuels, including ethanol, and promises to provide a considerable new market for corn. If you think ethanol production will have little impact, consider this.

NCGA estimates that more than 300 million bushels of corn will be used for ethanol production in 1991, roughly three times the annual corn production of the state of Pennsylvania. Vaughn will provide current information on corn as a source of fuel.

The program will also feature three different breakout sessions that conference participants can attend. Top-notch speakers have been selected from outside Pennsylvania. The first speaker is Dr. Howard Doster from the ag economics department at Purdue University. Doster is best known for his efforts in directing the highly acclaimed Purdue Top Farmer Workshop. He will address one of the most difficult issues for many Pennsylvania corn growers "Sizing Machinery to Fit Your Farm and Operation."

The second breakout session will be a farmer panel that consists of top corn growers from Maryland, New York, and Ohio. They will discuss the key points to managing a successful corn growing operation from the whole farm perspective.

The third breakout session will address how the futures market can be included in a farm marketing plan. Jeff Campbell, from the Chicago Board of Trade (CBT), will review the basics of agricultural options. Campbell and his colleagues at the CBT present this complex subject matter in simple and easy to understand fashion.

The afternoon program will include a brief update on the activities of the Master Corn Growers Association in Pennsylvania, followed by a repeat of the breakout sessions. The afternoon will conclude with a discussion of "Wetlands and the Corn Grower - What You Need to Know" presented by Mr. Dave Putnam of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. There have been many changes in wetland legislation in the past year. Putnam will explain which agencies are involved in wetland regulations, and what the implications are for the corn producer.

The conference program will begin at 9:30 a.m., and conclude at 3:15 p.m. A ticket price of $8 covers the cost of lunch and registration. Tickets should be purchased in advance from county extension offices. For more information, call Paul Craig at (717) 921-8803.

Tillage Tool Keeps Surface Residue Intact

KEWANEE, Ill. — Kewanee introduces its new deep till heavy duty tillage tool. It combines parabolic shanks on 30-inch centers with 32" wide wings that provide complete cutting and soil-lifting action across the full width of the machine. The wings and shanks team-up to lift subsoil and shatter the soil profile. But the surface residue remains relatively undisturbed. Wings use replaceable plowshares for simple maintenance. The 2500 deep till is available in 3, 5 or 7 shank models that stretch from 7.5' to 17.5'. Contact Kewanee Farm Equip. Co., P.O. Box 746, Kewanee, IL 61443.

A New View Of Rootworm Control

Now's the time to look at rootworm control in a whole new way. Only LORSBAN* 15G granular insecticide gives you the rootworm control you're looking for, yet is one of the least hazardous to handle of all soil insecticides. LORSBAN 15G is the only leading granular, at-plant insecticide with a CAUTION signal word and is not Restricted Use.

For a new view of rootworm control, as well as control of other crop-damaging insects, see your ag chemical dealer for LORSBAN 15G.

Now, the best protection you can get for your corn crop leaves all other insecticides in the dust. Introducing new NO-dust COUNTER® 20CR® systemic insecticide-nematicide. The revolutionary new COUNTER 20CR blends the proven active ingredient of COUNTER® systemic insecticide-nematicide throughout a unique new controlled-release pellet formulated with soybean oil.

Unlike Lorsban¹, Dyfonate² and Force³, these new pellets won't crumble during shipping and handling. So there's NO dust accumulation.

Each pellet is uniform in size and shape for consistent flowability. So application is more accurate. And the new pellets are heavier and more dense than clay granules for more precise, even distribution. For banded applications, COUNTER 20CR is the best choice for your corn crop.

Since the active ingredient is blended throughout the granule, protection is released smoothly and uniformly for consistent, long-lasting control, regardless of the weather, either banded or in-furrow. So, forget about rootworms. Forget about dust. Get NO-dust COUNTER 20CR.
